Truce Negotiations Resumed

Rhee Holds Out After New Talks With Gen. Clark

SEOUL, Friday, July 10 (AP) — Communist and Allied negotiators resume today their disrupted parleys seeking to halt the Korean War, but still unanswered is the big question—will South Korea support a truce?

The negotiators meet at Panmunjom at 11 a.m. (9 p.m. EST, Thursday) two years to the day after the full truce teams first started talks aimed at ending the costly war now in its fourth year.

Convening after a 20-day break since their last full-dress meeting, the negotiators are expected to start ironing out details for supervision of a truce, and possibly soon chose a date for signing ceremonies.

Reds To Ask Guarantee

A Peiping Red radio broadcast, quoting a "special correspondent" at the Reds' truce camp north of Panmunjom, said the Allied side would be asked at today's meeting what measures would be taken to guarantee that the South Korean government would not wreck any agreement.

"Signature is almost the only thing waiting for the Korean armistice agreement," the broadcast said.

President Syngman Rhee, reported to have been handed a secret letter yesterday by Gen. Mark Clark, apparently continued holding his line against United Nations cease-fire plans. The Republic of Korea President says a truce without Korea unification would mean death to South Korea, unless the U. S. provides certain safeguards.

Rhee Standing Firm

A highly placed ROK source last night told Associated Press Newsman Bill Shinn that talks between Rhee and U. S. Special Envoy Walter S. Robertson "remain stalemated." Rhee and Robertson have been secretly conferring 15 days.

"President Rhee still is insisting that South Korea must have from America concrete assurances that Korea will be unified, peacefully or otherwise," the ROK source told Shinn.

"That is the President's first requirement and the one which has not been met by America."

Priest, 21 Students Missing In Andes

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 9 (AP)—Rescue parties searched in vain today for a Catholic priest and 21 of his students lost for two days in the storm-swept Andes. They were on a hike when the winter storm broke.

The storm brought heavy rains to cities in the lowlands. Hundreds of persons are homeless in Santiago because of landslides and swollen rivers.

Congress Votes Aid For Farmers In Drought Area

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Emergency loans of $2,500 and up to farmers and ranchers in the drought-stricken Southwest were approved by the Senate and House today in different bills.

The legislation removes the present $2,500 ceiling on such loans and provides, as the only limitation, that loans above $50,000 must be approved by the secretary of agriculture as well as by local screening committees.

Government May Buy Cattle

The Senate action followed announcement by Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), chairman of the agriculture committee, that the government will start buying live cattle later this year if other moves to halt a decline in beef cattle prices fail.

Aiken said Secretary of Agriculture Benson has more than 100 million dollars that could be used for buying live cattle but Benson is reluctant to take the step.

Sen. Anderson (D-NM), a former secretary of agriculture, told the Senate yesterday that if the government went into the cattle buying business "every cow would be owned by the secretary of agriculture within 24 hours."

House Vote Is 388 To 4

House passage of the emergency loan aid bill was by the overwhelming vote of 388 to 4.

Minor differences between the Senate and House versions will be sent to a conference committee for adjustment.

The Senate acted by voice vote after its bill had been stalled for the second successive day by an argument over what to do about surplus cattle.

Sen. McCarthy Says CIA Blocking Inquiry

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) charged on the Senate floor today that the hush-hush Central Intelligence Agency was blocking him from an investigation of a key CIA official he said contributed $400 to the Alger Hiss defense fund.

McCarthy named Allen Dulles, CIA chief and a brother of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, as the prime obstacle holding up an inquiry by his Senate investigations subcommittee.

The Wisconsin senator asserted that William P. Bundy, a top aide to Allen Dulles and son-in-law of former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, made a $400 contribution to the Hiss fund.

Plans To Subpoena Dulles

McCarthy said he intends to subpoena Dulles to find out whether the CIA director has laid down a ban against CIA employes testifying before congressional committees.

Declaring he had been informed that Dulles had set such a policy, McCarthy told the chamber:

"This is the most blatant attempt to thwart the authority of the Senate I've ever heard of."

Dulles later sent word to newsmen that he had no comment on McCarthy's statement. Bundy could not be reached for comment.

Hiss Serving Perjury Sentence

McCarthy charged that Bundy contributed money to help defend Hiss, a former high-level State Department official, who is now serving a five-year sentence for perjury.

Hiss was convicted of lying when he swore he never slipped government secrets to a Soviet spy ring.

McCarthy said Bundy gave three written reasons for his contribution to the Hiss fund:

1. That it would help out his father-in-law, Acheson.
2. That it was "imperative"—as McCarthy put it—to "exonerate" Hiss.
3. That the trial was "important" to the Democratic party.

Things Ironed Out For Stranded Boy

WASHINGTON, Okla., July 9 (AP)—Eight-year-old Allen Lamar Reeves is tickled to be able to go back to his "Granddaddy Lane in Georgia" but he said today he wants to take his horse Queenie with him.

Allen has been stranded in Oklahoma the past six months because folks couldn't understand where he lived because of his Georgia accent. It sounded like "Sherman," or "Sellman" or "Shellman."

Finally, through the aid of Oklahoma Rep. John Jarman, who contacted Georgia Rep. E. L. Forrester and Shellman Mayor W. R. Puckett, things have been ironed out.

Allen's granddady, John Lane, is sending money for him to fly to Shellman.

The child was left at an Oklahoma City nursery home by his mother, who paid a month's board and then did not return. Since January, he has been living on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Allen D. Smith near here.

Ike Flies To Texas Today For Drought Conference

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower will fly to Texas tomorrow to meet with governors of drought affected states.

Shortly before 7:50 p.m. EST the White House announced the President has accepted the invitation of the governors of the drought affected states to meet w'th them at Amarillo, Tex.

The White House statement by Press Secretary James Hagerty follows:

"The President has accepted the invitation of the governors of the drought-affected states to meet w th them tomorrow afternoon, Friday, July 10, at Amarillo, Tex.

"The President will fly to Amarillo tomorrow morning. He will be accompanied by the secretary of agriculture and the administrator of the Federal Civil Defense Administration. The governors attending the meeting will be those of the states of Arizona, Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas. Sections of these states already have been declared disaster areas.

"Eight million dollars has already been allocated from federal emergency funds.

"In accepting the invitation of the governors the President specifically requested the chief executives of the six states to forego any plans for official or public reception while the President is in Amarillo.

"Instead the President wants only to confer with the governors on the critical drought situation and to receive their suggestions as to how the federal government can further co-operate with the states and those affected by the disaster.

"The President plans to be in Amarillo during the afternoon and will return to Washington that afternoon."

Army Wants 23,000 Draftees In September

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—The Army today issued a draft call for 23,000 men in September. The quota is the same as the ones previously announced for July and August.

The new call brings to 1,515,430 the total number drafted or earmarked for induction since selective service was resumed in September, 1950.

Except for 81,430 drafted for the Marine Corps in the 10 months ending May, 1952, all of the inductions have been by the Army.

Book-Burning Probed

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) said today a Senate civil liberties subcommittee is looking into charges by Corliss Lamont, New York philosophy lecturer, that 19 copies of his books were burned in a Chicago riot last April 12.

M'Carthy Acts Quickly To Let Helper Resign

Eisenhower Comes Close To Crackdown On Wis. Republican

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower, in the closest he has yet come to a crackdown on Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, today accused McCarthy's newly chosen right hand aide of violating "principles of freedom and decency" in attacking thousands of Protestant clergymen.

McCarthy swiftly announced that he had accepted the resignation of the aide, J. B. Matthews, longtime controversial hunter of people he calls Reds.

Heavy Blow To Senator

The whole incident, which found Eisenhower joining leaders in the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religions in condemning a magazine article by the man McCarthy has lauded as "a star spangled American," was considered a heavy blow to the Wisconsin senator.

Even before Eisenhower spoke out, McCarthy had shown signs of backing away from his avowed determination to keep Matthews as the $11,600 a year staff director of the Senate investigations subcommittee.

A majority of the subcommittee had demanded Matthews' scalp for writing in the American Mercury that in the last 17 years the Communists had enlisted 7,000 Protestant clergymen as spies, Communists, fellow travelers or dupes. As Matthews put it Protestant clergymen "are the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus."

McCarthy Had Blocked Firing

But until today McCarthy blocked the firing of Matthews. Pointing out that in the body of the American Mercury article, Matthews had said the vast majority of the clergy were loyal, McCarthy insisted that he alone had the power to hire and fire employes like Matthews.

Today, however, he said he would leave the decision up to the subcommittee. That was before the Eisenhower denunciation.

Allies And Reds Stage Blazing Artillery Duels

SEOUL, Friday, July 10 (AP)—Blazing artillery duels today carried into the fourth day the battles for two Allied-held hills in Western Korea to 45 miles north of Seoul.

As of midnight last night, the Reds—attacking in rotation with 1,000 man forces against each position—still held small gains on ridges leading to the crests of American-defended Porkchop Hill and Arrowhead Ridge, defended by South Koreans.

Front-line officers estimated the Reds already have fired 100,000 shells or more since the attacks began at 10:45 p.m. Monday night. Allied artillery was reported matching or over-matching the Reds at all points.

Officers of the two defending Allied divisions—the U. S. 7th on Porkchop, the South Korean 2nd on Arrowhead—estimated that each had received from 40,000 to 50,000 rounds of Red artillery shelling and possibly more.

The Reds' prodigal use of artillery on a narrow front, patterned somewhat after the great Russian barrages of World War II, presented Allied infantry with a difficult task.

Not only must they defend themselves in the open against Red infantry charging through its own barrages but Allied counter-attacks against deep-bunkered Reds had to be made up shell-swept slopes.

Taft Progressing

A New York Hospital bulletin said the senator was cheerful and able to lie semi-upright to read his newspaper.

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) today proposed a return to the gold standard, abandoned in 1933 under former President Franklin Roosevelt.

Britisher Calls For Conference With Malenkov

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Britain's acting foreign secretary, the Marquis of Salisbury, and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault arrived today for the Big Three foreign ministers' conference and Salisbury promptly gave notice his government wants a meeting with Russia's Premier Malenkov this year.

"We're in favor of four-power talks but the timing is a matter for discussion," he told a throng of reporters at the airport.

He said Britain's ailing Prime Minister Churchill is "improving daily" from his illness and should be able to attend four-power talks this year.

Talks Open Immediately

Salisbury's forthright remarks made it clear that the subject of a top-level cold war meeting with Russia would figure in the American-British-French strategy talks which open tomorrow at the State Department.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles are known to be far less enthusiastic about meeting the Russians across a conference table until Moscow demonstrates by "deeds" it is ready to change its past aggressive policies.

Dulles, who joined British Commonwealth diplomats in greeting Salisbury at the airport, sought to play down differences with the British on how to deal with Russia.

Big 4 Meeting Not Mentioned

In his wetcoming remarks, the American secretary avoided any mention of a Big Four meeting and said he hoped the foreign ministers' talks would iron out "what little differences there are" between Britain and the United States.

Salisbury, a tall bespectacled Britisher, diplomatically made no reference to meeting with Russia in replying to Dulles' welcoming speech. But, the British diplomat noted "there are a few differences which we may wish to iron out."

It was in answer to a flurry of questions from reporters afterward that he talked about a possible top-level Big Four session.

Dulles Says Big Cut Would Doom U. S. Aid Program

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, pleading for five billion dollars in new foreign aid funds, told Congress today that any substantial cuts would cause lapse."

Then the nations of the free world, he said, would have to try to "go it alone," and he declared:

"Some countries won't be able to go it alone and will fall prey to Soviet communism. Then in two or three years, we'll be back up here with a program that will make this one look like peanuts."

If the free nations in Europe are pulled into the Soviet bloc, he said, "the risk of war will be very much greater."

Senators Complain

Testifying before the Senate Appropriations Committee, Dulles vigorously defended the administration's request for $5,200,000,000 in new aid funds. Some senators complained they were tired of "give-away programs" and "dumping money abroad."

Dulles ran into heavy fire from Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) who asked him to review the program with an eye to further reductions.

McClellan, noting that 60 countries are scheduled to get U. S. aid in the pending legislation, declared that some of the beneficiaries could be eliminated entirely and allotments to others cut sharply in view of the nation's heavy financial burdens.

"Critical Situation"

"This is a critical situation," McClellan said. "Our taxes are the highest we've paid, our expenditures are the highest we've ever had in peacetime, and we've just rolled up the greatest peacetime deficit we've ever had."

Despite Dulles' plea against reductions, Chairman Bridges (R-NH) asked the Cabinet official to restudy the situation in line with McClellan's suggestion.

Iron Curtain Fund For Ike Is Proposed

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Rep. McCormack (D-Mass) today proposed giving President Eisenhower a 300 million dollar fund and blanket authority to use it as he sees fit for "positive action" in capitalizing upon unrest behind the Iron Curtain.

McCormack, deputy Democratic House leader, said unrest in East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia have "given us our first big break" in the cold war.

Earthquake Recorded

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—The Columbia University seismograph today recorded an earthquake of moderate intensity in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean.

The single shock, at 4:29.37 p.m. (EST), was 2,000 miles east of New York, southwest of the Azores, in a submarine mountain chain.

Barber Shortage Is Acute; Day Of Appointments Seen

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP) — Bad news today for all men who prefer not to cut their own hair — the shortage of barbers is becoming acute.

This news flows direct from that well known news fountain, the barber shop, in this manner:

A shaggy haired fellow dropped around to a shop in one of the capital's best known hotels. The shop's owner said he was selling out, that he couldn't find adequate help.

"Nobody wants to be a barber anymore," he said glumly, between snips. "Everyone wants to be a television repair man."

Charles J. Bovello, secretary-treasurer of the Washington local of the AFL Barbers, Hairdressers, Cosmetologists and Proprietors Union, said:

"I'll say there's a shortage, and it isn't just here. I'm a delegate to our national convention. Same thing everywhere."

Bovello said that this spring, for the entire Washington metropolitan area with a population of around 1¼ million, only 12 youngsters were graduated as barbers.

"Six of these," Bovello said, "plan to go somewhere else, to West Virginia, places like that. Of the other six, at least three have some other job in mind. They don't want to be barbers."

Obviously the supply is running out.

And what happens next?

Do we let our hair grow into the Buster Brown curls of Christopher Columbus' day?

Will there be a run on milk crocks, size 7¼?

Will baldness become not a threat but a necessity?

"I don't know," Bovello said.

His best guess as to the future: that barbershops will operate on appointments only. In this way a barber could work steadily and make enough money to live on without hanging around the shop for 10 or 12 hours a day.

Chief Of Soviet Secret Police Held For Trial

Acted In Interests Of 'Foreign Capital'; Kruglov Successor

LONDON, Friday, July 10 (AP)—Moscow radio announced today that Lavrenti P. Beria, one of the Kremlin's big three since the death of Stalin, has been fired as chief of the secret police and is being held for trial as a traitor.

L. P. Beria

The broadcast said the action was taken after a recent review by the Communist party of "criminal and anti-state activities" by Beria in the interests of "foreign capital."

The radio said Sergei Nikiforovich Kruglov has been appointed to succeed Beria as minister of home affairs which controls the secret police.

The broadcast said Beria was sacked as "an enemy of the party and the Soviet people."

Official Communique

The announcement was credited to the official Soviet news agency Tass and was in the form of an official communique from the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party.

Beria has been one of the three ruling Russia since Stalin died. The other two are Premier Georgi Malenkov and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

The announcement that Beria, security chief for the Soviet Union and largely responsible for keeping order in the satellites, was fired came as news of smouldering revolt spread through all the satellites.

The news also coincides with the presence in the Soviet Union of top Russian authorities from rebellious East Germany and of the Soviet Union's top diplomats recalled from Western capitals for consultation.

Purge Foreshadowed

There have been many reports of fights in the Kremlin for supreme power between Beria and Malenkov. These were heightened two weeks ago when Beria failed to show up for a gala ballet performance attended by both Malenkov and Molotov.

The purge of the bespectacled mild-appearing secret police chief was foreshadowed Monday by an article in the government newspaper Izvestia which said a Soviet leader who didn't pay proper attention to theory had his days numbered.

The paper named no names, but it now appears that Beria was meant.

The radio broadcast said the decision to drop Beria from the Communist party—which almost certainly means his finish as a government power—was taken after a recent Central Committee meeting where Beria reported on the recent disorders in East Berlin.

No Agreement On Refugee Bill

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee was unable to reach agreement today on an administration bill to admit 240,000 refugees and other immigrants to this country but several senators said progress was being made.

Three possible areas of compromise are being explored by the committee, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill), told reporters.

These efforts, he said, are centered around the number of aliens to be admitted, the definitions of those to be made eligible for admission, and the duration of the legislation. Dirksen and other members of the committee said they felt progress toward agreement was being made.

The committee, which has been meeting in closed session, will meet again tomorrow.

The bill as now drafted would admit 240,000 persons, over and above existing immigration quotas, during he next two years. Those admitted would include those who have been expelled or have escaped from behind the Iron Curtain and Greek, Italian and Dutch nationals.

M'Carthy Acts Quickly To Let Helper Resign

Eisenhower Comes Close To Crackdown On Wis. Republican

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower, in the closest he has yet come to a crackdown on Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, today accused McCarthy's newly chosen right hand aide of violating "principles of freedom and decency" in attacking thousands of Protestant clergymen.

McCarthy swiftly announced that he had accepted the resignation of the aide, J. B. Matthews, longtime controversial hunter of people he calls Reds.

Heavy Blow To Senator

The whole incident, which found Eisenhower joining leaders in the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religions in condemning a magazine article by the man McCarthy has lauded as "a star spangled American," was considered a heavy blow to the Wisconsin senator.

Even before Eisenhower spoke out, McCarthy had shown signs of backing away from his avowed determination to keep Matthews as the $11,600 a year staff director of the Senate investigations subcommittee.

A majority of the subcommittee had demanded Matthews' scalp for writing in the American Mercury that in the last 17 years the Communists had enlisted 7,000 Protestant clergymen as spies, Communists, fellow travelers or dupes. As Matthews put it Protestant clergymen "are the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus."

McCarthy Had Blocked Firing

But until today McCarthy blocked the firing of Matthews. Pointing out that in the body of the American Mercury article, Matthews had said the vast majority of the clergy were loyal, McCarthy insisted that he alone had the power to hire and fire employes like Matthews.

Today, however, he said he would leave the decision up to the subcommittee. That was before the Eisenhower denunciation.

Allies And Reds Stage Blazing Artillery Duels

SEOUL, Friday, July 10 (AP)—Blazing artillery duels today carried into the fourth day the battles for two Allied-held hills in Western Korea to 45 miles north of Seoul.

As of midnight last night, the Reds—attacking in rotation with 1,000 man forces against each position—still held small gains on ridges leading to the crests of American-defended Porkchop Hill and Arrowhead Ridge, defended by South Koreans.

Front-line officers estimated the Reds already have fired 100,000 shells or more since the attacks began at 10:45 p.m. Monday night. Allied artillery was reported matching or over-matching the Reds at all points.

Officers of the two defending Allied divisions—the U. S. 7th on Porkchop, the South Korean 2nd on Arrowhead—estimated that each had received from 40,000 to 50,000 rounds of Red artillery shelling and possibly more.

The Reds' prodigal use of artillery on a narrow front, patterned somewhat after the great Russian barrages of World War II, presented Allied infantry with a difficult task.

Not only must they defend themselves in the open against Red infantry charging through its own barrages but Allied counter-attacks against deep-bunkered Reds had to be made up shell-swept slopes.

Army Wants 23,000 Draftees In September

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—The Army today issued a draft call for 23,000 men in September. The quota is the same as the ones previously announced for July and August.

The new call brings to 1,515,430 the total number drafted or earmarked for induction since selective service was resumed in September, 1950.

Except for 81,430 drafted for the Marine Corps in the 10 months ending May, 1952, all of the inductions have been by the Army.

Book-Burning Probed

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) said today a Senate civil liberties subcommittee is looking into charges by Corliss Lamont, New York philosophy lecturer, that 19 copies of his books were burned in a Chicago riot last April 12.

Dulles Says Big Cut Would Doom U. S. Aid Program

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, pleading for five billion dollars in new foreign aid funds, told Congress today that any substantial cuts would cause lapse."

Then the nations of the free world, he said, would have to try to "go it alone," and he declared:

"Some countries won't be able to go it alone and will fall prey to Soviet communism. Then in two or three years, we'll be back up here with a program that will make this one look like peanuts."

If the free nations in Europe are pulled into the Soviet bloc, he said, "the risk of war will be very much greater."

Senators Complain

Testifying before the Senate Appropriations Committee, Dulles vigorously defended the administration's request for $5,200,000,000 in new aid funds. Some senators complained they were tired of "give-away programs" and "dumping money abroad."

Dulles ran into heavy fire from Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) who asked him to review the program with an eye to further reductions.

McClellan, noting that 60 countries are scheduled to get U. S. aid in the pending legislation, declared that some of the beneficiaries could be eliminated entirely and allotments to others cut sharply in view of the nation's heavy financial burdens.

"Critical Situation"

"This is a critical situation," McClellan said. "Our taxes are the highest we've paid, our expenditures are the highest we've ever had in peacetime, and we've just rolled up the greatest peacetime deficit we've ever had."

Despite Dulles' plea against reductions, Chairman Bridges (R-NH) asked the Cabinet official to restudy the situation in line with McClellan's suggestion.

Taft Progressing

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) was reported progressing satisfactorily today at the hospital where an operation was performed to check on his hip ailment.

A New York Hospital bulletin said the senator was cheerful and able to lie semi-upright to read his newspaper.

Gold Standard Urged

Britisher Calls For Conference With Malenkov

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Britain's acting foreign secretary, the Marquis of Salisbury, and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault arrived today for the Big Three foreign ministers' conference and Salisbury promptly gave notice his government wants a meeting with Russia's Premier Malenkov this year.

"We're in favor of four-power talks but the timing is a matter for discussion," he told a throng of reporters at the airport.

He said Britain's ailing Prime Minister Churchill is "improving daily" from his illness and should be able to attend four-power talks this year.

Talks Open Immediately

Salisbury's forthright remarks made it clear that the subject of a top-level cold war meeting with Russia would figure in the American-British-French strategy talks which open tomorrow at the State Department.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles are known to be far less enthusiastic about meeting the Russians across a conference table until Moscow demonstrates by "deeds" it is ready to change its past aggressive policies.

Dulles, who joined British Commonwealth diplomats in greeting Salisbury at the airport, sought to play down differences with the British on how to deal with Russia.

Big 4 Meeting Not Mentioned

In his welcoming remarks, the American secretary avoided any mention of a Big Four meeting and said he hoped the foreign ministers' talks would iron out "what little differences there are" between Britain and the United States.

Salisbury, a tall bespectacled Britisher, diplomatically made no reference to meeting with Russia in replying to Dulles' welcoming speech. But, the British diplomat noted "there are a few differences which we may wish to iron out."

It was in answer to a flurry of questions from reporters afterward that he talked about a possible top-level Big Four session.

Iron Curtain Fund For Ike Is Proposed

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Rep. McCormack (D-Mass) today proposed giving President Eisenhower a 300 million dollar fund and blanket authority to use it as he sees fit for "positive action" in capitalizing upon unrest behind the Iron Curtain.

McCormack, deputy Democratic House leader, said unrest in East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia have "given us our first big break" in the cold war.

Earthquake Recorded

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—The Columbia University seismograph today recorded an earthquake of moderate intensity in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean.

The single shock, at 4:29.37 p.m. (EST), was 2,000 miles east of New York, southwest of the Azores, in a submarine mountain chain.

Barber Shortage Is Acute; Day Of Appointments Seen

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP) — Bad news today for all men who prefer not to cut their own hair — the shortage of barbers is becoming acute.

This news flows direct from that well known news fountain, the barber shop, in this manner:

A shaggy haired fellow dropped around to a shop in one of the capital's best known hotels. The shop's owner said he was selling out, that he couldn't find adequate help.

"Nobody wants to be a barber anymore," he said glumly, between snips. "Everyone wants to be a television repair man."

Charles J. Bovello, secretary-treasurer of the Washington local of the AFL Barbers, Hairdressers, Cosmetologists and Proprietors Union, said:

"I'll say there's a shortage, and it isn't just here. I'm a delegate to our national convention. Same thing everywhere."

Bovello said that this spring, for the entire Washington metropolitan area with a population of around 1¼ million, only 12 youngsters were graduated as barbers.

"Six of these," Bovello said, "plan to go somewhere else, to West Virginia, places like that. Of the other six, at least three have some other job in mind. They don't want to be barbers."

Obviously the supply is running out.

And what happens next?

Do we let our hair grow into the Buster Brown curls of Christopher Columbus' day?

Will there be a run on milk crocks, size 7¼?

Will baldness become not a threat but a necessity?

"I don't know," Bovello said.

His best guess as to the future: that barbershops will operate on appointments only. In this way a barber could work steadily and make enough money to live on without hanging around the shop for 10 or 12 hours a day.

Chief Of Soviet Secret Police Held For Trial

Acted In Interests Of 'Foreign Capital'; Kruglov Successor

LONDON, Friday, July 10 (AP)—Moscow radio announced today that Lavrenti P. Beria, one of the Kremlin's big three since the death of Stalin, has been fired as chief of the secret police and is being held for trial as a traitor.

The broadcast said the action was taken after a recent review by the Communist party of "criminal and anti-state activities" by Beria in the interests of "foreign capital."

The radio said Sergei Nikiforovich Kruglov has been appointed to succeed Beria as minister of home affairs which controls the secret police.

Official Communique

The announcement was credited to the official Soviet news agency Tass and was in the form of an official communique from the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party.

Beria has been one of the three ruling Russia since Stalin died. The other two are Premier Georgi Malenkov and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

The announcement that Beria, security chief for the Soviet Union and largely responsible for keeping order in the satellites, was fired came as news of smouldering revolt spread through all the satellites.

The news also coincides with the presence in the Soviet Union of top Russian authorities from rebellious East Germany and of the Soviet Union's top diplomats recalled from Western capitals for consultation.

Purge Foreshadowed

There have been many reports of fights in the Kremlin for supreme power between Beria and Malenkov. These were heightened two weeks ago when Beria failed to show up for a gala ballet performance attended by both Malenkov and Molotov.

The purge of the bespectacled mild-appearing secret police chief was foreshadowed Monday by an article in the government newspaper Izvestia which said a Soviet leader who didn't pay proper attention to theory had his days numbered.

The paper named no names, but it now appears that Beria was meant.

The radio broadcast said the decision to drop Beria from the Communist party—which almost certainly means his finish as a government power—was taken after a recent Central Committee meeting where Beria reported on the recent disorders in East Berlin.

No Agreement On Refugee Bill

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee was unable to reach agreement today on an administration bill to admit 240,000 refugees and other immigrants to this country but several senators said progress was being made.

Three possible areas of compromise are being explored by the committee, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill), told reporters.

These efforts, he said, are centered around the number of aliens to be admitted, the definitions of those to be made eligible for admission, and the duration of the legislation. Dirksen and other members of the committee said they felt progress toward agreement was being made.

The committee, which has been meeting in closed session, will meet again tomorrow.

The bill as now drafted would admit 240,000 persons, over and above existing immigration quotas, during he next two years. Those admitted would include those who have been expelled or have escaped from behind the Iron Curtain and Greek, Italian and Dutch nationals.

Russian Chessman, Pawns In Tiff, Cancel U.S. Passage

Row Over Curbs On Their Travel Reaches Climax

PARIS, July 9 (AP)—Fifteen Soviet chess players, pawns in the latest East-West maneuvers, today cancelled their passage aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth which was to take them to international matches in New York.

The Russian move was made as a Soviet-U. S. controversy over restrictions on the players' travel in America reached a climax.

Cunard Line officials here said no reason was given for the cancellations, and it was not clear whether it meant the chessmen definitely would not go to New York for the matches July 15-20.

An attache at the Soviet Embassy said all he knew was that the players had taken a walk around Paris this afternoon.

The U. S. State Department originally granted the players visas with the proviso that they were to remain within the New York City limits during their stay.

Then Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, making the opening gambit of what appeared to be a propaganda play, told the American Embassy in Moscow yesterday the chessmen would not go unless they had the right to travel to and from the Soviet U. N. delegation's summer home at Glen Cove, Long Island, 30 miles from Manhattan. Vishinsky made it clear he regarded any tighter restrictions as a checkmate on the "requirements of international hospitalty."

Today in Washington the State Department made a countermove. It said the Russian chessmen would be allowed to go to Glen Cove for visits but could not reside there. The State Department pointedly observed that Moscow had not raised the question of Glen Cove until after the visas had been granted.

Foreign visitors in the Soviet Union, despite some recent limited relaxation of travel restrictions, still can visit only specified areas.

The State Department's ruling, relayed to Moscow, apparently did not become known in Paris before the boat train left with the Queen Elizabeth's passengers. At Cherbourg, where the liner was docked, the train conductor said the 15 places reserved for the Russians were empty when the train pulled out from Paris's St. Lazare railroad station.

The next move appeared to be up to the Soviets. Prior to granting the concession on Glen Cove, the U. S. government, through its attorney general, had waived a provision of the McCarran Immigration Act barring Communists from America.

LORD SALISBURY ARRIVES—Lord Salisbury (left), acting British foreign secretary, walks from plane on arrival yesterday at New York's International Airport en route to Washington for the Western Big Three foreign ministers' conference. With him is Sir Gladwyn Jebb, Britain's United Nations delegate, who met him at the airport. Salisbury told newsmen his country regarded a Bermuda meeting of President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Churchill and the French premier "not as finished but merely postponed."

Defense Contract Irregularities Noted

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP) — The chairman of a congressional committee which has been looking into the handling of defense contracts said today "irregularities" have been noted in the New York area.

After the committee had questioned some 60 witnesses, most of them ordnance workers, Rep. Hess (R-Ohio) told reporters:

"It looks to me like just the first phase of an investigation that will have to continue for some time."

Hess did not specify what "irregularities" he had in mind when he said further investigation may be necessary.

State Dept. Spurns M'Carthy Criticism Of Its Book Policy

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—The State Department told Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) tonight that books by known Communists may be used to counter Red propaganda and thus serve America's aims in official U. S. libraries abroad.

"In some cases, the most effective way to refute the propaganda of the Communists may be to turn the words of their own writers against them," said Dr. Robert L. Johnson, who has resigned under fire as chief of the department's International Information Administration.

Rejecting McCarthy's criticism, Johnson refused to back down on the department's newest policy—a reversal of the line it previously adopted.

The latest policy, announced Wednesday night, relaxed the former outright ban on the use of books by Communists in U. S. libraries overseas.

During the day, McCarthy attacked the new order as "completely ridiculous."

The Wisconsin senator fired a telegram to Johnson demanding "a list of those Communists whose writing you feel 'serve the ends of democracy'" and summoned Johnson to appear next Wednesday before the Senate investigations subcommittee.

McCarthy, chairman of the subcommittee, also demanded the presence of officials who helped Johnson formulate the new policy statement and asked him to supply an estimate of funds "you would like to have appropriated" to buy books by Communists.

Johnson said in a statement described as a reply to McCarthy's demands:

"I do not for a moment believe that a Communist author ever speaks affirmatively for democracy."

"But it would be unwise to foreclose the opportunity of using, to serve affirmatively the ends of democracy, something that a Communist has written for an entirely different purpose."

Reed Protests On Eve Of House Profit Tax Vote

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—GOP leaders set the stage today for final House action tomorrow on President Eisenhower's proposal to extend the excess profits tax—while foes cried out against alleged White House dictatorship.

House leaders called an early session to act on the bill that has stirred one of the fiercest storms in Congress but now seems headed for quick, overwhelming passage.

A bill providing a straight six-month extension, to Jan. 1, comes up for a yes-or-no vote under procedure barring any amendments. Thus efforts to tack on a personal income tax cut, or to soften the tax with various relief and exemption proposals, seemed doomed.

Reed Files Protest

In a preview of the scheduled five-hour House debate, Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) and two other Republicans on the tax-writing ways and means committee filed a fiery protest today.

They said the committee majority, in voting 16 to 9 yesterday to report the bill favorably to the full House, was "following blindly an order from the executive branch of government."

The committee vote was a major triumph for the administration, over Reed and other GOP rebels who had blocked action for weeks.

"We deplore relegating the great committee on ways and means to the status of a rubber stamp," said the 78-year-old Reed and Representatives Jenkins (R-Ohio) and Mason (R-Ill).

Extension Called Gamble

They warned that the extension, which they claimed would stifle business growth, increases "the possibility of a serious economic recession . . . it is a gamble with the economic welfare and security of the country."

Three other committee Republicans, in a separate report to the House, agreed with the administration goal of keeping revenues at present levels and reducing the federal deficit.

But they said this desire "offers no excuse for perpetuating a tax which all testimony, including that at the highest level in the administration, condemns as unfair, inflationary, discriminatory, repressive and inequitable."

Sullen East Berlin Workers Continue Their Loafer Strike

BERLIN, July 9 (AP) — East Berlin's sullen workers continued their loafers' strike today and West Berlin Mayor Ernst Reuter declared the grassroots rebellion eventually would liberate all East Germany from the Reds.

The sit-down and slow-down tactics by thousands of workers yesterday forced the Russians to lift their armed barricades along the city's East-West border and Western newsmen got their first peek into the Eastern sector since Russian tanks broke the June 17 revolt.

Pretense Of Work

At the Stalin Allee housing project, where the uprising started, as many workers were loafing as were hammering and plastering. "They're still on a slow down," said a youth.

Reports filtering out of major East Berlin factories said thousands were dragging lazily, making only a pretense of work. They had gone on their sit-down with the lifting of travel restrictions across the sector borders as their secondary demand. Their primary demand was the release of the thousands of their comrades arrested in the uprising. Apparently they were not satisfied that the East German government was telling the truth when it declared last night that the "great majority" already had been freed.

Other Plants Hit

Reports from the Soviet zone said dozens of other plants in Jena, Magdeburg, Leipzig, Halle, and Dresden were hit by similar slowdowns.

Mayor Reuter, in a broadcast over the U. S. High Commission radio, tonight singled out the lifting of the frontier barriers as a signal victory and declared "more successes" would follow.

Polish Batory Reaches British Port With New Captain At Helm

LONDON, July 9 (AP) — The Polish Batory returned to a British port today with a new skipper, who told newsmen he did not know why Capt. Jan Cwiklinski jumped the ship last month.

Capt. Tadeusz Meissner, who claims he is "not political" and a member of no party in Poland, met most questions about Cwiklinski with "That is not my affair." Cwiklinski, an Allied World War I hero, walked off the Batory in Newcastle and was given political asylum in Britain. He said he faced arrest and possible trial as a spy for associating with Westerners if he returned to Red Poland.

New Captain Meets Newsmen

The new captain, a chubby man with a pleasant demeanor, met 40 newsmen in the main lounge of the Batory moored off Greenwich.

Meissner, who is 51 and a resident of Gydnia, told how Capt. Cwiklinski's wife came to see him at his office in Gydnia to ask what happened to her husband. Meissner's permanent post is chief marine superintendent of both the Polish Ocean line (Gydnia America) and the Polish steamship line.

The captain said he told Mrs. Cwiklinski "I did not know why he had gone and I hoped she could give me some information." He added he doesn't expect Cwiklinski to return to Poland.

Once Meissner flared up under a barrage of questions and snapped back—though still smiling:

"Why attack me like this? I am not a criminal."

"Walked Off" Batory

Cwiklinski, who left his wife and two children in Poland when he "walked off" the Batory at Newcastle last month, charged Communist political officers ran the ship. Meissner was asked if this was still true. He replied:

"This ship is run by me and not by political officers. I am the master of the Batory."

Most of the crew of 335 were on shore leave as were most of the 591 passengers on a cruise out of Scandinavia. Asked why the conference was held, and replied:

"Frankly, I do not know. I did not invite you. But you're welcome."

The ship's agent said he invited the press. Tea and cocktails were served.

Commons Told Prime Minister Just Needs Rest

LONDON, July 9 (AP) — Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler told the House of Commons today "there is no mystery" about Prime Minister Churchill's illness—he just needs a rest.

"There has been a statement that he has had to take at least a month's rest and I am glad to say that it is doing him a great deal of good," said Butler, who now presides at Cabinet meetings.

Sicily Town To Mark Invasion Anniversary

GELA, Sicily, July 9 (AP)—The 32,000 men, women and children of this Sicilian sea-coast town, the mayor, and the parish priest commemorate the 10th anniversary of the U. S. and British invasion of Sicily tomorrow.

Participating in the commemoration are Palermo's American Legion Post No. 3 and James F. Murray Jr., of Jersey City, New York attorney. He represents a group of New York men, survivors of the battle in which the first American soldiers landed on European soil in World War II.

American forces landed all the way from Licata to Punta Secca—a 35-mile southern coastline arc. But Gela—dead in the center—was the hot point.

It was here that pistol-packing Gen. George S. Patton went ashore with the U. S. 1st Division. It was here, too, that Col. William Derby landed with his hard-hitting Ranger battalion. Derby was killed in action in Northern Italy with the 10th Mountain Division two years later.

5 Injured In Rail Wreck

STITTSVILLE, Ont., July 9 (AP)—Five persons were injured today when three cars of an eastbound Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train were derailed near this town, 20 miles from Ottawa. Among those injured were Alexander Lyle, assistant vice-president of the CPR at Montreal, and his wife.

McCarthy Backs Rhee, Briton Says

LONDON, July 9 (AP)—A Laborite legislator charged tonight that Senators Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) and William Knowland (R-Calif) were "openly backing" South Korean President Syngman Rhee in his efforts to forestall a Korean armistice.

The member of Parliament, Sir Richard Acland, suggested in the House of Commons that Britain might some time "have to say that we could not for ever be associated with a war carried on for no other purpose than backing what he termed Rhee's "aggressive intent."

Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler, acting for ailing Prime Minister Winston Churchill, merely replied that "all these serious aspects were realized" both here and in the United States.

Laborites Urge Ike To Come To London

LONDON, July 9 (AP)—Fifty Laborite members of Parliament put a motion in the House of Commons tonight urging President Eisenhower to come to London for his meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Laniel.

The motion welcomed Eisenhower's statement that in view of Churchill's illness he was willing to go to London for the conference instead of Bermuda as originally planned.

Case Of "Little Man From Space" Ends In Fine Of $40 For Trucker

ATLANTA, July 9 (AP)—The case of "the little man from outer space" wound up today in a $40 fine—for obstructing a highway.

This Solomonic penalty was imposed on Edward Watters, 28-year old Atlanta barber, who started the furor late Tuesday by producing a hairless, man-like little creature which he claimed was one of three or four he came upon beside a space ship parked on a highway.

Watters and two companions, Thomas Wilson, 20, another barber, and Arnold Payne, 19, a butcher, said the other creatures leaped into their flying saucer and zoomed away just as Watters' pickup truck struck and killed the thing they produced.

Scientific examination quickly established the asserted "space man" was just a monkey with its hair and tail removed.

Watters admitted in Cobb County Superior Court in nearby Marietta today that he had hatched the hoax and absolved his companions. The three originally were arrested on charges of cruelty to animals but Judge James T. Manning decided this couldn't be tried in Cobb Cointy because the animal was killed in Fulton (Atlanta) County.

Since no one had profited from the hoax, no financial fraud could be claimed. But several cars had collected at the point where Watters claimed to have hit the space man. So the highway obstruction charge was entered and Watters pleaded guilty. The other two men were dismissed.

Rhee's Price For Truce

American admirers of President Rhee of South Korea point out that he has consistenty warned U. S. representatives and the United Nations that he coud not accept a truce failing to lead to unification of Korea. Seven weeks after the North Korean aggression, Dr. Rhee declared, "We shall complete unification of North and South Korea . . . for all time" (Aug. 14, 1950, second anniversary of founding of the Republic of Korea).

When it appeared likely that the UN Command would win victory in all of Korea — in October 1950, before the intervention of the Chinese Communists— Dr. Rhee rejected a UN ruling that South Korea could not govern temporarily in North Korea pending a national election. But a week later, on October 21, the South Korean government announced that it would wait until UN plans for North Korea were worked out. A spokesman for Rhee said that the President of South Korea had confidence in General MacArthur's temporary civilian appointments for North Korea, on which Rhee was being consulted.

Since the entry of the Chinese Reds, Dr. Rhee and his spokesmen have frequently offered more or less specific conditions for a truce:

June 24-26, 1951: South Korea must participate in all UN discussions of a truce; ROK will fight until "the last Communist invader has been driven" back into Manchuria.

July 3: A cease-fire at the 38th Parallel is unacceptable. (The ROK National Assembly four days earlier had adopted a resolution rejecting a cease-fire at the 38th parallel, demanding withdrawal of Chinese Reds to Manchuria, unification of all of Korea under the ROK government.)

July 31: Present battle front (mostly above parallel) is acceptable as a truce line provided there is revision of the boundary within two months of armistice (Foreign Minister Pyun Yun Tae).

September 20: Cease-fire talks should be resumed only if 1) Chinese Reds withdraw from all of Korea, 2) North Koreans are disarmed, 3) North Koreans are granted full representation in Southern National Assembly after UN-observed elections, 4) UN sets a time limit for acceptance of above terms, beyond which talks would be broken off permanently.

March 4, 1952: South Korea will not settle for anything short of "complete unification," Chinese Red withdrawal from Korea.

November 28: (In anticipation of visit of General Eisenhower) 1) war settlement that would unify Korea, 2) retention of U. S. forces in Korea, 3) strengthening of allied and South Korean forces, 4) more U. S. aid for the ROK, 5) less "conciliatory" attitude for U. S. toward communism in Asia.

March 31, 1953: Five conditions to peace agreement: 1) all countries must abstain from giving any kind of aid to the North Korean Communist regime, 2) ROK must have administrative control over North and South Korea, 3) the ROK must be represented in all international conferences on Korean problems.

May 3: Insistence on unification repeated, transfer of Korean POWs to a foreign neutral country rejected.

May 25: ROK truce-team member boycotts talks in protest against conditions of UN plan that would 1) leave Reds in control of part of Korea, 2) turn Korean POWs over to a neutral custodian as "aliens" in their own country.

Prior to the release of anti-Red prisoners on June 18, Rhee made one last plea to President Eisenhower. The terms this time: Allied and Chinese troops were to withdraw "at our risk," but beforehand U. S. was to make a mutual defense treaty, agree to keep U. S. naval and air forces in Korea until ROK build-up was adequate, give ROK enough weapons and supplies to be self-reliant. At this writing Rhee seems to be willing to go along with a truce only if the United States guarantees that Korea will be unified forcibly if a post-armistice political conference fails of unification.

Atomic Age Caves

They are called bomb shelters—and the government says everyone who lives within 10 miles of the downtown section of a major city in a critical target area should construct one—but they are reminiscent of life in the period of the cave man. Perhaps a future history of mankind will be entitled, "From Cave to Cave."

There are 67 critical target cities, but the government has not released a list of them, apparently in the hope that the Muscovites will not know about these cities unless they read a list of names in American newspapers. Local civil defense officials have been informed whether their communities are considered to be in critical danger areas.

If the worst fears are confirmed, for 30 cents the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., will send a booklet, entitled "Home Shelters for Family Protection in an Atomic Attack."

This work includes drawings and specifications that any householder should be able to follow if he decides to build his own atomic hole in the ground, the Federal Civil Defense Administration says.

There are instructions for constructing basement shelters of various types, which cost less than $100, but outside shelters of the backyard cave type provide extra protection against entrapment in burning and collapsing buildings and falling debris, it is pointed out.

This fascinating booklet, which is an interesting commentary on evolution of modern civilization, but which would become a best seller overnight in case of all-out war, suggests that beyond the 10-mile radius from a probable target, "light shelter can be obtained in basements, windowless halls, closets or under stairways.

The 86-page manual is based on more than theory. Incorporated in it are results of tests of various shelters made at the Yucca Flat, Nev., atomic proving ground.

"Dynamic" Distributors

Merchandising, in which the United States surpasses the world, now has its Hall of Fame in Chicago. The idea was conceived by Joseph P. Kennedy, Boston banker and former ambassador to London. It was his contention that if America had not produced geniuses in mass distribution, it never would have had the mass production of today.

Merchants the country over were urged to submit candidates, and from 200 the number was reduced to 10, from which editors and college professors made a selection of four. Here they are:

Marshall Field, founder of Marshall Field & Company, Chicago; George Huntington Hartford, founder of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company; John R. Manamaker, founder of John Wanamaker's, Philadelphia and New York, and F. W. Woolworth, founder of the nation-wide 5-and-10-cent stores.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Ameba Multiplication

Amebic dysentery is common in the tropics, including countries such as Mexico. This does not mean that the disease is rare in cooler climates. Here in the United States for example, the incidence varies from 2 to 20 per cent depending upon the locality. These statistics were obtained through laboratory studies and are not necessarily concerned with symptoms. In many instances, the condition was so mild and nondescript, it might have been overlooked if stool tests had not been run.

The causative ameba passes from one person to another in a variety of ways. The outbreak in a Chicago hotel 20 years ago resulted from a defective cross-connection between the drinking and sewage pipes. In other cases the infection is propagated through carelessness or complete absence of sanitation, as in tropical countries. Contamination of food occurs through infected food handlers which has led many states and counties to set up rigid rules barring carriers from working as cooks and waiters. The organisms also have been isolated from the intestinal contents of flies and roaches, suggesting that these pests are capable of transmitting them.

Once the endameba histolytica is swallowed, a new potential victim is in the making. The parasite passes through the stomach unchanged but, on reaching the intestine, finds the environment to its liking and sets up housekeeping. There is no need for a spouse because the ameba reproduces by dividing from four to eight times. These four to eight new forms strike out for themselves and those lucky enough to penetrate the colon wall will remain; the others will leave the body with the residue. The ensuing ulcers lead to irritation and dysentery. The more hardy organisms dig so deep they penetrate the wall, causing peritonitis. Those that find their way into the blood stream usually are filtered out but not killed by the liver. The resulting infection and liver abcesses are among the more serious complications of amebiasis.

Textbooks usually describe the typical course as diarrhea alternating with constipation, abdominal cramps, griping, and spasms. Appetite wanes and in time weight is lost. Unless the disease is treated it goes into the chronic stage, or one of serious complications develop. But for every typical case, dozens more do not follow the regular pattern. Some persons have only rare episodes of diarrhea; others have mild dyspepsia or occasional cramping. Many have no signs or symptoms, particularly in the tropics where the carrier is otherwise healthy. Apparently, while they were becoming civilized they also become amebaized, making their intestinal wall immune to the organisms. But these carriers are the reservoirs that keep amebic dysentery alive; they have no reason for seeking medical examination.

Numerous treatments are available and physicians routinely use more than one remedy. For example, the first 10 days a product like diodoquin is given, followed by carbarsone for an equal length of time. Then the course is repeated or chloroquin, milibus, aralen, fumagillin, or neomycin is used instead. The old reliable, emetine, also may come up for a turn, especially when there is diarrhea or one of its complications. All these remedies have their advantages or disadvantages. The goal is to get rid of the parasites as fast as possible which means that every single ameba must be eliminated, including those imbedded deep in the intestinal wall. To do this, the drug must be strong enough to kill the organisms without being too toxic to the victim.

I doubt it. Congenital deafness is more likely.

F. D. writes: Do any doctors specialize in the treatment of halitosis?

REPLY

No, but we sometimes think so when we listen to our friends criticize the medical profession for becoming too specialized. Halitosis comes into the sphere of the dentist as well as specialists in diseases of the nose and throat and gastro-intestinal tract.

I have no statistics along this line, but the chances are slight that the disease will appear in the offspring unless the father or mother has a long family history of a similar condition.

WASHINGTON — INSIDE THE WHITE HOUSE—The cabinet is split over giving encouragement to restless satellites behind the iron curtain. John Foster Dulles, who campaigned last fall on the idea of encouraging revolt behind the iron curtain, wants to do something. Ike himself is on the cautious side. . . . . Best man to replace Voice of America Chief Bob Johnson is C. D. Jackson, ex-publisher of Fortune, now in the White House as psychological warfare adviser. Jackson knows his propaganda onions, is a human dynamo. . . . . The White House may have stubbed its toe on another appointment — that of Leonard Walsh to be chief judge of the D. C. Municipal Court. Somebody forgot that Walsh got involved in a hit-and-run accident case in which a jury not only awarded the plaintiff $10,000, but the U. S. Court of Appeals handed down a decision seriously impugning his credibility. Chief Judge D. Lawrence Groner wrote that "he (Walsh) falsely charged the act to another." This, added the judge, "was sufficient to justify the jury in rejecting the whole of his evidence." Despite this false testimony, Walsh has now been nominated as chief judge for the District of Columbia. . . . . Ike is bringing more military men into the White House. The latest, Colonel Paul Carroll, assistant to Governor Adams, is efficient, civilian-minded and should be an asset. . . . . The White House got a phone call from the first wife of General MacArthur the other day, gracious Mrs. Louise Heiberg, suggesting that the best way to calm down old Syngman Rhee was to send her brother, Jimmie Cromwell, over to Korea. Jimmie, who stood by Rhee during his years in exile, probably knows him better than anyone else in the U. S. and would be persuasive. Once married to Doris Duke, Cromwell served under FDR as minister to Canada.

INSIDE THE STATE DEPARTMENT—Exit of Bob Johnson as State Department propaganda chief was a serious loss for the Ike administration. He had just learned the ropes, was doing a good job. . . . . Real reason he went back to Philadelphia's Temple University was disgust with his boss John Foster Dulles re book-burning; also health. Johnson was on a rice diet for high blood pressure, had orders to take an hour's rest after lunch, another after dinner. Instead he worked from 7 a. m. to midnight. . . . . But what made it impossible for him to stay was friction with Dulles. . . . . Inside fact is that Dulles himself wrote most of the first two book-burning directives, Johnson got the blame. But Dulles with the help of Assistant Secretary Carl McCardle, wrote the first panic-stricken directive, then the second regarding periodicals. These were what caused State Department officials abroad to start dumping books wholesale, even burning some. . . . . Since then a half-dozen directives have been written by other State Department officials trying to rectify the original panic. . . . . Johnson thought all this made us look ridiculous abroad. . . . . Reports that Johnson had cuddled up to Senator McCarthy were exaggerated. They got started because he invited senators to meet with him on Monday nights, and on one occasion another senator invited McCarthy to come along. . . . . Cohn and Schine frequently came down to the State Department to get in Johnson's hair, but he did no snuggling.

New Jersey Gangsterism

Clendenin Ryan, amateur detective and playboy grandson of Thomas Fortune Ryan who once owned the streetcar lines of New York and Chicago, has been giving gay dinner parties in Washington and talking about his campaign to become governor of New Jersey.

Among other things he threw an ornate wedding anniversary party for TV producer Martha Rountree who has featured him on "Meet the Press," and even donated a new fence to Martha to keep the hoi Polloi out of her backyard. Ryan talks grandiloquently about using wire-tappers against his political opponents and once had a bevy of wire-tappers working on Mayor O'Dwyer of New York.

While nobody in Washington takes Ryan's political ambitions too seriously, it just so happens that he may end up as the next governor of New Jersey — thanks to the wrath of New Jerseyites over the way gamblers and gangsterism have thrown their weight around during the GOP Driscoll administration.

With testimony that the late Willie Moretti had contributed $118,000 to the Driscoll administration—though Governor Driscoll says he knew nothing about it; and with Harold Adonis, the governor's assistant, who received part of the money, now hiding out in Holland, a lot of New Jersey voters are anxious to vote anything but Republican next November.

Is This A Government?

The following letter was sent as a circular to a large number of persons and is a direct attack on the fiscal policies and administrative directives of President Eisenhower.

The queston it raises is whether the authority of government is vested in the elected officers of this nation, who function in accordance with the Constitution, or whether an appointive bureaucracy may sabotage the government, use official stationery and the franking privilege in the mails to create a public sentiment against the authorities. The further question is raised in this letter as to whether budgetary appropriations are to be made by Congress, as the Constitution provides, or by appointed officials to suit their desires and convenience.

I give the circular letter in full:

"Department of State
International Claims Commission of the United States
Washington
June 25, 1953

"Dear Sir or Madam:

"This letter (addressed to claimants, their attorneys and members of Congress) is to advise that due to the neglect, failure and refusal of the administration to authorize the submission of a budget request for the commission to the Congress for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1953, the commission will be without funds, commencing on that date and, accordingly, will be unable to exercise its functions as required by law. Since all members of the staff of the commission are being separated as of June 30, 1953, due to lack of funds, this letter will serve as a cancellation of previous notices of hearings pending before the commission and scheduled on or after July 1, 1953. No further action at this time can be taken by the commission with respect to claims filed under the Yugoslav and Panama claims settlements. Nor can the commission advise as to the action which may be taken with respect to the reverter rights of these governments in the funds under its jurisdiction.

"This commission was established by law (Public Law 455, 81st Congress) in the Department of State as a quasi-judicial independent tribunal to adjudicate claims and its decisions are final with no appeal to the secretary of State or to the courts. Its members may be removed by the secretary of State only for cause after notice and hearing. On June 9 and 10, 1953, the resignations of the members of the commission were requested by responsible officials of the Department of State and of the Office of the President.

"Failing in their efforts to force the resignations of the commissioners the administration is now withholding from Congress a budget request in order to deprive the commission of funds with which to operate during the next fiscal year beginning July 1, 1953. The action of the administration in withholding this budget request is an unwarranted interference with quasi-judicial function of this commission, and is an attempt to force resignations of its members.

Sincerely yours,
JOSIAH MARVEL, Jr.
Chairman,

RAYMOND S. McKEOUGH
Commissioner."

Messrs. Marvel and McKeough raise the interesting point, it would seem, that a bureau, once having been established, cannot be abolished. As Congress can lawfully limit or abolish any agency of government by withholding funds, a challenge is hurled at the constitutional functions of Congress. These bureaucrats deny the right of Congress to withhold funds or the "responsible officials of the Department of State and of the Office of the President" to ask for their resignations. They refused to resign and regarded the refusal to provide funds as an "unwarranted interference." Who are these guys, anyhow?

Certainly when appointed officials set themselves up as superior to their own government, we are approaching an anarchistic state. I know of one agency that is so hamstrung with inefficient personnel, subversives and saboteurs that a desperation besets the entire operation. Someday a Fifth Amendment office-holder, who refused to answer whether he is now engaged in espionage for an enemy nation, will contend that he must be permitted to continue in his job because he enjoys Civil Service status. As a matter of fact, some such contentions are being made on the basis of Civil Service and Veteran Preferences. A government can quickly be paralyzed by such untenable concepts of government employment

Some New Dealers take the impudent position that their jobs must be continued because they are convinced that the Democrats will win the Congress in 1954 and that then they will have all the protection they require. Meanwhile the administration of government suffers from insubordination.

Matter Of Fact

The Match And The Haystack

BERLIN

What has been happening in East Germany has transformed the whole world situation. The best way to understand what has been happening is to consider in some detail certain recent events in the small industrial city of Bitterfeld, in the Soviet zone of Germany, as seen through the eyes of two brave men.

These men are Wilhelm Fiebelkorn, a school teacher who looks like a high strung, unhealthy, very intelligent American Indian; and Horst Sovarda, a skilled electrical worker who looks like a genial, ham-fisted football tackle. Fiebelkorn and Sovarda arrived a few days ago in the safe haven of West Berlin, after being condemned to death by the East Germany Communist regime. For Sovarda, the worker, and Fiebelkorn, the intellectual, were the leaders of a revolt which actually seized and for a time exercised power in the city of Bitterfeld.

Sovarda tells the first part of the story. Towards the beginning of June, when the Communist regime was announcing all sorts of "easements for the population," the workers in the big Bitterfeld electro-magnetic combine learned that their "production norms" were to be increased. Already, Sovarda and other workers' leaders had organized an elaborate cell system in their plant, precisely patterned on the Communists' cell system in capitalist countries. The time had come, they decided, to risk everything. The order to strike was passed through the cells, and on the morning of June 10 the whole plant closed down.

Telegraphed Demands

Sovarda and the others, expecting arrest, cannily refused to meet the Communist functionaries who came to the factory. Then on June 11, the Communists capitulated completely and astonishingly. All the workers' demands were met, and the men went back to work.

For three days the workers quietly absorbed this evidence of the regime's weakness. On June 15 they struck again, with increased demands, and again the factory closed down. Again, the regime failed to react with the expected violence. Then, on the evening of June 16, RIAS, the American radio station in Berlin, carried word of the construction workers' strike in East Berlin, and the word spread rapidly throughout Bitterfeld.

Until then, the strike had been confined to the electro-magnetic plant. Now every factory in the Bitterfeld area struck, and on the morning of June 17 the workers filled the streets of the city. Here the German instinct for order asserted itself. A mass meeting of workers elected Fiebelkorn, favorably known as a "militant intellectual," as chairman of the "Bitterfeld District Strike Committee." In a methodical manner, the committee set about organizing the city.

The Communist mayor was quietly evicted from his office. The workers took over the headquarters of the Communist party, the secret police, and all public buildings. Eighty-six political prisoners were freed from the jail, while six criminals were firmly relocked in their cells. The workers took over the telegraph office, where Fiebelkorn drafted and dispatched two remarkable telegrams.

The first was addressed derisively to the "so-called Democratic peoples' government in Berlin." It contained a list of eight curt demands, including free elections, the release of all political prisoners, the dissolution of the "so-called peoples' army," and the dissolution of the government itself.

Hatred Still Present

The second was addressed to "the honorable Semyonov." This message to the Soviet proconsul was most polite: "We respectfully request that you will lift the seige in Berlin and proclaim your solidarity with the workers in the Eastern zone. We hope that you, sir, will act in accordance with our wishes, so that we can believe that you are the champion of peace, international understanding, and democracy. With the greetings of the Strike Committee of Bitterfeld." Unlike the telegram to the government, this included space for a prepaid reply, as a further mark of respect.

The reply came, of course, in the form of Soviet troops and tanks. By early in the evening of June 17, all public buildings had been occupied, martial law had been declared, and Fiebelkorn and Sovarda had been condemned to death as "criminal saboteurs." So ended Bitterfeld's great revolt.

But has it really ended?

Asked how such things could happen in a supposedly monolithic police state, Fiebelkorn shrugs his shoulders and replies that it is as though "a lighted match were thrown on a haystack." The haystack he explains, is the universal hatred of the East German people for the puppet regime which has ground their lives into misery. The match is the weakness of the regime which the workers began to sense soon after Stalin's death, and which they sensed with certainty with the sudden adoption of the policy of "easement for the populace." The haystack and the match —hatred and contempt—are still present.

What happened in Bitterfeld, happened in almost exactly the same way in more than 75 other German cities (though Fiebelkorn's telegrams were unique). As this is written, moreover, it looks as though the haystack were again beginning to smoulder. Seventy thousand workers in East Berlin have proclaimed a sitdown strike, and the movement is beginning to spread to the Soviet zone. "We know now that they can't kill all of us," Sovarda says.

It would be very wrong to imagine, as some officials in Washington like to do, that a few blasts on the propaganda trumpets will now bring the whole Soviet empire crumbling down. The Soviet tanks which crushed the Bitterfeld revolt are still very much present. It would be equally wrong to imagine, as other officials are able to do, that what has happened here is an interesting but not very important phenomenon. It might well be, instead, a great turning point in world affairs.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON— The Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee and the Democrats who helped them report out a bill to extend the excess-profits-tax law may have unwittingly voted to make the next depression the worst in American history.

For the die has been cast now—if the Congress passes the proposed bill and a business recession sets in any time during the first half of next year, it could conceivably start a slide which would be far more severe than would have been the case otherwise.

The favorable vote of every member of the House and Senate on the extension of the excess-profits law will rise to plague him if the depression comes. For it will be a simple matter to show the relationship between that vote and the momentum given to a business decline. This is because of a peculiar situation that has developed in what is known as a catching-up on corporation tax collections.

Can't Abate Payment

Under a statutory change now in effect, every corporation which used to pay its taxes for the preceding caledar year on a quarterly basis in the following year will find itself compelled to pay 45 per cent on its taxes for 1953 by March 15 and 90 per cent by June 30, 1954.

This is very important to American business because, if a recession comes it will not be possible to abate the payment of taxes during the second half of 1954 and take a credit, as used to be the case. Nearly all of the tax money will have to be paid out and refunds will not be effective until the beginning of the calendar year 1955. The meaning of this in terms of working capital for businesses that are hit by a recession is clear to those who know how successfully the refund system worked at the close of World War II. At that time, it was possible to cease paying quarterly taxes and use the reserve funds that had been put away for tax payments to the federal government as a cushion or capital fund to stay in business during a difficult transition period.

Many businesses have figured on the accumulation of a reserve fund for a post-Korean depression out of the savings made on the abatement of a half year of excess-profits taxes. This relief now appears to be headed for the wastebasket.

It is misleading for the Treasury and for Representative Jere Cooper, Democrat, of Tennessee, ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee, to argue that, because out of the 424,000 corporations only 50,000 paid an excess-profits tax, the tax isn't painful. Actually, the statistics that should have been disclosed, in all fairness, are those that show the total amount of business or volume of sales done by those 50,000 corporations and the number of persons employed. Everybody who knows anything about corporation statistics is aware that, of the 424,000 corporations, the largest number employ less than 20 persons.

GOP Will Get Blame

The real problem of unemployment and the disastrous chain reaction that can start in and affect all other businesses is to be found in those 50,000 corporations that are paying excess-profits taxes. Many of them are the competitors of the truly big businesses. What the Treasury should also have disclosed is the total number of big corporations that either pay no excess-profits taxes or a negligible amount. The dominant units in various industries aren't worrying about an excess-profits-tax repeal because they know it doesn't affect them materially but will affect their smaller competitors.

When a recession sets in, the administration will get no help from the Democrats who helped sabotage the Republican pledge of a reduction of taxes, for they will be the first to blame the Republicans for the depression.

The crucial period is the last six months of 1953—and it will be too late to lock the barn in 1954 by remedial legislation. For many businesses may be closing their doors then. The administration's only chance to save itself politically will come if the depression holds off for another year, thus giving time for legislation to be passed making refunds of excess-profits-tax money.

Rhee's Price For Truce

American admirers of President Rhee of South Korea point out that he has consistenty warned U. S. representatives and the United Nations that he coud not accept a truce failing to lead to unification of Korea. Seven weeks after the North Korean aggression, Dr. Rhee declared, "We shall complete unification of North and South Korea . . . for all time" (Aug. 14, 1950, second anniversary of founding of the Republic of Korea).

When it appeared likely that the UN Command would win victory in all of Korea — in October 1950, before the intervention of the Chinese Communists— Dr. Rhee rejected a UN ruling that South Korea could not govern temporarily in North Korea pending a national election. But a week later, on October 21, the South Korean government announced that it would wait until UN plans for North Korea were worked out. A spokesman for Rhee said that the President of South Korea had confidence in General MacArthur's temporary civilian appointments for North Korea, on which Rhee was being consulted.

Since the entry of the Chinese Reds, Dr. Rhee and his spokesmen have frequently offered more or less specific conditions for a truce:

June 24-26, 1951: South Korea must participate in all UN discussions of a truce; ROK will fight until "the last Communist invader has been driven" back into Manchuria.

July 3: A cease-fire at the 38th Parallel is unacceptable. (The ROK National Assembly four days earlier had adopted a resolution rejecting a cease-fire at the 38th parallel, demanding withdrawal of Chinese Reds to Manchuria, unification of all of Korea under the ROK government.)

July 31: Present battle front (mostly above parallel) is acceptable as a truce line provided there is revision of the boundary within two months of armistice (Foreign Minister Pyun Yun Tae).

September 20: Cease-fire talks should be resumed only if 1) Chinese Reds withdraw from all of Korea, 2) North Koreans are disarmed, 3) North Koreans are granted full representation in Southern National Assembly after UN-observed elections, 4) UN sets a time limit for acceptance of above terms, beyond which talks would be broken off permanently.

March 4, 1952: South Korea will not settle for anything short of "complete unification," Chinese Red withdrawal from Korea.

November 28: (In anticipation of visit of General Eisenhower) 1) war settlement that would unify Korea, 2) retention of U. S. forces in Korea, 3) strengthening of allied and South Korean forces, 4) more U. S. aid for the ROK, 5) less "conciliatory" attitude for U. S. toward communism in Asia.

March 31, 1953: Five conditions to peace agreement: 1) all countries must abstain from giving any kind of aid to the North Korean Communist regime, 2) ROK must have administrative control over North and South Korea, 3) the ROK must be represented in all international conferences on Korean problems.

May 3: Insistence on unification repeated, transfer of Korean POWs to a foreign neutral country rejected.

May 25: ROK truce-team member boycotts talks in protest against conditions of UN plan that would 1) leave Reds in control of part of Korea, 2) turn Korean POWs over to a neutral custodian as "aliens" in their own country.

Prior to the release of anti-Red prisoners on June 18, Rhee made one last plea to President Eisenhower. The terms this time: Allied and Chinese troops were to withdraw "at our risk," but beforehand U. S. was to make a mutual defense treaty, agree to keep U. S. naval and air forces in Korea until ROK build-up was adequate, give ROK enough weapons and supplies to be self-reliant. At this writing Rhee seems to be willing to go along with a truce only if the United States guarantees that Korea will be unified forcibly if a post-armistice political conference fails of unification.

Atomic Age Caves

They are called bomb shelters—and the government says everyone who lives within 10 miles of the downtown section of a major city in a critical target area should construct one—but they are reminiscent of life in the period of the cave man. Perhaps a future history of mankind will be entitled, "From Cave to Cave."

There are 67 critical target cities, but the government has not released a list of them, apparently in the hope that the Muscovites will not know about these cities unless they read a list of names in American newspapers. Local civil defense officials have been informed whether their communities are considered to be in critical danger areas.

If the worst fears are confirmed, for 30 cents the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., will send a booklet, entitled "Home Shelters for Family Protection in an Atomic Attack."

This work includes drawings and specifications that any householder should be able to follow if he decides to build his own atomic hole in the ground, the Federal Civil Defense Administration says.

There are instructions for constructing basement shelters of various types, which cost less than $100, but outside shelters of the backyard cave type provide extra protection against entrapment in burning and collapsing buildings and falling debris, it is pointed out.

This fascinating booklet, which is an interesting commentary on evolution of modern civilization, but which would become a best seller overnight in case of all-out war, suggests that beyond the 10-mile radius from a probable target, "light shelter can be obtained in basements, windowless halls, closets or under stairways.

The 86-page manual is based on more than theory. Incorporated in it are results of tests of various shelters made at the Yucca Flat, Nev., atomic proving ground.

"Dynamic" Distributors

Merchandising, in which the United States surpasses the world, now has its Hall of Fame in Chicago. The idea was conceived by Joseph P. Kennedy, Boston banker and former ambassador to London. It was his contention that if America had not produced geniuses in mass distribution, it never would have had the mass production of today.

Merchants the country over were urged to submit candidates, and from 200 the number was reduced to 10, from which editors and college professors made a selection of four. Here they are:

Marshall Field, founder of Marshall Field & Company, Chicago; George Huntington Hartford, founder of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company; John R. Manamaker, founder of John Wanamaker's, Philadelphia and New York, and F. W. Woolworth, founder of the nation-wide 5-and-10-cent stores.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Ameba Multiplication

Amebic dysentery is common in the tropics, including countries such as Mexico. This does not mean that the disease is rare in cooler climates. Here in the United States for example, the incidence varies from 2 to 20 per cent depending upon the locality. These statistics were obtained through laboratory studies and are not necessarily concerned with symptoms. In many instances, the condition was so mild and nondescript, it might have been overlooked if stool tests had not been run.

The causative ameba passes from one person to another in a variety of ways. The outbreak in a Chicago hotel 20 years ago resulted from a defective cross-connection between the drinking and sewage pipes. In other cases the infection is propagated through carelessness or complete absence of sanitation, as in tropical countries. Contamination of food occurs through infected food handlers which has led many states and counties to set up rigid rules barring carriers from working as cooks and waiters. The organisms also have been isolated from the intestinal contents of flies and roaches, suggesting that these pests are capable of transmitting them.

Once the endameba histolytica is swallowed, a new potential victim is in the making. The parasite passes through the stomach unchanged but, on reaching the intestine, finds the environment to its liking and sets up housekeeping. There is no need for a spouse because the ameba reproduces by dividing from four to eight times. These four to eight new forms strike out for themselves and those lucky enough to penetrate the colon wall will remain; the others will leave the body with the residue. The ensuing ulcers lead to irritation and dysentery. The more hardy organisms dig so deep they penetrate the wall, causing peritonitis. Those that find their way into the blood stream usually are filtered out but not killed by the liver. The resulting infection and liver abcesses are among the more serious complications of amebiasis.

Textbooks usually describe the typical course as diarrhea alternating with constipation, abdominal cramps, griping, and spasms. Appetite wanes and in time weight is lost. Unless the disease is treated it goes into the chronic stage, or one of serious complications develop. But for every typical case, dozens more do not follow the regular pattern. Some persons have only rare episodes of diarrhea; others have mild dyspepsia or occasional cramping. Many have no signs or symptoms, particularly in the tropics where the carrier is otherwise healthy. Apparently, while they were becoming civilized they also become amebaized, making their intestinal wall immune to the organisms. But these carriers are the reservoirs that keep amebic dysentery alive; they have no reason for seeking medical examination.

Numerous treatments are available and physicians routinely use more than one remedy. For example, the first 10 days a product like diodoquin is given, followed by carbarsone for an equal length of time. Then the course is repeated or chloroquin, milibus, aralen, fumagillin, or neomycin is used instead. The old reliable, emetine, also may come up for a turn, especially when there is diarrhea or one of its complications. All these remedies have their advantages or disadvantages. The goal is to get rid of the parasites as fast as possible which means that every single ameba must be eliminated, including those imbedded deep in the intestinal wall. To do this, the drug must be strong enough to kill the organisms without being too toxic to the victim.

I doubt it. Congenital deafness is more likely.

DR. HAL I. TOSIS

F. D. writes: Do any doctors specialize in the treatment of halitosis?

REPLY

No, but we sometimes think so when we listen to our friends criticize the medical profession for becoming too specialized. Halitosis comes into the sphere of the dentist as well as specialists in diseases of the nose and throat and gastro-intestinal tract.

I have no statistics along this line, but the chances are slight that the disease will appear in the offspring unless the father or mother has a long family history of a similar condition.

The following letter was sent as a circular to a large number of persons and is a direct attack on the fiscal policies and administrative directives of President Eisenhower.

The queston it raises is whether the authority of government is vested in the elected officers of this nation, who function in accordance with the Constitution, or whether an appointive bureaucracy may sabotage the government, use official stationery and the franking privilege in the mails to create a public sentiment against the authorities. The further question is raised in this letter as to whether budgetary appropriations are to be made by Congress, as the Constitution provides, or by appointed officials to suit their desires and convenience.

I give the circular letter in full:

"Department of State
International Claims Commission of the United States
Washington
June 25, 1953

"Dear Sir or Madam:

"This letter (addressed to claimants, their attorneys and members of Congress) is to advise that due to the neglect, failure and refusal of the administration to authorize the submission of a budget request for the commission to the Congress for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1953, the commission will be without funds, commencing on that date and, accordingly, will be unable to exercise its functions as required by law. Since all members of the staff of the commission are being separated as of June 30, 1953, due to lack of funds, this letter will serve as a cancellation of previous notices of hearings pending before the commission and scheduled on or after July 1, 1953. No further action at this time can be taken by the commission with respect to claims filed under the Yugoslav and Panama claims settlements. Nor can the commission advise as to the action which may be taken with respect to the reverter rights of these governments in the funds under its jurisdiction.

"This commission was established by law (Public Law 455, 81st Congress) in the Department of State as a quasi-judicial independent tribunal to adjudicate claims and its decisions are final with no appeal to the secretary of State or to the courts. Its members may be removed by the secretary of State only for cause after notice and hearing. On June 9 and 10, 1953, the resignations of the members of the commission were requested by responsible officials of the Department of State and of the Office of the President.

"Failing in their efforts to force the resignations of the commissioners the administration is now withholding from Congress a budget request in order to deprive the commission of funds with which to operate during the next fiscal year beginning July 1, 1953. The action of the administration in withholding this budget request is an unwarranted interference with quasi-judicial function of this commission, and is an attempt to force resignations of its members.

Sincerely yours,
JOSIAH MARVEL, Jr.
Chairman,
Commissioner."

Messrs. Marvel and McKeough raise the interesting point, it would seem, that a bureau, once having been established, cannot be abolished. As Congress can lawfully limit or abolish any agency of government by withholding funds, a challenge is hurled at the constitutional functions of Congress. These bureaucrats deny the right of Congress to withhold funds or the "responsible officials of the Department of State and of the Office of the President" to ask for their resignations. They refused to resign and regarded the refusal to provide funds as an "unwarranted interference." Who are these guys, anyhow?

Certainly when appointed officials set themselves up as superior to their own government, we are approaching an anarchistic state. I know of one agency that is so hamstrung with inefficient personnel, subversives and saboteurs that a desperation besets the entire operation. Someday a Fifth Amendment office-holder, who refused to answer whether he is now engaged in espionage for an enemy nation, will contend that he must be permitted to continue in his job because he enjoys Civil Service status. As a matter of fact, some such contentions are being made on the basis of Civil Service and Veteran Preferences. A government can quickly be paralyzed by such untenable concepts of government employment

Some New Dealers take the impudent position that their jobs must be continued because they are convinced that the Democrats will win the Congress in 1954 and that then they will have all the protection they require. Meanwhile the administration of government suffers from insubordination.

Matter Of Fact

BERLIN

What has been happening in East Germany has transformed the whole world situation. The best way to understand what has been happening is to consider in some detail certain recent events in the small industrial city of Bitterfeld, in the Soviet zone of Germany, as seen through the eyes of two brave men.

These men are Wilhelm Fiebelkorn, a school teacher who looks like a high strung, unhealthy, very intelligent American Indian; and Horst Sovarda, a skilled electrical worker who looks like a genial, ham-fisted football tackle. Fiebelkorn and Sovarda arrived a few days ago in the safe haven of West Berlin, after being condemned to death by the East Germany Communist regime. For Sovarda, the worker, and Fiebelkorn, the intellectual, were the leaders of a revolt which actually seized and for a time exercised power in the city of Bitterfeld.

Sovarda tells the first part of the story. Towards the beginning of June, when the Communist regime was announcing all sorts of "easements for the population," the workers in the big Bitterfeld electro-magnetic combine learned that their "production norms" were to be increased. Already, Sovarda and other workers' leaders had organized an elaborate cell system in their plant, precisely patterned on the Communists' cell system in capitalist countries. The time had come, they decided, to risk everything. The order to strike was passed through the cells, and on the morning of June 10 the whole plant closed down.

Telegraphed Demands

Sovarda and the others, expecting arrest, cannily refused to meet the Communist functionaries who came to the factory. Then on June 11, the Communists capitulated completely and astonishingly. All the workers' demands were met, and the men went back to work.

For three days the workers quietly absorbed this evidence of the regime's weakness. On June 15 they struck again, with increased demands, and again the factory closed down. Again, the regime failed to react with the expected violence. Then, on the evening of June 16, RIAS, the American radio station in Berlin, carried word of the construction workers' strike in East Berlin, and the word spread rapidly throughout Bitterfeld.

Until then, the strike had been confined to the electro-magnetic plant. Now every factory in the Bitterfeld area struck, and on the morning of June 17 the workers filled the streets of the city. Here the German instinct for order asserted itself. A mass meeting of workers elected Fiebelkorn, favorably known as a "militant intellectual," as chairman of the "Bitterfeld District Strike Committee." In a methodical manner, the committee set about organizing the city.

The Communist mayor was quietly evicted from his office. The workers took over the headquarters of the Communist party, the secret police, and all public buildings. Eighty-six political prisoners were freed from the jail, while six criminals were firmly relocked in their cells. The workers took over the telegraph office, where Fiebelkorn drafted and dispatched two remarkable telegrams.

The first was addressed derisively to the "so-called Democratic peoples' government in Berlin." It contained a list of eight curt demands, including free elections, the release of all political prisoners, the dissolution of the "so-called peoples' army," and the dissolution of the government itself.

Hatred Still Present

The second was addressed to "the honorable Semyonov." This message to the Soviet proconsul was most polite: "We respectfully request that you will lift the seige in Berlin and proclaim your solidarity with the workers in the Eastern zone. We hope that you, sir, will act in accordance with our wishes, so that we can believe that you are the champion of peace, international understanding, and democracy. With the greetings of the Strike Committee of Bitterfeld." Unlike the telegram to the government, this included space for a prepaid reply, as a further mark of respect.

The reply came, of course, in the form of Soviet troops and tanks. By early in the evening of June 17, all public buildings had been occupied, martial law had been declared, and Fiebelkorn and Sovarda had been condemned to death as "criminal saboteurs." So ended Bitterfeld's great revolt.

But has it really ended?

Asked how such things could happen in a supposedly monolithic police state, Fiebelkorn shrugs his shoulders and replies that it is as though "a lighted match were thrown on a haystack." The haystack he explains, is the universal hatred of the East German people for the puppet regime which has ground their lives into misery. The match is the weakness of the regime which the workers began to sense soon after Stalin's death, and which they sensed with certainty with the sudden adoption of the policy of "easement for the populace." The haystack and the match —hatred and contempt—are still present.

What happened in Bitterfeld, happened in almost exactly the same way in more than 75 other German cities (though Fiebelkorn's telegrams were unique). As this is written, moreover, it looks as though the haystack were again beginning to smoulder. Seventy thousand workers in East Berlin have proclaimed a sitdown strike, and the movement is beginning to spread to the Soviet zone. "We know now that they can't kill all of us," Sovarda says.

It would be very wrong to imagine, as some officials in Washington like to do, that a few blasts on the propaganda trumpets will now bring the whole Soviet empire crumbling down. The Soviet tanks which crushed the Bitterfeld revolt are still very much present. It would be equally wrong to imagine, as other officials are able to do, that what has happened here is an interesting but not very important phenomenon. It might well be, instead, a great turning point in world affairs.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON— The Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee and the Democrats who helped them report out a bill to extend the excess-profits-tax law may have unwittingly voted to make the next depression the worst in American history.

For the die has been cast now—if the Congress passes the proposed bill and a business recession sets in any time during the first half of next year, it could conceivably start a slide which would be far more severe than would have been the case otherwise.

The favorable vote of every member of the House and Senate on the extension of the excess-profits law will rise to plague him if the depression comes. For it will be a simple matter to show the relationship between that vote and the momentum given to a business decline. This is because of a peculiar situation that has developed in what is known as a catching-up on corporation tax collections.

Can't Abate Payment

Under a statutory change now in effect, every corporation which used to pay its taxes for the preceding caledar year on a quarterly basis in the following year will find itself compelled to pay 45 per cent on its taxes for 1953 by March 15 and 90 per cent by June 30, 1954.

This is very important to American business because, if a recession comes it will not be possible to abate the payment of taxes during the second half of 1954 and take a credit, as used to be the case. Nearly all of the tax money will have to be paid out and refunds will not be effective until the beginning of the calendar year 1955. The meaning of this in terms of working capital for businesses that are hit by a recession is clear to those who know how successfully the refund system worked at the close of World War II. At that time, it was possible to cease paying quarterly taxes and use the reserve funds that had been put away for tax payments to the federal government as a cushion or capital fund to stay in business during a difficult transition period.

Many businesses have figured on the accumulation of a reserve fund for a post-Korean depression out of the savings made on the abatement of a half year of excess-profits taxes. This relief now appears to be headed for the wastebasket.

It is misleading for the Treasury and for Representative Jere Cooper, Democrat, of Tennessee, ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee, to argue that, because out of the 424,000 corporations only 50,000 paid an excess-profits tax, the tax isn't painful. Actually, the statistics that should have been disclosed, in all fairness, are those that show the total amount of business or volume of sales done by those 50,000 corporations and the number of persons employed. Everybody who knows anything about corporation statistics is aware that, of the 424,000 corporations, the largest number employ less than 20 persons.

GOP Will Get Blame

The real problem of unemployment and the disastrous chain reaction that can start in and affect all other businesses is to be found in those 50,000 corporations that are paying excess-profits taxes. Many of them are the competitors of the truly big businesses. What the Treasury should also have disclosed is the total number of big corporations that either pay no excess-profits taxes or a negligible amount. The dominant units in various industries aren't worrying about an excess-profits-tax repeal because they know it doesn't affect them materially but will affect their smaller competitors.

When a recession sets in, the administration will get no help from the Democrats who helped sabotage the Republican pledge of a reduction of taxes, for they will be the first to blame the Republicans for the depression.

The crucial period is the last six months of 1953—and it will be too late to lock the barn in 1954 by remedial legislation. For many businesses may be closing their doors then. The administration 's only chance to save itself politically will come if the depression holds off for another year, thus giving time for legislation to be passed making refunds of excess-profits-tax money.

Shadows Of Windsor's Love For Wally

Leftist Magazine Says Cabinet Nixed Margaret's Romance

LONDON, July 9 (AP) — Shadows of the Duke of Windsor's love for an American divorcee fell today over the reported romance of Princess Margaret with a dashing RAF officer who divorced his wife.

Britons, who were long kept in the dark about Windsor's romance with Wallis Simpson that finally cost him his throne, are openly debating his 22-year-old niece's right to marry the man reported to be her choice.

Margaret is third in line for the throne.

The fortnightly left-wing magazine, Tribune, which seldom misses a chance to attack Prime Minister Winston Churchill, said today the Cabinet had been approached on whether Margaret should marry RAF Group Captain Peter Townsend and had said "no." The Tribune denounced the action as "cowardly."

Buckingham Palace, traditionally silent on the personal life of members of the royal family, had nothing to say about the Tribune article. Churchill was resting at his country home in Chartwell, and no other Cabinet official was available for comment.

The usually authoritative chief parliamentary correspondent of the British Press Association said however he "understood" the issue had never been considered by the Cabinet.

Queen Elizabeth must approve Margaret's marriage.

The Press Association correspondent explained in the event the Queen wanted guidance as to ministerial opinion "the most likely course would be for her to consult simply the Prime Minister or whatever senior minister was acting for him. There is, however, no reason to think that this has been done."

But, The Church of England Newspaper, a privately owned weekly edited by a Church of England clergyman, described the princess as a "victim of match-making spinsters."

Striking out at gossip surrounding Margaret's romance, the weekly said:

"She knows her own mind and it is not the duty of this newspaper or any other to dictate the course she should follow.

"She is a gay and witty young lady . . . she is also a dutiful churchwoman who knows what strong views many leaders of the church hold in this matter. She is a regular communicant.

"In considering marriage any serious member of the church might face very real perplexity. So many of the finest and most honorable people have been involved in divorce courts and naturally do not wish this to debar them from future happiness.

"Yet the thought of the religious principle concerned might cause to some the very deepest suffering."

Alaskan Volcano Erupts Violently

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, July 9 (AP) —Mt. Spurr, an active volcano 78 miles west of Anchorage, was erupting violently today, hurling solid particles large enough to damage aircraft to an altitude of 20,000 feet, the Air Force reported.

A cloud of swirling smoke towered an estimated 35,000 feet into the sky.

The Air Force notified commercial airlines of the eruption.

The Alaska Steamship Company at Seattle reported it was notified the skies were so murky at Anchorage it was almost like dusk at mid-day.

A report from Seward on Kenai Peninsular, to the south, said there was hardly any visibility there, the Alaska Steamship Company said.

The towering cloud was described as "almost like a huge raincloud."

Production Of Army Trucks, Tanks To Be Cut Back Half Billion Dollars

DETROIT, July 9 (AP)—The Detroit Ordnance Tank Automotive Center, the chief vehicle purchasing agent for the Army, today announced a half billion dollar cutback in its 1954 defense contract spending for trucks and tanks.

The cutbacks are scheduled to take effect next January on contracts for production of 2½ ton and five ton trucks, and in March on medium tanks, the M47 and M48, now produced by the Chrysler Corp., and the Ford Motor Company.

Brig. Gen. Carroll H. Deitrick, commanding officer of the center, said the drastic cutbacks were ordered by the Defense Department in Washington. He said a reduction in the Defense Department budget and the desire to place all contracts for the production of a vehicle type with one manufacturer were responsible for the cutbacks.

Deitrick said the cutbacks would reduce the center's defense spending for 2½ and five ton trucks by 50 per cent.

The center currently handles truck and tank contracts totaling 160 million dollars a month. Deitrick said previously announced cutbacks would drop the figure to 90 million dollars a month at the end of 1953. The latest cutbacks announced today will drop the figure to 50 million dollars a month by March of 1954.

Deitrick said the announced contract cutbacks would not affect the center's overall spending on ordnance equipment other than the 2½ ton and five ton trucks and the medium tanks.

Deitrick said the cutbacks did not reflect a desire on the part of the government to replace civilian producers with government production facilities. Deitrick said the tank-automotive center, itself, is a research and procurement center and does not produce ordnance equipment.

Spokesmen for the tank-automotive center said the future status of contracts held by companies now producing trucks and tanks would be determined by bidding for new contracts.

GIRL MAULED IN LOCAL STORE

CUMBERLAND, Md., July 9 — Terry Denim, pretty salesgirl, today revealed the details of her harrowing experience at the Peoples Store. "It all happened a few days ago," began Miss Denim. "When I reported for work the manager approached me with a strange look in his eyes and informed me that it would be my duty to open the store that day for the start of the semi-annual clearance sale of apparel.

A tremendous crowd had gathered outside the store, clamoring to get in. I unlocked the door and was immediately knocked down and trampled by the surging crowd. The last thing I remember was the excited voices of shoppers as they saw the reduced price merchandise." Upon regaining consciousness Miss Denim was taken to her home to recuperate.

"I can't blame those people," continued Miss Denim, "for wanting to take advantage of those low clearance sale prices. Guard Units Winding Up At AP Hill

29th Division Will Break Camp Saturday

CAMP A. P. HILL, Va., July 9 (AP)—Preparations are under way here to close the 1953 field encampment of the 29th Infantry Division.

The citizen soldiers marked up their second bivouac field training here and the sixth post-war summer camp.

Early Saturday morning, the guardsmen will begin their motor convoy movement to their home stations, and by late Saturday the men of the 29th will again be sleeping between sheets.

Despite dry weather and a lack of rain, the National Guardsmen obtained maximum training during prior barracks encampements, and no serious cases cropped up, according to Lt. Col. Robert Kimberly, division surgeon.

"The main complaint we had was chigger bites and some poison ivy treatments," Kimberly said.

Brig. Gen. Henry C. Evans, commander of the 29th, described the encampment as one of the most successful he had attended. He attributed the success to the excellent training weather and to the spirit of every man of the division entering seriously into the field routine.

Artillery units today spent the day preparing their sights after their arrival here from Camp Pickett, where they engaged in firing exercises. The medical men of the division's 104th Medical Battallion, took part in an evacuation by helicopter to demonstrate latest methods now being used in Korea in the treatment of the wounded.

Alfalfa Is Sprayed To Kill Leafhoppers

Theodore Bissell of the Entomology Department at the University of Maryland visited two Allegany County farms Wednesday to spray alfalfa in a demonstration on the control of leafhoppers.

Alfalfa on the farms of John T. Mason at Cresaptown and Albert Slider at Oldtown was sprayed with methoxychlor. The spraying was done as the alfalfa began to turn yellow because of the leafhoppers' damage.

Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger said the alfalfa will be checked again in about 10 days to determine whether all of the leafhoppers have been exterminated.

Divorce Granted

Gordon Phillips has been granted a divorce in Allegany County Circuit Court from Anna Mary Phillips, who was given the right to resume use of her maiden name of Anna Mary Crawl.

Equity Suits Filed

Two equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Annie Devlin Eberly vs. Charles Francis Eberly and Howard V. Dickerhoof vs. Inez M. Dickerhoof.

SRC Officials Confer Here

Reckord Stand Backed By Legion Resolution

General Criticizes Military Laws

BALTIMORE, July 9 (AP) — The state convention of the American Legion today passed a resolution supporting Gen. Milton A. Reckord's criticism of the federal military service law.

The state department of the legion also approved a resolution calling upon Congress and the president to re-establish the 143 - wing goal for the United States Air Force.

The latter resolution reflected opposition to the trimming from 143 to 120 air wings by the present administration.

The endorsement of Reckord's position followed an address last night by the state adjutant general in which he took issue with provisions of the military service law which hold veterans on call for repeated tours of active duty while academic and occupational deferments are granted to younger men.

Other resolutions passed included:

1. One urging a congressional investigation of alleged Communist infiltration of the American Civil Liberties Union. The orgenization, which has a Baltimore chapter, furnishes defense counsel in cases involving civil rights.

2. One citing the danger of disbandonment of the Maryland Air National Guard because of inadequate facilities at its Harbor Field base.

Study Resolutions

Among resolutions under study by the committee is one submitted by Stallings-Williams Post of North Beach. It proposes that Federal funds be withheld from educational institutions until they furnish evidence that all administrative personnel, including teachers, have taken non-Communist oaths.

The resolution also proposes that textbooks and study courses in institutions receiving federal funds be approved by a national committee "of recognized and outstanding citizens."

Meanwhile, there was reaction from Maryland congressmen on the Reckord speech of last night.

The general had expressed "keen disappointment" that congressmen at the initial convention session did not stay long enough to hear his attack on the Universal Military Training and Service Act.

"Politicians seem to see how many meetings they can attend in a single night," Reckord said after the congressmen left the session.

Rep. Hyde Replies

Rep. Hyde (D-Md) of the Sixth District said in reply that he didn't see that Reckord "was called on to make that remark."

"How did we know what he was going to talk about?" said Hyde.

He added he didn't think Reckord's remarks were "very well taken or 'thought out'" and pointed out that the United States has won battles "in the factories and laboratories."

He agreed that men who have served before should be the last called upon for further active duty, but added, "We have still got to maintain the production line."

Rep. Fallon, Fourth District Democrat, said it was unfortunate that he and the others had to attend another meeting. He said he felt the military service law "is unfair in many cases."

McCain explained that the 12-year program is by law divided into three four-year sections. During each four-year period, the SRC is required to give each county no more than five per cent more or less road mileage than is provided in the plan.

Norman M. Pritchett, SRC locations engineer, said the first four-year plan for the belt route provides only for plans, surveys and the acquisition of rights of way, which already has begun. The second four years will include construction of 1.2 miles of the route, and the remainder of the construction will be done during the third four-year period.

May Change Schedule

McCain said the commission would go over the plan in detail to determine whether construction of the 1.2 miles of road scheduled for the second period could be started sooner without going over the five per cent margin.

If this can be done, said McCain, construction may be started ahead of schedule. He said the commission would be happy to meet with local representatives to discuss the proposal further.

State Senator Robert B. Kimble urged that the SRC think seriously about speeding up the construction project. McCain said the commission would have an answer ready soon.

Also representing the State Roads Commission at the meeting were Commissioner Avery W. Hall, George N. Lewis Jr., director of the SRC's traffic division, and District Engineer G. Bates Chaires.

Local representatives, besides members of the Mayor and Council, included James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, Benjamin W. O'Rourke and Anthony F. Saeli of the commission, and members of the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly.

Pick 'N Pack Porch Picnics

Back Porch picnics can be fun even for the lady of the house when the food is pre-cooked and pre-packed in baskets for easy toting to the picnic area. Fried chicken in the basket, fresh buns, potato chips, tomato wedges, scallions and hot-corn-on-the-cob are favorite finger foods the family will love. The corn is the only food which will need last minute preparation. Just line up the baskets—and when you're ready to serve, invite the family in to pick up their basket of food and tote. Iced tea can be made early in the day, too, and will not cloud if you make it this new way and keep it out of the refrigerator until you're ready to serve. Bring 1 quart of fresh water to a full rolling boil. Remove from heat. Immediately add 6 tablespoons of tea. (Three tea bags equal a tablespoon.) Brew 3-5 minutes. Stir. Strain into a pitcher holding 1 quart of cold water. To serve, put 2-3 ice cubes in a glass. Fill with tea — add sugar and lemon to taste.

The good thing to remember about serving iced tea as a summer beverage is that iced tea has the full-bodied flavor men love because it gives them a lift that relaxes and really cools them off all the way down.

This basic recipe for iced tea can be used in many other summer drinks. Pineapple or cranberry juices blended well with tea. Frozen orange or lemonade ice cubes add variety in flavor to this hearty drink, too. You can serve iced tea often because it is so economical—and is also free of calories, unless, of course, you add your own by means of sugar, etc.

Homemakers are using more dry yeast in their bread recipes these days. That's why you see so many recipes with directions for using both the compressed kind and the dry. If you would like to use dry yeast bread recipes here's how to use it. Soften the dry yeast in water that is slightly warmer than the lukewarm which you use with compressed.

Pick 'N Pack Porch Picnics

Back Porch picnics can be fun even for the lady of the house when the food is pre-cooked and pre-packed in baskets for easy toting to the picnic area. Fried chicken in the basket, fresh buns, potato chips, tomato wedges, scallions and hot-corn-on-the-cob are favorite finger foods the family will love. The corn is the only food which will need last minute preparation. Just line up the baskets—and when you're ready to serve, invite the family in to pick up their basket of food and tote. Iced tea can be made early in the day, too, and will not cloud if you make it this new way and keep it out of the refrigerator until you're ready to serve. Bring 1 quart of fresh water to a full rolling boil. Remove from heat. Immediately add 6 tablespoons of tea. (Three tea bags equal a tablespoon.) Brew 3-5 minutes. Stir. Strain into a pitcher holding 1 quart of cold water. To serve, put 2-3 ice cubes in a glass. Fill with tea — add sugar and lemon to taste.

The good thing to remember about serving iced tea as a summer beverage is that iced tea has the full-bodied flavor men love because it gives them a lift that relaxes and really cools them off all the way down.

This basic recipe for iced tea can be used in many other summer drinks. Pineapple or cranberry juices blended well with tea. Frozen orange or lemonade ice cubes add variety in flavor to this hearty drink, too. You can serve iced tea often because it is so economical—and is also free of calories, unless, of course, you add your own by means of sugar, etc.

Homemakers are using more dry yeast in their bread recipes these days. That's why you see so many recipes with directions for using both the compressed kind and the dry. If you would like to use dry yeast bread recipes here's how to use it. Soften the dry yeast in water that is slightly warmer than the lukewarm which you use with compressed.

Sweet Cherry Sundaes

Sweet Cherry Festival coincides with Dairy Month and what a wonderful combination sweet cherries and ice cream make. This year sweet cherries will be available all of July. Pacific Northwest sweet cherries, bursting with juice and flavor, are perfect partners with ice cream. When Sweet Cherry Sundaes are served for dessert or refreshments there will be encore requests throughout the sweet cherry season.

Pacific Northwest sweet cherries are shipped all the way to the east coast to be enjoyed across the nation. The crop is excellent and a little early this year so be sure to get an adequate supply so that the family may have sweet cherries in all the ways they like best. Have a supply for eating out-of-hand during the brief sweet cherry season.

To enjoy sweet cherries during the winter, plan to can or freeze some and to make jams and marmalades. Sweet Cherry Sundae Sauce may be frozen for later use too, just pack sauce in freezing containers, leaving head space for expansion and put in the freezer. Sweet Cherry Sundaes will be a real treat during winter months.

Many homemakers like to freeze a few cherries without stemming or pitting. Place a few in several plyofilm bags, expell the air, seal and freeze. They are served for out-of-hand eating while still frosty and to garnish holiday salads or desserts.

Sweet Cherry Sundae Sauce

1½ lbs. dark sweet cherries, pitted
1¼ cups sugar
1 cup water
¼ teaspoon almond flavoring

Wash, stem and pit sweet cherries. Heat sugar and water to boiling, remove from heat, add flavoring and pitted sweet cherries. Chill sauce and serve over vanilla ice cream.

Bartlett Pear Jam

5 cups finely chopped fresh bartlett pears (about 8 pears)
1 large orange
1 small lemon
7½ cups sugar
1 bottle of liquid fruit pectin

Wash and peel bartlett pears. Chop finely and measure 5 cups. Place in saucepan and add sugar, grated rind and juice of 1 orange and the juice of 1 lemon. Bring to a boil and boil one minute. Add fruit pectin and remove from heat. Skim if necessary. Fill sterilized jars and seal. Yield 8 half pints.

Industry is always finding ways to make the homemaker's job easier. One of the biggest helps that has come along in the baking line is the pastry cloth set. This includes a canvas cloth on which you roll out the dough. You flour the cloth just as you would a bread board. The set also includes a cloth stocking for the rolling pin which you also flour. Excess flour works into the cloth and keeps the dough from sticking.

Try Peach Parfait

Peach Parfait is a fancy dessert that's simple to make with ready-to-use ingredients like pre-packaged peach ice cream and canned peach slices. Parfait is a tall layered combination made from a scoop of peach ice cream, a spoonful of peaches, another scoop of ice cream, a second spoonful of peaches, and a topping of more ice cream or whipped cream. Chill the parfait glass beforehand.

There's nothing prettier than the delicate color of peach ice cream and nothing more delicious than its cool, fresh peach flavor. And in addition peach ice cream will be featured by dealers everywhere this summer in convenient ready-to-buy pint and half-gallon cartons. That's the great advantage of pre-packaged ice cream. It's sold where you shop most often — in the grocery store — and it's ready to go when you are — no waiting while it's packed.

Parfaits look more spectacular because of the fancy glasses they're served in, but a peach sundae tastes just as good served in a sherbet glass. So don't let the glasses stop you—serve a delicious peach ice cream dessert while this popular flavor is in season.

Try Peach Parfait

Peach Parfait is a fancy dessert that's simple to make with ready-to-use ingredients like pre-packaged peach ice cream and canned peach slices. Parfait is a tall layered combination made from a scoop of peach ice cream, a spoonful of peaches, another scoop of ice cream, a second spoonful of peaches, and a topping of more ice cream or whipped cream. Chill the parfait glass beforehand.

There's nothing prettier than the delicate color of peach ice cream and nothing more delicious than its cool, fresh peach flavor. And in addition peach ice cream will be featured by dealers everywhere this summer in convenient ready-to-buy pint and half-gallon cartons. That's the great advantage of pre-packaged ice cream. It's sold where you shop most often — in the grocery store — and it's ready to go when you are — no waiting while it's packed.

Parfaits look more spectacular because of the fancy glasses they're served in, but a peach sundae tastes just as good served in a sherbet glass. So don't let the glasses stop you—serve a delicious peach ice cream dessert while this popular flavor is in season.

Make Your Sandwiches Sun-Safe For Picnics

Are you planning your picnic meals around sandwiches that are hot weather safe no matter how high the mercury soares? Here are five recipes for sale, delectable sandwiches. Just chill the fillings well in your refrigerator before the outing. Then take along the "fixings" for the sandwiches and let the picnic'ers make their own.

Chicken Rolls

1 5-ounce can boned chicken
2 tomatoes, diced
¼ cup minced green pepper
½ cup diced celery
2 green onions, minced
4 large stuffed green olives, diced
Salt, pepper, paprika, to taste
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
8 Frankfurter buns
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
Crisp lettuce leaves

Gently toss ingredients for the filling. Chill, covered, in the refrigerator until ready to stow away in your picnic basket. Cut thin slices from tops of the buns; hollow out insides. It's A Year To Freeze Northwest Sweet Cherries

The Pacific Northwest sweet cherries greet the season early this year. The crop is in good supply and the quality superb. It's a year to freeze, to can, and to make jams and jellies and to revel in the plentiful supply of these juicy, flavorful, wonderful cherries.

Dark Sweet Cherries will be on the markets all of July. Be sure to get a supply for "putting up" early in the season. Quality is best for freezing when cherries are fully tree-ripened but firm with a snap in the skins. Best varieties to freeze are Bing, Lambert, and Deacon.

The desirable characteristic of cherries for freezing are a firm texture, uniform maturity, tender skin, richness of flavor and uniform color. Fully ripe fruit has less tendency to lose its color and to shrivel.

Preparation for freezing is simple, but each step is important. Careful and prompt handling after purchase is essential for a quality pack. Sort, remove stems, wash and drain the fruit. Cherries should be pitted or pricked on four sides (with a darning needle) for sugar absorption. Cherries with stems may be frozen for garnish. When pits are left in cherries, they often impart a slight almond flavor.

A 40% syrup pack is recommended. For retention of color and flavor after thawing, pre-treat cherries by adding ⅛ teaspoon ascorbic acid and ⅛ teaspoon citric acid per cup of cold syrup. To insure its effectiveness, add ascorbic and citric acid to syrup with a minimum of agitation just before using. A 40% syrup is made by dissolving 1 part sugar in 1-½ parts water.

Sweet cherries like all other food products to be frozen should be handled gently and quickly. Be careful not to bruise the fruit. Make syrup in advance of freezing preparation. Cover fruit with chilled syrup. Leave head space in jars and insert crumpled cellophane to hold fruit under syrup. Put filled and labeled containers into the freezer near the bottom and sides where they will freeze quickly. If fruit must be held before being placed in a frozen food locker, keep it in refrigerator until it can be transported to the locker. Keep temperature of freezer at 0° or lower.

When the snow flies next winter it will be a delight to have fresh tasting, delicious sweet cherries for the table. They're wonderful for molded salads, desserts of many kinds and just "as is." The flavor is best when they're served with a few ice crystals still present. They should be used soon after thawing.

In 1950, Scotland had one house for every 3⅗ persons.

Pears de Menthe

3 ripe California bartlett pears
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
Creme de menthe, about 1 tablespoon, or ½ teaspoon mint flavor-and 1 drop green food coloring
Finely chopped walnuts, about 3 tablespoons

Cream the cheese with a fork. Blend in creme de menthe or mint flavoring and green food coloring. Form cheese into 6 balls, then roll in finely chopped walnuts. Wash, halve and core the ripe Bartlett pears. Put a cheese ball in the center of each pear and thoroughly chill. Serve one pear half on a dessert plate, garnish with a simple garden leaf.

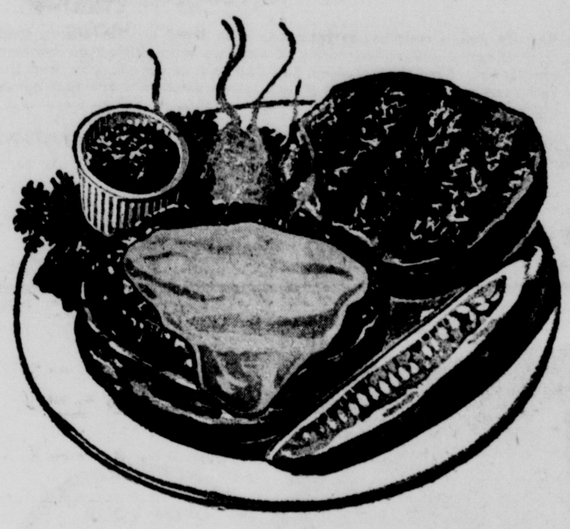

Thrifty homemakers rely on the important diet contribution made by enriched breads. They realize that bread is an economical source of three B-vitamins, plant protein, and food iron. Bread has always been important, but it took modern food scientists to prove it worth.

It's A Year To Freeze Northwest Sweet Cherries

The Pacific Northwest sweet cherries greet the season early this year. The crop is in good supply and the quality superb. It's a year to freeze, to can, and to make jams and jellies and to revel in the plentiful supply of these juicy, flavorful, wonderful cherries.

Dark Sweet Cherries will be on the markets all of July. Be sure to get a supply for "putting up" early in the season. Quality is best for freezing when cherries are fully tree-ripened but firm with a snap in the skins. Best varieties to freeze are Bing, Lambert, and Deacon.

The desirable characteristic of cherries for freezing are a firm texture, uniform maturity, tender skin, richness of flavor and uniform color. Fully ripe fruit has less tendency to lose its color and to shrivel.

Preparation for freezing is simple, but each step is important. Careful and prompt handling after purchase is essential for a quality pack. Sort, remove stems, wash and drain the fruit. Cherries should be pitted or pricked on four sides (with a darning needle) for sugar absorption. Cherries with stems may be frozen for garnish. When pits are left in cherries, they often impart a slight almond flavor.

A 40% syrup pack is recommended. For retention of color and flavor after thawing, pre-treat cherries by adding ⅛ teaspoon ascorbic acid and ⅛ teaspoon citric acid per cup of cold syrup. To insure its effectiveness, add ascorbic and citric acid to syrup with a minimum of agitation just before using. A 40% syrup is made by dissolving 1 part sugar in 1-½ parts water.

Sweet cherries like all other food products to be frozen should be handled gently and quickly. Be careful not to bruise the fruit. Make syrup in advance of freezing preparation. Cover fruit with chilled syrup. Leave head space in jars and insert crumpled cellophane to hold fruit under syrup. Put filled and labeled containers into the freezer near the bottom and sides where they will freeze quickly. If fruit must be held before being placed in a frozen food locker, keep it in refrigerator until it can be transported to the locker. Keep temperature of freezer at 0° or lower.

When the snow flies next winter it will be a delight to have fresh tasting, delicious sweet cherries for the table. They're wonderful for molded salads, desserts of many kinds and just "as is." The flavor is best when they're served with a few ice crystals still present. They should be used soon after thawing.

In 1950, Scotland had one house for every 3⅗ persons.

Pears de Menthe

3 ripe California bartlett pears
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
Creme de menthe, about 1 tablespoon, or ½ teaspoon mint flavor-and 1 drop green food coloring
Finely chopped walnuts, about 3 tablespoons

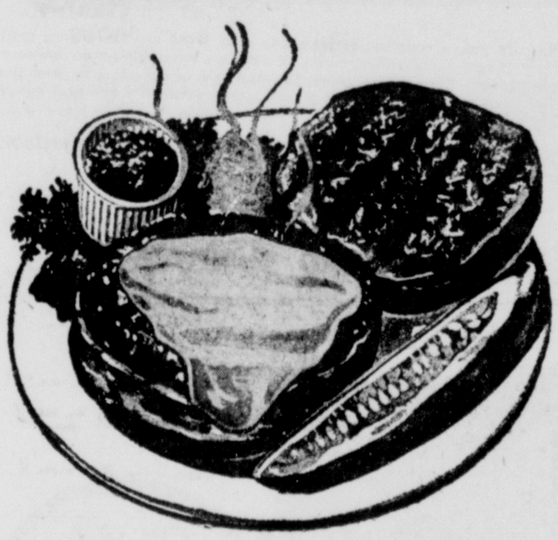

Cream the cheese with a fork. Blend in creme de menthe or mint flavoring and green food coloring. Form cheese into 6 balls, then roll in finely chopped walnuts. Wash, halve and core the ripe Bartlett pears. Put a cheese ball in the center of each pear and thoroughly chill. Serve one pear half on a dessert plate, garnish with a simple garden leaf.

Thrifty homemakers rely on the important diet contribution made by enriched breads. They realize that bread is an economical source of three B-vitamins, plant protein, and food iron. Bread has always been important, but it took modern food scientists to prove it worth.

Kekkonen Forms Fourth Finnish Cabinet Since '50

HELSINKI, Finland, July 9 (AP)—Premier Urho Kekkonen, the leader of the right-of-center Agrarian party who has proved he can get along with Russia's Communists, succeeded today in forming his fourth Cabinet since 1950.

It is a minority Cabinet composed of eight Agrarians, three representatives of the Swedist minority party and three independent experts. With only 51 Agrarian votes in the 200-member one-chamber Parliament and 14 Swedish party votes, the Cabinet must stake its life on keeping its extreme right and left opposition divided. It was far from certain it will get a vote of confidence when Parliament meets July 21.

The new foreign minister is Ralph Toerngren, a Finnish Swede, and the minister of finance is June Niukkanen, an Agrarian.

The lean, bald Kekkonen turned in the resignation of his Agrarian-Social Democratic government two weeks ago in a split over a Socialist demand for immediate devaulation of the Finnish mark, now valued officially at 231 to the dollar though quoted to tourists at 350.

Kekkonen's program, called the "K-Plan," calls for cutting production costs by rolling back prices and holding down wages, but opinion is divided as to whether he can succeed.

Finland faces one of her most difficult situations, with the cost of living index nine times what it was in 1939, exports falling and unemployment rising. The state paid out 20 billion Finnish marks last winter for unemployment relief works, 11 billion more than it had to hand over to the Russians in its biggest yearly reparations payment to the Russians.

THE ANGLER RESTS—Herbert Hoover, former President who gave his occupation as "engineer" in buying his license to fish on the McKenzie River near Blue River, Ore., rests after an hour and half of fishing. He told of first fishing the McKenzie when a boy of 15 or 16. After his rest he fished another two hours with little luck.

Pilot Flies Two Planes At Once

DETROIT, July 9 (AP)—A young Navy pilot who flew two planes at one time dominated the opening day ceremonies of the International Aviation Exposition at the Detroit-Wayne Major Airport today.

The flier, Lt. John Gilchrist, of Freeport, N. Y., took off in a F7S "Tigercat" before a meager crowd of 3,000 persons. After gaining altitude, Lt. Gilchrist picked up a radio controlled F6F "Hellcat" fighter. He put the drone plane through a brief flight by radio control before returning it to a ground radio control center.

Also on view at the four day exposition celebrating the golden anniversary of powered flight, was a two million square foot static display of America's latest fighting planes, including the Navy's guided missile "Regulus."

Mock combat battles by the Air Force and demonstrations of refueling-in-flight methods are also on tap during the show.

A non-stop 24 hour flight to the corners of the nation and back here to the air exposition by a ten engine Convair RB36 photo reconnaissance bomber from Rapid City, S. D., will highlight Friday's show activities.

Some 25 air leaders from the United States and foreign countries were expected to attend the exposition over the week end.

Lebanon To Begin Picking New Parliament On Sunday

BEIRUT, Lebanon, July 9 (AP)—Lebanon will begin Sunday to pick a new Parliament after a brisk campaign in which the Socialist party has made the United States the main whipping boy.

Sunday's balloting will be in Beirut and the Mt. Lebanon district. South Lebanon and the Bekaa district will vote July 19 and North Lebanon July 26.

The Socialists are a relatively minor party which still manages to wield considerable influence. This was demonstrated last year when the party, with only two members in Parliament, led a campaign that unseated President Bechara el Khoury.

The Socialists have attacked the Point Four technical assistance program in this country on the ground that it bolsters existing social and political institutions. They are demanding higher taxes and fees on such foreign companies as the American-owned Trans-Arabian Pipeline (Tapline).

Socialist leader Kamal Jumblatt also is tarring most of his opponents with the brush of support for the proposed Middle Eastern Defense Organization (MEDO).

The U. S. in the past plugged hard for MEDO, but Secretary of State Dulles conceded after his recent tour through the area that no defense setup can be imposed on the Middle East by outsiders.

But Jumblatt claims this revision of American policy was only window dressing and that all the present Arab governments under the leadership of Lebanese President Camille Chamoun are working under cover for some version of MEDO. This is despite the fact that the Foreign Affairs Committee of Lebanon's Parliament served notice on Dulles during his visit here in May that the Arab countries cannot accept a defense setup designed from the outside.

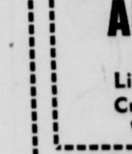

When your eyes are tired you are more apt to be bothered by cinders and dust because the tissues do not react normally to get rid of foreign matter.

Curiosity Keeps Police Dispatchers On Jump

KANSAS CITY, July 9 (AP) — Curiosity kept police radio dispatchers on the jump last night and today.

More than 500 persons called the police dispatchers emergency number, Benton 8100, last night. The calls continued today. As soon as the dispatchers answered, the callers hung up.

Police said the rush began after many persons had received advertising matter from a bank. These contained a small celluloid disc, bearing emergency telephone numbers, to be placed on the center of telephone dials.

Kekkonen Forms Fourth Finnish Cabinet Since '50

HELSINKI, Finland, July 9 (AP)—Premier Urho Kekkonen, the leader of the right-of-center Agrarian party who has proved he can get along with Russia's Communists, succeeded today in forming his fourth Cabinet since 1950.

It is a minority Cabinet composed of eight Agrarians, three representatives of the Swedist minority party and three independent experts. With only 51 Agrarian votes in the 200-member one-chamber Parliament and 14 Swedish party votes, the Cabinet must stake its life on keeping its extreme right and left opposition divided. It was far from certain it will get a vote of confidence when Parliament meets July 21.

STAG LINES for men

by Bert Bacharach

MATCHED: His Tie, Sash and Her Dress Are Same Hue

Boy Matches Girl

FASHION: Robert Q. Lewis, the radio-TV comedian, has come up with a new idea for the man on a big date. Lewis, it seems, has a vari-colored assortment of dress ties and cummerbunds. When he has a date, he checks on what color dress she will wear—and picks his own accessories to match. For instance, with Cam Stephens (above), his light blue tie and cummerbund complement her evening dress of the same hue.

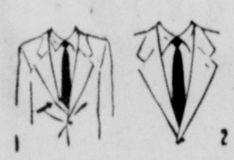

We Repeat: In case you didn't send for your free copy of the new booklet, "83 BEST HANDYMAN HINTS From Stag Lines," best you do so at once. Send a stamped self-addressed envelope to "Stag Lines," in care of this paper.

In the Stores: A new stainless steel mesh fishing basket that expands to hold your catch or your bait, when suspended from the boat into the water. Keeps both fresh. . . . Ray-Ban sunglasses, designed to specifications of an armed forces vision committee, which provide glare-eliminating vision in the truest colors we've yet seen.

Designer: (The second in a series.) Much credit for the great increase in the wearing of formal clothes is due the designer of such garments as the "Tony Martin" tuxedo. He is Robert Weil, of Rudo's formal wear (right). The old "strait jacket" has been transformed into more comfortable and colorful attire.

Dress Tips: When you pull trousers on over your feet, hold the cuffs—instead of letting them dust the floor. . . . Those new retractable-point pens are great—but just make sure they're retracted before putting them in shirt pocket.

Jacket Advice: Many men wear their jackets with an unsightly bulge in one lapel. Except in rare cases when the button needs to be moved, this is caused by putting the jacket on carelessly (see drawing, 1). The flaw can be corrected by straightening and setting the collar squarely on shoulders and neck (2).

Ten-Second Interview: Showman Richard Barstow—"The other fellow's grass may look greener—but it's just as hard to cut!"

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Leland Hayward, for his inspired and next-to-flawless production of the Ford Motor Company's fiftieth-anniversary television program. More than one critic has called it the finest show ever seen on TV.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

PROBING FOR TWO FITS

A FINE bidder can have a number of different reasons for calling another real suit after he has found his partner holding adequate support in one major. It might be that he hopes the second suit will make a better trump, due perhaps to four cards opposite four cards, so that an unbalanced suit may be on the side to furnish discards in the remaining two suits. Or it may be that he wants to find out if his partner has solidifying cards in the second suit, thereby enabling him without guessing to reach a higher contract, possibly a slam, in the first suit.

Of course South could have bulled his way into 6-Hearts as soon as he heard North's free bid of 2-Hearts over 2-Diamonds supporting the first suit. But he wanted to give himself every chance to reach a grand slam if it was in the cards, and also as much assurance as possible of the small slam if he bid it. He did this with his spade bids.

North naturally considered the first showing of that suit at 3-Spades to be a cue-bid showing an ace or blank and asking North to cue-bid if he had any first-round control. Having none, North practically had to return to the original suit with 4-Hearts, even though West had kept it open with 4-Clubs. South's second spade bid then, at 4-Spades, was a lulu. It told North the spade suit was the real thing, of at least five cards, the hearts being longer because bid beforehand.

Not knowing whether it was small or grand slam in which South was interested, North dutifully showed his fine support for a five-card suit with his 5-Spades. If North had then bid 5-Hearts, South would have known a slam was a gamble. But after the 5-Spades, he felt it was practically a sure thing, so bid the 6-Hearts, which he made with the loss of nothing except a trick to the club A.

No matter how you travel, make use of these sitting exercises and you're sure to be "fresh on arrival!"

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Resorts beckon, the sea - shore entices, the country calls us away. It may be for a weekend or a long vacation; by plane, car or train you are almost sure to be going some place this summer.

The thought of getting there is wonderful; the time spent enroute is less of a pleasure to some. It takes a seasoned traveler to know how to sit for hours without suffering cricks, rigidity pains and other discomforts.

Whatever means of travel you choose, there are sitting exercises you can do that will refresh you amazingly and get you to your destination delightfully free from bone weariness.

Fresh On Arrival

For one ,consider this: Start at your toes (yes, with your shoes on) and flex each toe separately. Really feel the toe pulling up and straightening out, each of the ten in turn.

Now give your ankles attention. Stretch one foot out straight, then pull it up far as you can. Circle it first to the right, then to the left. Next, give your other foot a workout.

Concentrating with all your might, work right straight up your body. Flex your calf muscles, not once but several times. Next, make your thigh muscles do tricks. Pull them outward and then inward, ten times in each direction.

Stretch your spine, pulling yourself up so you sit your very tallest. Relax. Do it again and again. Now pull your waist out of your hips and your chest out of your waist and your shoulder up from your chest in rapid succession on your left side only. Do the same on your right. Alternate this activity ten times. Then take ten deep breaths.

Rotate your shoulders in unison in as wide circles as you can, starting forward, down and then back, up and forward again.

All Set For Fun

Let's give the chin and neck a little attention next. Drop your chin to your chest, swing it to the left, straight back and over to the right side and down to the chest again. Stretch in all directions, as far as you can.

Even while driving a car, you can perform many of these actions and it will relieve tension, fatigue and boredom. If you are a passenger, you can perform all of them. Some can be carried out without calling attention to yourself even in planes or trains.

Use a little ingenuity and your system will never resent sitting for hours. You'll arrive anywhere feeling your very fittest for whatever fun you have planned!

YOUR POSTURE

To achieve grace of the highest degree — to make yours the posture ideal — to improve stance, figure, health and the appearance of your clothes as well, read the informative, easy-to-follow booklet "YOUR POSTURE". For a copy write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to help cover cost.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—How was the trip?" Gordon Gilmore, vice president of TWA, asked me the other day. I had not seen him since leaving the coronation late in May. May.

"Okay," I said, and went on talking about something else. It was not until a bit later that I remembered a pledge made long ago: Never take anything for granted. Like the quiet ecstasy of flight, for example.

From the transportation standpoint, which is Gilmore's game, the trip was superbly, magnificently, inspiringly routine. Absolutely nothing happened, I should have been thrilled to say. A succession of planes, mostly TWA, (though I had a spell in Pan Am's Boeing and BOAC's Comet) took off, flew high and fast, and dropped back to earth like feathers.

No serious engine troubles, no distressing delays, no trouble getting fine food and drink abroad, no trouble sleeping, no trouble staying awake, not even any trouble from that passenger who tilts his or her seat back — all the way — without ever looking back at you, and winds up in your food tray, or lap. Just flew over the ocean a couple of times. And over some places like France, Switzerland, Italy, Newfoundland, etc.

"It would be nice sometime," Gilmore said, "if the airlines could make news by not making news. If anything goes wrong—wow! — we don't have any trouble getting attention. But somehow it isn't news when we achieve the miracle of routine aerial transportation to any part of the world."

So true. So true.

Until then I hadn't considered it especially newsworthy to write that the airport of Gander closed in just before our Constellation appeared overhead. We hovered around a bit, then started for Goose Bay, Labrador, a huge World War II base run by the RAF and our Army Air Force, but that closed in, too. With a shrug the plane turned and came down in the brilliant sunshine of Stephensville, on the opposite side of Newfoundland from Gander.

A small item, to be sure, as aviation news goes. But the versatility and range of the plane, and the astonishing system of radio and radar contact between the plane and the sleepless control towers on the ground, made certain that about 60 passengers were going to reach a safe port with a minimum of personal inconvenience and a maximum of attentive care from the operators.

Came home on TWA's Ambassador flight out of Paris. Because New York is five hours behind Paris time, the flight from east to west across the Atlantic is even more eye-lifting than going the other way. It would have been quite possible to have had a cocktail at the Ritz Bar, dinner in Shannon airport's fine restaurant, and breakfast in New York.

But these transatlantic lines get pretty upset if you want to take your eating and drinking business elsewhere. Sipped a gratis drink over the channel, while the girl passed trays of hors-d'oeuvres, started a fine steak dinner 19,000 feet over London, had an Irish mist liquer at Shannon, called a couple relatives in Clare, came back to the plane and the beds had been made up.

Can't imagine a more restful place to sleep than in a plane high over the Atlantic . . . or any other ocean. Plane beds are huge, as you probably know, and the sound of the engines is a lullaby. No pollen at that height.

We landed five minutes early in the slanting morning sunshine at Idlewild, where the world's best customs officers hold forth. The kids were still asleep when I let myself in. One of them half-opened an eye.

"How were things at Toots'?" he asked, drowsily.

I told him I had just come from the shores of France, not the Shor's of 51st Street.

"Oh," he remarked, and went back to sleep—this child of the air age.

If You Can then Don't Delay Another Day—for now it can be controlled with Freedom and Comfort in every normal day and night activity.

STAG LINES for men

by Bert Bacharach

MATCHED: His Tie, Sash and Her Dress Are Same Hue

Boy Matches Girl

FASHION: Robert Q. Lewis, the radio-TV comedian, has come up with a new idea for the man on a big date. Lewis, it seems, has a vari-colored assortment of dress ties and cummerbunds. When he has a date, he checks on what color dress she will wear—and picks his own accessories to match. For instance, with Cam Stephens (above), his light blue tie and cummerbund complement her evening dress of the same hue.

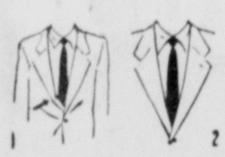

We Repeat: In case you didn't send for your free copy of the new booklet, "83 BEST HANDYMAN HINTS From Stag Lines," best you do so at once. Send a stamped self-addressed envelope to "Stag Lines," in care of this paper.

In the Stores: A new stainless steel mesh fishing basket that expands to hold your catch or your bait, when suspended from the boat into the water. Keeps both fresh. . . . Ray-Ban sunglasses, designed to specifications of an armed forces vision committee, which provide glare-eliminating vision in the truest colors we've yet seen.

Designer: (The second in a series.) Much credit for the great increase in the wearing of formal clothes is due the designer of such garments as the "Tony Martin" tuxedo. He is Robert Weil, of Rudo's formal wear (right). The old "strait jacket" has been transformed into more comfortable and colorful attire.

Dress Tips: When you pull trousers on over your feet, hold the cuffs—instead of letting them dust the floor. . . . Those new retractable-point pens are great—but just make sure they're retracted before putting them in shirt pocket.

Jacket Advice: Many men wear their jackets with an unsightly bulge in one lapel. Except in rare cases when the button needs to be moved, this is caused by putting the jacket on carelessly (see drawing, 1). The flaw can be corrected by straightening and setting the collar squarely on shoulders and neck (2).

Ten-Second Interview: Showman Richard Barstow—"The other fellow's grass may look greener—but it's just as hard to cut!"

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Leland Hayward, for his inspired and next-to-flawless production of the Ford Motor Company's fiftieth-anniversary television program. More than one critic has called it the finest show ever seen on TV.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

PROBING FOR TWO FITS

A FINE bidder can have a number of different reasons for calling another real suit after he has found his partner holding adequate support in one major. It might be that he hopes the second suit will make a better trump, due perhaps to four cards opposite four cards, so that an unbalanced suit may be on the side to furnish discards in the remaining two suits. Or it may be that he wants to find out if his partner has solidifying cards in the second suit, thereby enabling him without guessing to reach a higher contract, possibly a slam, in the first suit.

	♠ K Q 6 ♥ Q 9 8 3 ♦ J 7 6 3 ♣ 9 7
♠ J 9 ♥ 6 ♦ K 10 5 4 2 ♣ A J 8 6 3	N W E S	♠ 7 4 2 ♥ 10 4 ♦ Q 9 8 ♣ K Q 10 4 2
	♠ A 10 8 5 3 ♥ A K J 7 5 2 ♦ A ♣ 5

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	2 ♠	2 ♥	3 ♣
3 ♠	4 ♣	4 ♥	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	5 ♠	Pass

Of course South could have bulled his way into 6-Hearts as soon as he heard North's free bid of 2-Hearts over 2-Diamonds supporting the first suit. But he wanted to give himself every chance to reach a grand slam if it was in the cards, and also as much assurance as possible of the small slam if he bid it. He did this with his spade bids.

North naturally considered the first showing of that suit at 3-Spades to be a cue-bid showing an ace or blank and asking North to cue-bid if he had any first-round control. Having none, North practically had to return to the original suit with 4-Hearts, even though West had kept it open with 4-Clubs. South's second spade bid then, at 4-Spades, was a lulu. It told North the spade suit was the real thing, of at least five cards, the hearts being longer because bid beforehand.

Not knowing whether it was small or grand slam in which South was interested, North dutifully showed his fine support for a five-card suit with his 5-Spades. If North had then bid 5-Hearts, South would have known a slam was a gamble. But after the 5-Spades, he felt it was practically a sure thing, so bid the 6-Hearts, which he made with the loss of nothing except a trick to the club A.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Following South's 2-Hearts, North's 2-No Trumps, South's 3-Hearts and North's 4-Hearts, what is the expert and winning bidding on this tournament deal?

No matter how you travel, make use of these sitting exercises and you're sure to be "fresh on arrival!"

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Resorts beckon, the sea - shore entices, the country calls us away. It may be for a weekend or a long vacation; by plane, car or train you are almost sure to be going some place this summer.

The thought of getting there is wonderful; the time spent enroute is less of a pleasure to some. It takes a seasoned traveler to know how to sit for hours without suffering cricks, rigidity pains and other discomforts.

Whatever means of travel you choose, there are sitting exercises you can do that will refresh you amazingly and get you to your destination delightfully free from bone weariness.

Fresh On Arrival

For one ,consider this: Start at your toes (yes, with your shoes on) and flex each toe separately. Really feel the toe pulling up and straightening out, each of the ten in turn.

Now give your ankles attention. Stretch one foot out straight, then pull it up far as you can. Circle it first to the right, then to the left. Next, give your other foot a workout.

Concentrating with all your might, work right straight up your body. Flex your calf muscles, not once but several times. Next, make your thigh muscles do tricks. Pull them outward and then inward, ten times in each direction.

Stretch your spine, pulling yourself up so you sit your very tallest. Relax. Do it again and again. Now pull your waist out of your hips and your chest out of your waist and your shoulder up from your chest in rapid succession on your left side only. Do the same on your right. Alternate this activity ten times. Then take ten deep breaths.

Rotate your shoulders in unison in as wide circles as you can, starting forward, down and then back, up and forward again.

All Set For Fun

Let's give the chin and neck a little attention next. Drop your chin to your chest, swing it to the left, straight back and over to the right side and down to the chest again. Stretch in all directions, as far as you can.

Even while driving a car, you can perform many of these actions and it will relieve tension, fatigue and boredom. If you are a passenger, you can perform all of them. Some can be carried out without calling attention to yourself even in planes or trains.

Use a little ingenuity and your system will never resent sitting for hours. You'll arrive anywhere feeling your very fittest for whatever fun you have planned!

YOUR POSTURE

To achieve grace of the highest degree — to make yours the posture ideal — to improve stance, figure, health and the appearance of your clothes as well, read the informative, easy-to-follow booklet "YOUR POSTURE". For a copy write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to help cover cost.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—How was the trip?" Gordon Gilmore, vice president of TWA, asked me the other day. I had not seen him since leaving the coronation late in May. May.

"Okay," I said, and went on talking about something else. It was not until a bit later that I remembered a pledge made long ago: Never take anything for granted. Like the quiet ecstasy of flight, for example.

From the transportation standpoint, which is Gilmore's game, the trip was superbly, magnificently, inspiringly routine. Absolutely nothing happened, I should have been thrilled to say. A succession of planes, mostly TWA, (though I had a spell in Pan Am's Boeing and BOAC's Comet) took off, flew high and fast, and dropped back to earth like feathers.

No serious engine troubles, no distressing delays, no trouble getting fine food and drink abroad, no trouble sleeping, no trouble staying awake, not even any trouble from that passenger who tilts his or her seat back — all the way — without ever looking back at you, and winds up in your food tray, or lap. Just flew over the ocean a couple of times. And over some places like France, Switzerland, Italy, Newfoundland, etc.

"It would be nice sometime," Gilmore said, "if the airlines could make news by not making news. If anything goes wrong—wow! — we don't have any trouble getting attention. But somehow it isn't news when we achieve the miracle of routine aerial transportation to any part of the world."

So true. So true.

Until then I hadn't considered it especially newsworthy to write that the airport of Gander closed in just before our Constellation appeared overhead. We hovered around a bit, then started for Goose Bay, Labrador, a huge World War II base run by the RAF and our Army Air Force, but that closed in, too. With a shrug the plane turned and came down in the brilliant sunshine of Stephensville, on the opposite side of Newfoundland from Gander.

A small item, to be sure, as aviation news goes. But the versatility and range of the plane, and the astonishing system of radio and radar contact between the plane and the sleepless control towers on the ground, made certain that about 60 passengers were going to reach a safe port with a minimum of personal inconvenience and a maximum of attentive care from the operators.

Came home on TWA's Ambassador flight out of Paris. Because New York is five hours behind Paris time, the flight from east to west across the Atlantic is even more eye-lifting than going the other way. It would have been quite possible to have had a cocktail at the Ritz Bar, dinner in Shannon airport's fine restaurant, and breakfast in New York.

But these transatlantic lines get pretty upset if you want to take your eating and drinking business elsewhere. Sipped a gratis drink over the channel, while the girl passed trays of hors-d'oeuvres, started a fine steak dinner 19,000 feet over London, had an Irish mist liquer at Shannon, called a couple relatives in Clare, came back to the plane and the beds had been made up.

Can't imagine a more restful place to sleep than in a plane high over the Atlantic . . . or any other ocean. Plane beds are huge, as you probably know, and the sound of the engines is a lullaby. No pollen at that height.

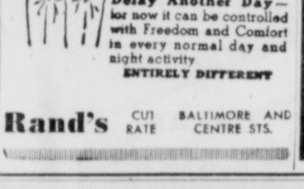

We landed five minutes early in the slanting morning sunshine at Idlewild, where the world's best customs officers hold forth. The kids were still asleep when I let myself in. One of them half-opened an eye.

"How were things at Toots'?" he asked, drowsily.

I told him I had just come from the shores of France, not the Shor's of 51st Street.

"Oh," he remarked, and went back to sleep—this child of the air age.

Decline Ends Six-Session Advance In Stock Market

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP) — The stock market sagged today without much emphasis, snapping a six-session advance.

It was not very often that losses went to as much as a point, and the gains also were restricted.

Railroads were a target for selling in a mild sort of way. As a group the rails displayed the greatest decline.

Going down along with the rails were steels, oils, coppers, chemicals, rubbers, aircrafts, and radio-television issues. Most air lines, motion picture issues and building material issues were lower.

Utilities were narrowly mixed, and the automobiles held steady.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 30 cents and stood at $108.80. The industrial component of the average was down 40 cents, and railroads lost 60 cents while utilities held unchanged.

The list was only moderately broad with 1,066 individual issues traded of which 289 advanced and 493 declined with 6 new highs and 20 new lows for the year touched during the day.

Volume remained low at 910,000 shares. That compares with 950,000 shares traded yesterday. Both are below the daily average so far this year of 1,516,000 shares.

American Power & Light topped the most active list unchanged at 2⅝ with 31,000 shares traded, including one block of 29,500 shares which went at 2½. New York Central was in second place off ¼ at 25 after topping the list for the two previous days with small gains. Laclede Gas, which found oil in St. Louis by mistake, was in third place with a gain of ⅜ at 8⅞.

Among lower stocks were U.S. Steel, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Kennecott Copper, American Cyanamid, Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, Western Maryland, Texas Pacific Land Trust, and Westinghouse Electric.

C & W Employes Form New Bus Company

A certificate of incorporation was sought yesterday from the Maryland State Tax Commission for a newly-organized bus company.

The new firm is known as the People's Transit Company, Inc., and is comprised of former employes of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company.

The C&W has made application with the Public Service Commission to abandon its service between Cumberland and Bloomington, via Frostburg and Westernport, and from Frostburg to Mt. Savage and Amcelle.

The People's Transit Company made application yesterday with the public Service Commission for the permits now held by the C&W.

Guy M. and Marie E. Davis, owners of the Cumberland Transit Lines, made application last month for a part of the franchise held by the C&W.

The Davises want to operate between Cumberland and Lonaconing only, by way of Frostburg.

The Peoples Transit Company wants to operate on all the C&W routes.

A hearing has been set by the Public Service Commission on the C&W's petition to abandon its service Thursday, July 16, at 11 a. m. in the office of the PSC in Baltimore.

At the same time, the commission will hear the petition of the Davises.

It is possible the Peoples Transit Company may air its petition at the same time.

The directors are Jesse Jacobs, and Paul C. Haberlein, both veteran drivers for the C&W. Jacobs is mayor of Frostburg and Haberlein is a Frostburg city commissioner.

The C&W in its petition to drop its service cited declining revenues and increasing expenses as its reasons for abandonment.

The stockholders have voted to liquidate the firm in the event abandonment approval is granted by the PSC.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do you live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.—Advertisement.

Decline Ends Six-Session Advance In Stock Market

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP) — The stock market sagged today without much emphasis, snapping a six-session advance.

It was not very often that losses went to as much as a point, and the gains also were restricted.

Railroads were a target for selling in a mild sort of way. As a group the rails displayed the greatest decline.

Going down along with the rails were steels, oils, coppers, chemicals, rubbers, aircrafts, and radio-television issues. Most air lines, motion picture issues and building material issues were lower.

Utilities were narrowly mixed, and the automobiles held steady.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 30 cents and stood at $108.80. The industrial component of the average was down 40 cents, and railroads lost 60 cents while utilities held unchanged.

The list was only moderately broad with 1,066 individual issues traded of which 289 advanced and 493 declined with 6 new highs and 20 new lows for the year touched during the day.

Volume remained low at 910,000 shares. That compares with 950,000 shares traded yesterday. Both are below the daily average so far this year of 1,516,000 shares.

American Power & Light topped the most active list unchanged at 2⅝ with 31,000 shares traded, including one block of 29,500 shares which went at 2½. New York Central was in second place off ¼ at 25 after topping the list for the two previous days with small gains. Laclede Gas, which found oil in St. Louis by mistake, was in third place with a gain of ⅜ at 8⅞.

Among lower stocks were U.S. Steel, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Kennecott Copper, American Cyanamid, Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, Western Maryland, Texas Pacific Land Trust, and Westinghouse Electric.

C & W Employes Form New Bus Company

A certificate of incorporation was sought yesterday from the Maryland State Tax Commission for a newly-organized bus company.

The new firm is known as the People's Transit Company, Inc., and is comprised of former employes of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company.

The C&W has made application with the Public Service Commission to abandon its service between Cumberland and Bloomington, via Frostburg and Westernport, and from Frostburg to Mt. Savage and Amcelle.

The People's Transit Company made application yesterday with the public Service Commission for the permits now held by the C&W.

Guy M. and Marie E. Davis, owners of the Cumberland Transit Lines, made application last month for a part of the franchise held by the C&W.

The Davises want to operate between Cumberland and Lonaconing only, by way of Frostburg.

The Peoples Transit Company wants to operate on all the C&W routes.

A hearing has been set by the Public Service Commission on the C&W's petition to abandon its service Thursday, July 16, at 11 a. m. in the office of the PSC in Baltimore.

At the same time, the commission will hear the petition of the Davises.

It is possible the Peoples Transit Company may air its petition at the same time.

The new firm has William R. Carscaden local attorney as resident agent. Carscaden and W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland law partners, are counsel for the company. Cobey went to Baltimore yesterday to file the papers.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 9 (INS) — Do you remember "Jubilee Trail," Gwenn Bristow's best selling novel which was a Literary Guild selection about five years ago?

If you do, you'll be very interested to hear that Papa Yates has bought it for Republic and it will star Vera Ralston, who in private life, is Mrs. Yates. Co-starring with her are Joan Leslie, Forrest Tucker and John Russell.

Out Republic way they have been working on this script for a long time and Gwenn Bristow's husband, Bruce Manning, has adapted the story, which you may recall deals with a trek across country from New York to California in 1885. Joseph Kane has been set to produce and direct.

There was a great hassle between Farley Granger and the Lux Film Company in Italy after "Summer Hurricane," which he wants to make in Rome.

Farley put his foot down and said he wouldn't make the picture unless they could find him an American author. He felt he had to be sure of a good script and not do a picture that was written on the cuff.

So they got him an American author all right—no less person than Tennessee Williams, which makes Farley happy and everyone concerned happy. The picture starts Aug. 16 and, by the way, Farley's doing very well in summer stock in "John Loves Mary."

John Derek wasn't free of his Columbia contract a hot 30 minutes before he signed for his first TV show. He'll be starred with Pat O'Brien and Ann Doran in "Tomorrow's Men" for Screen Gems (the Ford theatre of TV).

One thing John is insisting on, now that he's on his own, is that there be no more "pretty boy" publicity about him. He's a good actor and a sincere one and he feels he has been hurt by too much emphasis on his good looks.

I can tell him that the same thing happened to Bob Taylor in the beginning of his career—and look at Bob now.

Disc Jockey Johnny Grant, who leaves the latter part of August for another trip to Korea to entertain the GIs, had a long talk with Marilyn Monroe about going with him. He says Marilyn is completely sincere about visiting Korea and will insist on going.

However, in August Marilyn will be at Jasper National Park where she, Bob Mitchum and Rory Calhoun will be emoting in "River of No Return." Today, Murvyn Vye was added to the cast. Murvyn used to be quite a noted actor in Hollywood but recently he's been living in New York.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

A dinner twosome at the House of Murphy was Coleen Gray and Lt. Commander Bidlack. Don't be surprised if this is a sudden marriage.

Jose Ferrer is negotiating for a Beverly Hills home. That means he and Rosemary Clooney will live here after their marriage.

Come November Mr. and Mrs. Hal Makelim have dated the stork. He's the producer of the John Agar film.

Betty Hutton's opening at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas was a wow! She stayed on for 55 minutes. She got a big laugh when she said she wanted to sing a love song written for her by Jimmy McHugh—and then broke into "Murder, He Says."

In the audience cheering Betty were Jimmy Durante, Jack Benny, Bob Mitchum and many, many others.

If you think it's hot right now in Los Angeles, well it's 120 degrees in Mexico where John Wayne and Geraldine Page are making "Hondo".

Many prayers are being said for Edmund Lowe, who has so many friends. He has been critically ill at Temple Hospital with pneumonia complicated by heart trouble. One of the first to telephone Eddie was his old sidekick Victor McLaglen, who was with him in "What Price Glory" and other pictures.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Charges Against Ike Threatener Are Dismissed

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP) — A complaint accusing Albert J. Drevney, 40, with threatening the life of President Eisenhower was dismissed yesterday because of the man's mental condition.

Dismissal was sought by Assistant U. S. Attorney Martin Klein who referred to a federal hospital medical report.

U. S. Commissioner Edward V. McDonald granted the motion.

The subject of a nationwide hunt, Drevney was arrested last month in New Rochelle, a New York suburb. He allegedly had mailed a threatening letter to the President.

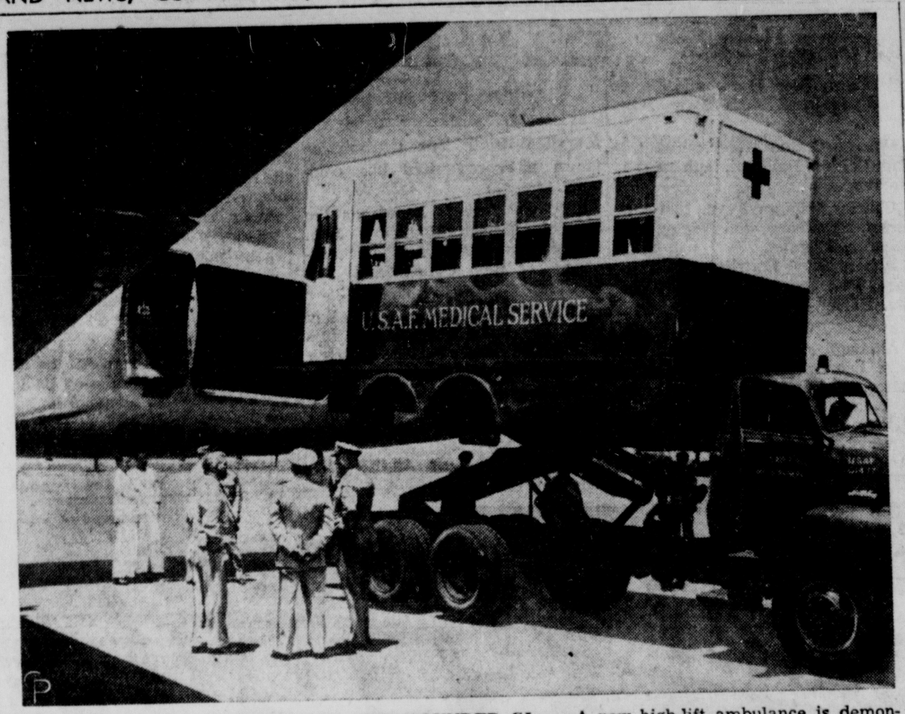

Klein said Drevney is to be committed to a state institution.

Actor's Will Filed

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—Actor Roland Young left an estate estimated at between $5,000 and $10,000 upon his death June 5, it was learned today with the filing of his will for probate.

PRINCE KARI KARI, who has been named Minister of Interior for Ashantiland, Africa, goes through his fire-eating routine for a Vienna, Austria, circus before quitting to take his new post. It seems that Foreign Minister Nee Ottinkrung, of Ashantiland, spotted the prince and, after some argument, induced him to go back to his four wives and 17 children—and a political job. (International)

Author Defends Genocide Treaty

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., July 9 (AP)—Prof. Raphael Lemkin, author of the U. N. convention against genocide, said yesterday the treaty if ratified by the U. S. Senate never would interfere with the rights of American citizens.

Lemkin issued a statement answering some questions raised in an analysis written earlier this week by Sigrid Arne, AP news analyst.

Lemkin said a nation which ratifies the convention does not submit its citizens to an international criminal tribunal. He said the convention does not propose such a tribunal and that he is opposed to it because, in conditions of peace such a tribunal cannot work without destroying governments.

"Under Article 6 of the genocide convention, every government will try persons guilty of genocide by its own courts," Lemkin said. "Should a government fail to do so, such a failure can be brought to the attention of the U. N. Essentially it is the power of moral opinion which will prevail."

The convention provides that it can operate toward the citizens of a country only through legislation adopted by that country. Lemkin said it frequently is confused with the various projects on human rights.

Don't Buy Wife Mink Coat, Judge Advises

LONDON, July 9 (AP)—Britain's top trial judge counseled tonight: Don't buy your wife a mink coat; if she already has one, get rid of it.

Speaking at the annual dinner given by the Lord Mayor of London, Lord Chief Justice Goddard said:

"For goodness sake, don't give your wives mink coats. You will not be able to sleep safely if you give them mink coats. And if you have given them mink coats you ought to change them for rabbit.

"It is extraordinary how theives get to know these things. If you have mink coats in your house you deserve to lose them."

Byrd Not Governor Candidate

Group Is Named To Select New U. Of M. Head

BALTIMORE, July 9 (AP)—Dr. H. C. Byrd, expected by many to be a Democratic candiate for governor next year, said today he's not a candidate for anything.

His comment came after the Board of Regents set in motion the machinery to choose his successor as president of the University of Maryland.

Byrd himself had suggested this in a letter to the board on June 26, saying: "It is likely that I shall ask permission to retire in January, 1955.

The governor elected in the fall of 1954 will be inaugurated in January, 1955."

Byrd suggested in his letter last month the board should name his successor this year so there will be sufficient time for an orderly change of administration.

During that period, Byrd said, he would be proud to continue as president emeritus or with some other honorary title.

Judge William P. Cole, president of the Board of Regents, said they had chewed over this proposal at some length today as they ate lunch together.

The luncheon started about 12:30 p.m. and by 2 p.m. it was obvious the regents were doing more discussing than eating behind their closed door.

At 3:15 p.m. they went into an open session, forearmed with a formal statement they had called a stenographer in to take down and write.

At the open session, the regents breezed through half a dozen routine matters and then took up Byrd's letter.

He had suggested the board set up a committee to consider men available for the presidency and the statement announced the board had decided to do this.

Mrs. Fridinger posted her winning score while playing in the first division of the Cumberland tournament.

Congressional Tribute To Airman Proposed

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md) asked Congress yesterday to pay tribute to Air Force Capt. Francis T. Evans Jr., who was killed June 16 when his jet fighter crashed near Forestville (Md) elementary school.

Butler's resolution said Evans "lost his life . . . while ensuring that his disabled aircraft would not crash into 250 school children."

The children were playing around the school when the plane crashed about 200 yards from the building, on the edge of the playground.

Butler said Evans' action was "a vivid example of heroism on the part of a serviceman which has practically gone unnoticed."

Check For Refund Of Tax Bounces

INDIANAPOLIS, July 9 (AP)—An Oakland City taxpayer was a little surprised when a state check for a $13 refund bounced.

He couldn't understand why it was returned marked "no funds," and neither could State Auditor Frank Millis. Indiana is definitely solvent, with a 70-million-dollar surplus in the bank.

Millis advised the taxpayer to send the check through again.

Fairchild May Finish Contract Lost By Kaiser

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP) — The Air Force strongly implied today it would ask Fairchild Aircraft and Engine Corp., Hagerstown, Md., to finish up an 88-airplane contract taken away from Kaiser Motors Corp. at Willow Run, Mich.

Air Force Secretary Talbott said a decision has not yet been reached on the fate of a second cancelled Kaiser contract, a 220-million-dollar order for 244 Chase C-123 airplanes.

Talbott told a delegation of Michigan congressmen and labor leaders that the Air Force no longer has a need for the C-123, but the Army is still studying its requirements.

Michigan Sailor Dies In Md. Auto Accident

CONOWINGO, Md., July 9 (AP)—Glenn Curtis Wolvin, 18, of Melvindale, Mich., a sailor stationed at the Bainbridge Training Center, was killed today in an automobile accident.

Wolvin was riding in a car which hit a truck and spun down a hill into a parking lot near Conowingo Dam.

Two other sailors in the car were reported in serious condition in the hospital.

Odd Collateral Is Held By Hotel

CINCINNATI, O., July 9 (AP)—The Sheraton-Gibson Hotel discovered today it has been holding the ashes of a missing guest's wife for nearly two years as collateral for his unpaid bill.

Charles Miller, hotel credit manager, said an urn of ashes was discovered in a trunk left by a guest, registered as "R. E. Heffron," who disappeared owing $52. In the urn was the name of the Philbrick Funeral Home, Miami, Fla.

State Delegate Is Charged With Shakedown Try

BALTIMORE, July 9 (AP)—Maurice J. Soypher, 42-year-old lawyer and state delegate, was charged today with conspiring to shake down a Baltimore television station for $15,000.

A grand jury presented the Democrat from Baltimore's Fourth District after hearing 11 of 19 subpoenaed witnesses. His bail was set at $5,000.

The grand jury said the names of those with whom Soypher conspired are not known to it.

Soypher's presentment involves an effort by Station WBAL to have rezoned a piece of property on which it wants to erect a higher television tower. Soypher had represented 300 residents of the area who protested the rezoning before city council.

Acting Mayor Arthur B. Price claimed there had been a "flagrant shakedown attempt" in connection with the rezoning ordinance and referred the matter to Anselm Sodaro, state's attorney.

The jury found that Soypher had conspired "to corruptly extort, procure and obtain the sum of $15,000" from the station "by an understanding" that if the money was paid him opposition to the rezoning would disappear.

Judge Chesnut Orders Bay Park To Be Reopened

BALTIMORE, July 9 (AP)—Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut ruled today that separate facilities for white and Negro races at Sandy Point State Park are equal, and the park may be reopened on a segregated basis.

The beaches had been closed under Judge Chesnut's order since June 2, when he found that facilities at the East Beach, set aside for Negroes, were inferior those at South Beach, used by whites.

The judge vacated his injunction on motion of the state today, saying.

State Congratulated

"My finding is that facilities are not only substantially but in fact equal and I think the state has done an excellent job in equalizing the facilities."

Judge Chesnut said the beaches should not remain closed all season for bathing "when, as I find, the facilities are equal."

Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Department of Forests and Parks said he did not know when the beaches would be reopened.

The judge's ruling came at an afternoon session. During a morning session, it developed that a recreational expert retained by a group of negroes seeking unsegregated bathing at Sandy Point was not allowed by the state yesterday to inspect the South Beach facilities.

Final Inspection Ordered

Consequently, the expert, Dr. Roscoe Brown, assistant professor of education at New York University, said he did not look at East Beach either since there could be no basis for comparison.

Nettled at both parties—at the state for not permitting a complete inspection and at the plaintiffs for not going ahead with as much inspection as they could make—Judge Chesnut ordered all hands to the beaches to make an inspection and report back to him in the afternoon.

Bids On Baltimore Beltway Will Be Asked Soon By SRC

BALTIMORE, July 9 (AP) — The State Roads Commission said today bids soon will be asked on the first section of the Baltimore County Beltway which eventually is to loop around Baltimore from U. S. Route 40 on the northeast to the Washington-Baltimore Boulevard on the southwest.

The commission said the section on which bids will be asked first extends from a point near the intersection of Joppa and Old Court Roads about 2½ miles north of Baltimore eastward to the North Central Branch of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The first section includes 1.35 miles of the Beltway itself, 1.15 miles of connecting roads and 1.70 of ramps on inter-change structures.

A commission spokesman said plans and specifications for a second section eastward are expected to be completed by the end of the summer.

He said the second link goes from the railroad east across York road just north of Towson to Dulaney Valley road. This is about a three-mile stretch.

These two sections will tie in with the new Baltimore-Harrisburg Expressway.

Plans for the $39-million Beltway call for it to provide a by-pass around Baltimore beginning about 2½ miles northeast of the Baltimore city limits on Route 40 and extending northwest around Baltimore, north of Towson and then turning south west and south around the western outskirts of the city before turning southeast to link up with the boulevard.

It's to be a 30-mile, limited access highway.

Byrd Not Governor Candidate

Group Is Named To Select New U. Of M. Head

BALTIMORE, July 9 (AP)—Dr. H. C. Byrd, expected by many to be a Democratic candiate for governor next year, said today he's not a candidate for anything.

His comment came after the Board of Regents set in motion the machinery to choose his successor as president of the University of Maryland.

Byrd himself had suggested this in a letter to the board on June 26, saying: "It is likely that I shall ask permission to retire in January, 1955.

The governor elected in the fall of 1954 will be inaugurated in January, 1955."

Byrd suggested in his letter last month the board should name his successor this year so there will be sufficient time for an orderly change of administration.

During that period, Byrd said, he would be proud to continue as president emeritus or with some other honorary title.

Judge William P. Cole, president of the Board of Regents, said they had chewed over this proposal at some length today as they ate lunch together.

The luncheon started about 12:30 p.m. and by 2 p.m. it was obvious the regents were doing more discussing than eating behind their closed door.

At 3:15 p.m. they went into an open session, forearmed with a formal statement they had called a stenographer in to take down and write.

At the open session, the regents breezed through half a dozen routine matters and then took up Byrd's letter.

He had suggested the board set up a committee to consider men available for the presidency and the statement announced the board had decided to do this.

Royce Hodges, president of the Cumberland Country Club Women's Golf Association, after Mrs. Fridinger had posted low net score of 69 yesterday in the third annual CCC Women's Invitation Golf Tournament at the Christie Road course. Mrs. Fridinger posted her winning score while playing in the first division of the Cumberland tournament.

Congressional Tribute To Airman Proposed

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md) asked Congress yesterday to pay tribute to Air Force Capt. Francis T. Evans Jr., who was killed June 16 when his jet fighter crashed near Forestville (Md) elementary school.

Butler's resolution said Evans "lost his life . . . while ensuring that his disabled aircraft would not crash into 250 school children."

The children were playing around the school when the plane crashed about 200 yards from the building, on the edge of the playground.

Butler said Evans' action was "a vivid example of heroism on the part of a serviceman which has practically gone unnoticed."

Check For Refund Of Tax Bounces

INDIANAPOLIS, July 9 (AP)—An Oakland City taxpayer was a little surprised when a state check for a $13 refund bounced.

He couldn't understand why it was returned marked "no funds," and neither could State Auditor Frank Millis. Indiana is definitely solvent, with a 70-million-dollar surplus in the bank.

Millis advised the taxpayer to send the check through again.

Fairchild May Finish Contract Lost By Kaiser

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP) — The Air Force strongly implied today it would ask Fairchild Aircraft and Engine Corp., Hagerstown, Md., to finish up an 88-airplane contract taken away from Kaiser Motors Corp. at Willow Run, Mich.

Air Force Secretary Talbott said a decision has not yet been reached on the fate of a second cancelled Kaiser contract, a 220-million-dollar order for 244 Chase C-123 airplanes.

Talbott told a delegation of Michigan congressmen and labor leaders that the Air Force no longer has a need for the C-123, but the Army is still studying its requirements.

Michigan Sailor Dies In Md. Auto Accident

CONOWINGO, Md., July 9 (AP)—Glenn Curtis Wolvin, 18, of Melvindale, Mich., a sailor stationed at the Bainbridge Training Center, was killed today in an automobile accident.

Wolvin was riding in a car which hit a truck and spun down a hill into a parking lot near Conowingo Dam.

Two other sailors in the car were reported in serious condition in the hospital.

Odd Collateral Is Held By Hotel

CINCINNATI, O., July 9 (AP)—The Sheraton-Gibson Hotel discovered today it has been holding the ashes of a missing guest's wife for nearly two years as collateral for his unpaid bill.

Charles Miller, hotel credit manager, said an urn of ashes was discovered in a trunk left by a guest, registered as "R. E. Heffron," who disappeared owing $52. In the urn was the name of the Philbrick Funeral Home, Miami, Fla.

State Delegate Is Charged With Shakedown Try

BALTIMORE, July 9 (AP)—Maurice J. Soypher, 42-year-old lawyer and state delegate, was charged today with conspiring to shake down a Baltimore television station for $15,000.

A grand jury presented the Democrat from Baltimore's Fourth District after hearing 11 of 19 subpoenaed witnesses. His bail was set at $5,000.

The grand jury said the names of those with whom Soypher conspired are not known to it.

Soypher's presentment involves an effort by Station WBAL to have rezoned a piece of property on which it wants to erect a higher television tower. Soypher had represented 300 residents of the area who protested the rezoning before city council.

Acting Mayor Arthur B. Price claimed there had been a "flagrant shakedown attempt" in connection with the rezoning ordinance and referred the matter to Anselm Sodaro, state's attorney.

The jury found that Soypher had conspired "to corruptly extort, procure and obtain the sum of $15,000" from the station "by an understanding" that if the money was paid him opposition to the rezoning would disappear.

Ground Is Broken For New Frostburg College Building

Gunter Is Chief Speaker At Ceremony

FROSTBURG — William A. Gunter, newly appointed member of the State Board of Education, delivered the principal address at the ground-breaking yesterday for the new auditorium and physical education building to be built on the campus of Frostburg State Teachers College.

During his remarks, Gunter called attention to the fact that his predecessor, the late Tasker G. Lowndes, died July 10, 1952. On this, the week of the first anniversary of Lowndes' death, Gunter stated that he would do his best to follow the example of Lowndes in advancing the interests of State Teachers College.

The first shovelful of earth was turned over by James L. Reid, supervisor of school plants of the State Department of Education. Reid stated that the new building will be constructed of brick, and the style of architecture will be colonial to conform with the type of architecture of the other buildings on the campus.

Reid said that the contract for the building has already been awarded to W. Harley Miller, of Martinsburg, W. Va., who will begin work on the structure next week. He said the building would have an auditorium with a seating capacity of 800, and a gymnasium of the regulation college size, with folding bleachers large enough to seat the entire student body.

The building is to be a two-story structure, will measure 90 by 340 feet, and will front on Park Avenue. He said one section of the building would house the entire music department of the college, and that the equipment would also include every convenience for the use of the physical education department.

Preceding the ground breaking, a luncheon was served in the residence dining room hall. The guests included Gunter, State Senator Robert B. Kimble, members of the Board of Education, the Mayor and City Commissioners of Frostburg, and Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Charles M. See, Noel Speir Cook, Fred B. Driscoll, members of the House of Delegates, Michael J. Byrnes, chairman; Rudolph Nickel, secretary of the State Teachers College Citizen Committee; Thomas Elias, a member of the Republican State Central Committee, Allegany County, Ralph R. Webster, county school superintendent, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, and other citizens of Frostburg.

Juvenile Court To Open Today In Garrett Co.

Harris On Bench In Oakland Session

The first session of a juvenile court in Garrett County will be presided over this morning in Oakland by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

A juvenile court for Garrett County was provided in a bill passed in this year's session of the General Assembly.

Under the new law minor juvenile cases may be taken by the state's attorney before a justice of the peace or trial magistrate, but major cases involving children will be handled in Juvenile Court.

Until this law was passed, Garrett was the only county in Maryland that did not have a court to handle minors and cases involving minors.

Judge Harris in a charge to a Garrett County grand jury over a year ago suggested that a committee be appointed to recommend some manner to handle these juvenile cases.

He drew attention to the condition after several young boys involved in cases of a minor nature were tried in Circuit Court.

A committee was formed and subsequent legislation was submitted by Garrett County delegates and Senator Neil C. Fraley to the General Assembly and passed.

The bill has the Circuit Court judge acting as judge of the Juvenile Court. All records are kept secret because they deal with minors.

Ground Is Broken For New Frostburg College Building

Gunter Is Chief Speaker At Ceremony

FROSTBURG — William A. Gunter, newly appointed member of the State Board of Education, delivered the principal address at the ground-breaking yesterday for the new auditorium and physical education building to be built on the campus of Frostburg State Teachers College.

During his remarks, Gunter called attention to the fact that his predecessor, the late Tasker G. Lowndes, died July 10, 1952. On this, the week of the first anniversary of Lowndes' death, Gunter stated that he would do his best to follow the example of Lowndes in advancing the interests of State Teachers College.

The first shovelful of earth was turned over by James L. Reid, supervisor of school plants of the State Department of Education. Reid stated that the new building will be constructed of brick, and the style of architecture will be colonial to conform with the type of architecture of the other buildings on the campus.

Reid said that the contract for the building has already been awarded to W. Harley Miller, of Martinsburg, W. Va., who will begin work on the structure next week. He said the building would have an auditorium with a seating capacity of 800, and a gymnasium of the regulation college size, with folding bleachers large enough to seat the entire student body.

The building is to be a two-story structure, will measure 90 by 340 feet, and will front on Park Avenue. He said one section of the building would house the entire music department of the college, and that the equipment would also include every convenience for the use of the physical education department.

Preceding the ground breaking, a luncheon was served in the residence dining room hall. The guests included Gunter, State Senator Robert B. Kimble, members of the Board of Education, the Mayor and City Commissioners of Frostburg, and Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Charles M. See, Noel Speir Cook, Fred B. Driscoll, members of the House of Delegates, Michael J. Byrnes, chairman; Rudolph Nickel, secretary of the State Teachers College Citizen Committee; Thomas Elias, a member of the Republican State Central Committee, Allegany County, Ralph R. Webster, county school superintendent, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, and other citizens of Frostburg.

Garrett County Will Have University Livestock Lab

BALTIMORE, July 9 (AP) — The University of Maryland Board of Regents today voted to establish a livestock laboratory for Garrett County.

The university will supply about $5,000 worth of equipment and a part-time technician. It is up to the county or some other agency in the area to provide the building and other facilities.

The action was taken as a plea by Edward F. Holter, of Middletown, chairman of the regents' Committee on Agriculture and master of the State Grange.

He said a check with Dr. Arthur L. Brueckner, director of the state's Livestock Sanitary Service, showed farmers in the far-west corner of Maryland were handicapped by having to go long distances to avail themselves of the services of the nearest laboratory at Hagerstown.

For a time, he said, they had depended on help given by West Virginia University's extension service but that now has been curtailed.

Such a laboratory helps farmers check their poultry flocks and cattle and swine herds for disease.

About half the Hagerstown laboratory's calls for help come from farmers in Garrett and Allegany county, Holter reported.

He said current estimates show Garrett County has 150,000 turkeys, 400,000 broiler chickens and increasing numbers of beef cattle.

"The need justifies the expense," Holter said.

He estimated it will cost the state about $3,500 a year to staff the laboratory on a part-time basis

School History Data Is Needed In Mineral Co.

Luke McDowell Is Preparing Volume

The Board of Education of Mineral County assigned to former County Superintendent Luke McDowell the task of compiling material for a History of Education in Mineral County.

McDowell has spent a year gathering recorded material and has arranged a summary of every public school of record since the county was organized in 1866. He has the names of the teachers who served since 1879. He would like the names of teachers who taught within the county prior to 1879.

School records of the county are far from complete, and even if every record ever written were available there would still remain much untold; the untold human interest stories of school events that never get into records are much more interesting than cold recorded statistics. McDowell would like at least one such story from each of the more than a hundred schools of Mineral County.

Then, too, he has asked by personal letter and general appeal for a report of churches, lodges and societies of their contribution educationally to the county, either in connection with the schools or independently. To date he has received a constructive reply from a patriotic society; no others have responded.

G. Harley Divon, president of the Mineral County Board of Education, and H. L. Idleman, school superintendent, have issued a request to all interested citizens to assist McDowell so that the history may reflect credit to the institution that belongs to everyone living in Mineral County. All material should reach McDowell by July 31, 1953.

Garrett County Will Have University Livestock Lab

BALTIMORE, July 9 (AP) — The University of Maryland Board of Regents today voted to establish a livestock laboratory for Garrett County.

The university will supply about $5,000 worth of equipment and a part-time technician. It is up to the county or some other agency in the area to provide the building and other facilities.

The action was taken as a plea by Edward F. Holter, of Middletown, chairman of the regents' Committee on Agriculture and master of the State Grange.

He said a check with Dr. Arthur L. Brueckner, director of the state's Livestock Sanitary Service, showed farmers in the far-west corner of Maryland were handicapped by having to go long distances to avail themselves of the services of the nearest laboratory at Hagerstown.

For a time, he said, they had depended on help given by West Virginia University's extension service but that now has been curtailed.

Such a laboratory helps farmers check their poultry flocks and cattle and swine herds for disease.

About half the Hagerstown laboratory's calls for help come from farmers in Garrett and Allegany county, Holter reported.

He said current estimates show Garrett County has 150,000 turkeys, 400,000 broiler chickens and increasing numbers of beef cattle.

"The need justifies the expense," Holter said.

He estimated it will cost the state about $3,500 a year to staff the laboratory on a part-time basis

School History Data Is Needed In Mineral Co.

Luke McDowell Is Preparing Volume

The Board of Education of Mineral County assigned to former County Superintendent Luke McDowell the task of compiling material for a History of Education in Mineral County.

McDowell has spent a year gathering recorded material and has arranged a summary of every public school of record since the county was organized in 1866. He has the names of the teachers who served since 1879. He would like the names of teachers who taught within the county prior to 1879.

School records of the county are far from complete, and even if every record ever written were available there would still remain much untold; the untold human interest stories of school events that never get into records are much more interesting than cold recorded statistics. McDowell would like at least one such story from each of the more than a hundred schools of Mineral County.

Then, too, he has asked by personal letter and general appeal for a report of churches, lodges and societies of their contribution educationally to the county, either in connection with the schools or independently. To date he has received a constructive reply from a patriotic society; no others have responded.

G. Harley Divon, president of the Mineral County Board of Education, and H. L. Idleman, school superintendent, have issued a request to all interested citizens to assist McDowell so that the history may reflect credit to the institution that belongs to everyone living in Mineral County. All material should reach McDowell by July 31, 1953.

SUGAR IN BEER

U.S. TREASURY DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON 25

May 22, 1953

Mr. Clinton M. Hester,
Washington Counsel,
United States Brewers Foundation,
Shoreham Building,
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Hester:

The recent trend toward advertising malt beverages on the basis of the sugar or starch content in each bottle has resulted in numerous complaints from the brewing industry and general public. As a result of such complaints, advertisements of this nature have been surveyed and samples of beer produced by a representative number of large, medium and small brewers have been analyzed.

The complaints and interviews have shown that advertisements of this nature lead the majority of readers and viewers over television and radio to believe that the advertised product has less sugar or starch than other malt beverages and, therefore, would be less fattening.

Analyses of the beer samples have shown that the sugar content varied so little, amounting in no instance to more than a negligible trace, as to have no appreciable effect on the caloric content. It is the opinion of the Bureau laboratory that starch is not normally present in beer. The impression created by these advertisements, therefore, that the amount of sugar or starch contained in the beer would appreciably affect the caloric content or its sweetness of taste, is misleading within the meaning of the Federal Alcohol Administration Act and advertising regulations.

It would be appreciated if you would inform the members of your association of the Bureau's opinion that any reference to sugar or starch content in advertisements of malt beverages is misleading and, therefore, violates the provisions of Section 54 (A) (1) of Regulation No. 7; and that any similar references on labels violate the provisions of Section 29 (A) (1) of Regulation No. 7.

A similar letter is being directed to Mr. John E. O'Neill, general counsel, Brewers Association of America, Suite 604, Washington Building, Washington, D.C.

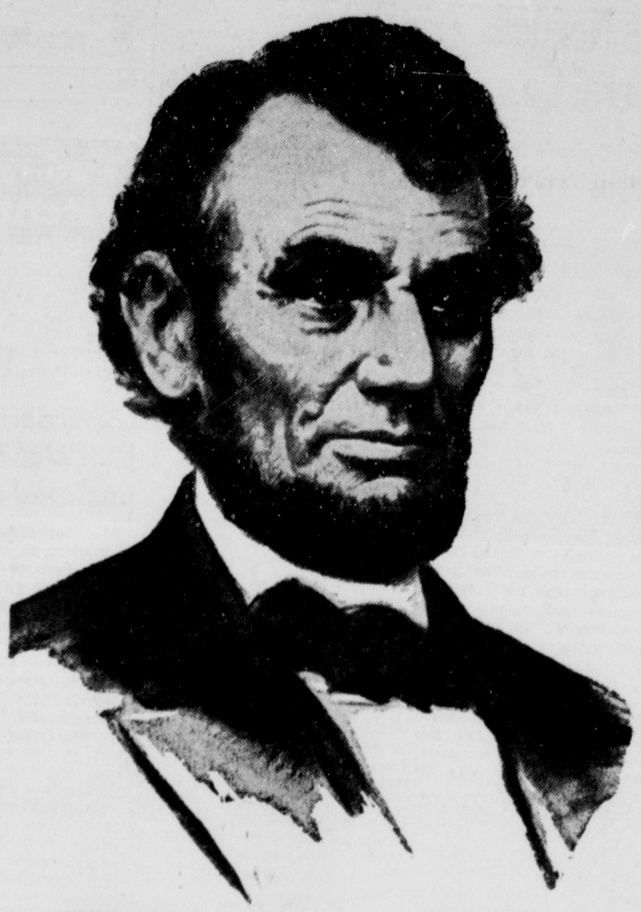

Very truly yours,
(Signed) Dwight E. Avis,
Head, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division

During the early stages of brewing, sugar is present in all beer. This comes mostly from the grains. The presence of sugar at this stage of brewing is necessary, because without it fermentation could not take place. However, Brewers' Yeast, which is added to all beers, changes the sugar to alcohol and carbonic gas. This is a natural reaction that takes place automatically during the process of brewing, and it doesn't cost the brewer one penny extra. This "splitting" of the fermentable sugar also gives beer its moderate alcoholic content and natural carbonation. It's all a matter of thorough fermentation—and all good brewers ferment their beer thoroughly. It has been proven that the amount of sugar in all good beers is so negligible as to have no appreciable effect on the caloric content or sweetness of taste—DO NOT BE MISLED BY EXAGGERATED CLAIMS.

Topnotch Tennis Meet Mt. Lake Park's 32nd

Byrd Gets Hinton Post Scimitar At Waterford

By C. V. BURNS

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK is preparing for the annual influx of men and women tennis stars entered in the thirty-second Western Maryland championship tournament which opens Tuesday, August 4 and runs through Saturday, August 8.

This is the oldest tournament in the tri-state area sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association and had its inception in 1920. Among the youthful entrants that year were Jennings Randolph, who served the second West Virginia District in the House of Representatives for many years and is now associated with Capital Air Lines; and Hon. Wright Hugus, of the well known West Virginia tennis family.

The 1930 men's singles winner was Bob Considine, the noted newspaper columnist and radio commentator, who, at that time, was a Washington (D.C.) sports writer.

Robert "Red" Brown, of Elkins, now varsity basketball coach at West Virginia University, also copped a singles title during the 1930s.

The Western Maryland championship cup matches were started in 1929 and in addition to Considine, other winners have been B. F. Arkle, Randolph Shields, John O'Loughlin, Frank Broida, twice, Bobby Madden, Henry Barclay, Eddie Jacobs, Price Colvin, Art Kleintob, Bob Bensinger, J. H. Curtis, Barney Welsh, Malcolm Fox and Bernie Schreiber, 1952 champion.

J. H. Curtis, Washington, D. C., won three straight titles (1945, 1946, 1947) to retire the Maj. W. N. Skiles Memorial Bowl while Malcolm Fox, Baltimore, swept the singles in 1949, 1950 and 1951 to gain possession of the Dr. Logan Carr Memorial Bowl.

Women players who retired trophies by winning three singles tournaments were Mrs. Margaret Carspecken Robinson, Morgantown (1933); Miss Frances Grimes, Mountain Lake Park (1937) and Joy Hartman, Pittsburgh in 1941. Miss Grimes lost her life while in the Army Air Service.

Anna Gray, Washington, D. C., holds two legs on the Frances Grimes Memorial Cup, having won it in 1945 and 1946. Since 1947 the winners have been Elizabeth Hugus Smith, Wheeling; Sara Moore, Washington, D. C.; Charlotte Decker, Washington, D. C.; Letty Ewing, Wheeling; Ann Fennessey, Washington, and Ewing McAllister, Baltimore, 1952 victor.

The tournament was a war casualty in 1942 and 1943 but play was resumed in 1944. The banner year was 1927 when 76 men and 21 women participated.

A yearly expenditure of approximately $1,000, of which one fourth is met by players' entrance fees, is required to keep this tournament going. Since admission to all matches is free, the balance of some $700 must be raised by contributions from those directly interested and from a rather limited number of merchants in the area.

THE CENTERVILLE Reds, formerly of the Interstate Baseball League which folded after the 1952 season, are now tied with the Everett Legion for first place in the Greater Bedford County League, each team now owning 6-2 records.

Centerville reached the top Saturday by scoring five runs in the 13th inning to whip Bedford, 11-6. Glenn Deremer, a consistent winner for the Reds in the Interstate, went all the way to earn the decision over Johnny Baker.

Hyndman, also a former Interstate entry, holds down fourth place in the Bedford circuit with a 5-3 record.

LELAND "LEFTY" BYRD, 26, former All-America basketball player at West Virginia University, has been appointed cage mentor at Hinton High School in Mercer county, W. Va.

Byrd played here with the Clarksburg quint last February against the Old Germans and impressed local fans with his all-around performance. He scored 28 points in that contest which the OG's won, 91-68, and was one of the flashiest floormen seen in action here last winter.

"Lefty" lives at Matoaka, W. Va., and was granted his master's degree in physical education at West Virginia U. in June. He was named to the Helms Foundation All-America squad in 1947 and played pro ball with the New York Knickerbockers of the N.B.A.

WATERFORD PARK will stage its big race tomorrow—the $7,500 Waterford Park Stakes, a mile and a sixteenth affair for three-year-olds.

Carlyle Johnson, publicist for the Chester (W. Va.) track, informs us that the outstanding nominee for the second running of the event is Scimitar, hero of the recent running of the Kent Stakes at Delaware Park. Scimitar ran second to Royal Bay Gem in a mile and a sixteenth race at Monmouth Park, N. J. on Monday.

Five other invaders from Delaware Park are among the nominees and such well known riders as Nick Shuk and Mike Caffarella will be on hand to ride Shadow Boxer and Mr. Skip.

John Rutherford, Brooklyn Dodgers' castoff, is the main reason why Newport News moved into first place in the Piedmont League by July 4 and nosed out Hagerstown for the right to play host to the league all-star game next Monday.

Rutherford, 28-year-old right-hander, joined Newport News three weeks ago and has chalked up five wins.

Last year the same pitcher helped the Dodgers win the National League pennant by coming through in the clutch to whip the Phillies.

Grove Will Play With Oldtimers

PHILADELPHIA, July 9 (AP) —The Philadelphia Phillies are planning an old-timers night at Connie Mack Stadium, Aug. 21. Prior to the Phillies-Giants contest that evening will be a three-inning affair between the oldsters and a composite team from the "Little Bigger League." Acceptances have been received from Mel Ott, Lefty Grove, Whitey Witt, Rube Oldring and Steve Yerkes.

Trabert Annexes Davis Cup Match

American Captain Beats Kosei Kamo

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 9 (AP)—American Captain Tony Trabert, after a shaky start, overpowered Japan's Kosei Kamo in five sets today to win the first Davis Cup singles match.

The scores were: 4-6, 1-6, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

The tall Cincinnati tennis veteran rallied under a blazing sun and 80-degree temperature to dominate the final three sets after Japan's No. 2 ranked player had outsteadied him in the first two sets.

Trabert improved as the match proceeded and downed Kamo with his powerful service and his overhead smashes.

Trabert, just two weks out of the Navy, appeared rusty as he repeatedly drove into the net or out of bounds in the first sets, but he was the master the rest of the way.

In the deciding set, Trabert broke Kamo's service in the first and fifth games and finished it up with a flourish by taking a love final game on his own service.

Pale Hose Cut Yanks' Lead To Five Games

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP) — The rampaging Chicago White Sox today moved to within five games of the first-place New York Yankees with a 4-2 verdict over the Detroit Tigers on Harry Dorish's hot reliefing and Sam Mele's two-run homer.

Dorish, torrid fireman in the Sox chase after the Yankees, allowed only one hit in the five and one third innings of rescue work for starter Joe Dobson.

The Yanks today lost 4-0 to the Boston Red Sox to yield a full game to the second-spot Sox.

It was the 21st Sox triumph in 26 games. The contest was a replay of a May 27 game which went 15 innings and ended 2-2 because of curfew.

Mele's two-run blast off loser Dick Marlowe in the fourth inning was his seventh homer of the season and his third in three games.

Byrd Gets Hinton Post Scimitar At Waterford

By C. V. BURNS

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK is preparing for the annual influx of men and women tennis stars entered in the thirty-second Western Maryland championship tournament which opens Tuesday, August 4 and runs through Saturday, August 8.

This is the oldest tournament in the tri-state area sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association and had its inception in 1920. Among the youthful entrants that year were Jennings Randolph, who served the second West Virginia District in the House of Representatives for many years and is now associated with Capital Air Lines; and Hon. Wright Hugus, of the well known West Virginia tennis family.

The 1930 men's singles winner was Bob Considine, the noted newspaper columnist and radio commentator, who, at that time, was a Washington (D.C.) sports writer.

Robert "Red" Brown, of Elkins, now varsity basketball coach at West Virginia University, also copped a singles title during the 1930s.

The Western Maryland championship cup matches were started in 1929 and in addition to Considine, other winners have been B. F. Arkle, Randolph Shields, John O'Loughlin, Frank Broida, twice, Bobby Madden, Henry Barclay, Eddie Jacobs, Price Colvin, Art Kleintob, Bob Bensinger, J. H. Curtis, Barney Welsh, Malcolm Fox and Bernie Schreiber, 1952 champion.

J. H. Curtis, Washington, D. C., won three straight titles (1945, 1946, 1947) to retire the Maj. W. N. Skiles Memorial Bowl while Malcolm Fox, Baltimore, swept the singles in 1949, 1950 and 1951 to gain possession of the Dr. Logan Carr Memorial Bowl.

Women players who retired trophies by winning three singles tournaments were Mrs. Margaret Carspecken Robinson, Morgantown (1933); Miss Frances Grimes, Mountain Lake Park (1937) and Joy Hartman, Pittsburgh in 1941. Miss Grimes lost her life while in the Army Air Service.

Anna Gray, Washington, D. C., holds two legs on the Frances Grimes Memorial Cup, having won it in 1945 and 1946. Since 1947 the winners have been Elizabeth Hugus Smith, Wheeling; Sara Moore, Washington, D. C.; Charlotte Decker, Washington, D. C.; Letty Ewing, Wheeling; Ann Fennessey, Washington, and Ewing McAllister, Baltimore, 1952 victor.

The tournament was a war casualty in 1942 and 1943 but play was resumed in 1944. The banner year was 1927 when 76 men and 21 women participated.

A yearly expenditure of approximately $1,000, of which one fourth is met by players' entrance fees, is required to keep this tournament going. Since admission to all matches is free, the balance of some $700 must be raised by contributions from those directly interested and from a rather limited number of merchants in the area.

THE CENTERVILLE Reds, formerly of the Interstate Baseball League which folded after the 1952 season, are now tied with the Everett Legion for first place in the Greater Bedford County League, each team now owning 6-2 records.

Centerville reached the top Saturday by scoring five runs in the 13th inning to whip Bedford, 11-6. Glenn Deremer, a consistent winner for the Reds in the Interstate, went all the way to earn the decision over Johnny Baker.

Hyndman, also a former Interstate entry, holds down fourth place in the Bedford circuit with a 5-3 record.

LELAND "LEFTY" BYRD, 26, former All-America basketball player at West Virginia University, has been appointed cage mentor at Hinton High School in Mercer county, W. Va.

Byrd played here with the Clarksburg quint last February against the Old Germans and impressed local fans with his all-around performance. He scored 28 points in that contest which the OG's won, 91-68, and was one of the flashiest floormen seen in action here last winter.

"Lefty" lives at Matoaka, W. Va., and was granted his master's degree in physical education at West Virginia U. in June. He was named to the Helms Foundation All-America squad in 1947 and played pro ball with the New York Knickerbockers of the N.B.A.

WATERFORD PARK will stage its big race tomorrow—the $7,500 Waterford Park Stakes, a mile and a sixteenth affair for three-year-olds.

Carlyle Johnson, publicist for the Chester (W. Va.) track, informs us that the outstanding nominee for the second running of the event is Scimitar, hero of the recent running of the Kent Stakes at Delaware Park. Scimitar ran second to Royal Bay Gem in a mile and a sixteenth race at Monmouth Park, N. J. on Monday.

Five other invaders from Delaware Park are among the nominees and such well known riders as Nick Shuk and Mike Caffarella will be on hand to ride Shadow Boxer and Mr. Skip.

John Rutherford, Brooklyn Dodgers' castoff, is the main reason why Newport News moved into first place in the Piedmont League by July 4 and nosed out Hagerstown for the right to play host to the league all-star game next Monday.

Rutherford, 28-year-old right-hander, joined Newport News three weeks ago and has chalked up five wins.

Last year the same pitcher helped the Dodgers win the National League pennant by coming through in the clutch to whip the Phillies.

Grove Will Play With Oldtimers

PHILADELPHIA, July 9 (AP) —The Philadelphia Phillies are planning an old-timers night at Connie Mack Stadium, Aug. 21. Prior to the Phillies-Giants contest that evening will be a three-inning affair between the oldsters and a composite team from the "Little Bigger League." Acceptances have been received from Mel Ott, Lefty Grove, Whitey Witt, Rube Oldring and Steve Yerkes.

Trabert Annexes Davis Cup Match

American Captain Beats Kosei Kamo

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 9 (AP)— American Captain Tony Trabert, after a shaky start, overpowered Japan's Kosei Kamo in five sets today to win the first Davis Cup singles match.

The scores were: 4-6, 1-6, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

The tall Cincinnati tennis veteran rallied under a blazing sun and 80-degree temperature to dominate the final three sets after Japan's No. 2 ranked player had outsteadied him in the first two sets.

Trabert improved as the match proceeded and downed Kamo with his powerful service and his overhead smashes.

Trabert, just two weks out of the Navy, appeared rusty as he repeatedly drove into the net or out of bounds in the first sets, but he was the master the rest of the way.

In the deciding set, Trabert broke Kamo's service in the first and fifth games and finished it up with a flourish by taking a love final game on his own service.

Pale Hose Cut Yanks' Lead To Five Games

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP) — The rampaging Chicago White Sox today moved to within five games of the first-place New York Yankees with a 4-2 verdict over the Detroit Tigers on Harry Dorish's hot reliefing and Sam Mele's two-run homer.

Dorish, torrid fireman in the Sox chase after the Yankees, allowed only one hit in the five and one third innings of rescue work for starter Joe Dobson.

The Yanks today lost 4-0 to the Boston Red Sox to yield a full game to the second-spot Sox.

It was the 21st Sox triumph in 26 games. The contest was a replay of a May 27 game which went 15 innings and ended 2-2 because of curfew.

Mele's two-run blast off loser Dick Marlowe in the fourth inning was his seventh homer of the season and his third in three games.

Mel Parnell, Red Sox Southpaw, Blanks Yankees, 4-0

Boston Hurler Posts Twelfth Win Of Season

Dick Gernert's Home Run With Two Mates Aboard Decides Tilt

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP) — Casey Stengel, under fire for failing to put Mel Parnell on his All-Star pitching staff, stewed in the dugout today as the stylish southpaw pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 4-0 shutout victory over his New York Yankees.

It was the second straight shutout victory over the world champions for Parnell, who blanked them by the same score in Boston on July 1. Parnell permitted eight hits and issued three bases on balls, but two double plays helped him out of as many jams and he went on to register his 12th triumph against only four defeats.

The defeat, coupled with Chicago's 4-2 victory in Detroit, sliced the Yankees' first place margin over the White Sox to five games.

The Red Sox rapped starter and loser Whitey Ford for 11 hits but all they needed was one—a home run by Dick Gernert. It came in the third inning following a two-out walk to Billy Goodman and a single by Hoot Evers to give Boston a 3-0 lead. Gernert also collected a double and single in four tries at bat.

Brooklyn Loses To Phillies, 6-5

PHILADELPHIA, July 9 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers knocked Robin Roberts off the mound for the first time in 28 games but Smokey Burgess saved the big righthander from defeat tonight with a two-run eighth-inning double that gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 6-5 win over the Dodgers.

Roberts had pitched 28 straight complete games since Aug. 24, 1952-20 of them this season. He was replaced by Bob Miller in the top of the eighth with the Dodgers ahead 5-4, two runs in, three hits on the boards for the frame and only one out with a man on third.

Miller gave Carl Furillo a walk and then got Roy Campanella and Wayne Belardi to foul out to end the rally. Jim Konstanty pitched the ninth as Miller gave way to Burgess in his game-winning pinch-hitting role.

Shea Beats A's, 8-4

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Frank Shea, the ex-Yankee who couldn't make Casey Stengel's All-Star squad, marked up his eighth victory in nine decisions today, setting the Philadelphia Athletics down with six hits as his Washington teammates rapped out an 8 to 4 triumph.

The Senators sewed up their seventh straight victory over the stumbling athletics with a five run outburst in the third inning off sore-arm Joe Coleman, making his first start of the year.

Ed Fitz Gerald struck the big blow of the inning, a double that caromed off the glove of Gus Zernial to let in three runs.

The Hots were returned winners in the two previous all-star games held by the league.

Athletics Take 1-0 Game In D. D. League

Hugh Reed's single through the box in the first inning scored the only run of the game as the Athletics upset the Braves in a Dan Division (Dapper Dan League) contest yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 1-0.

Kenneth Boggs worked Gary Wolford for a pass to open the inning, stole second, moved to third on a passed ball and came home on Reed's safety.

Johnny Morris worked on the firing line for the A's, yielded only three hits and fanned eight. He was in trouble once and that was in the fifth when the Braves loaded the bases but he fanned Robinson to end the threat.

Reed had both of the hits credited to the A's. Wolford struck out 13 and issued one pass.

Mike Clark starred afield for the victors.

White, Wolford and Painter obtained the Braves' three singles.

CINCINNATI, July 9 (AP)—Clyde McCullough, veteran catcher for the Chicago Cubs, was chosen today to replace the injured Del Crandall of Milwaukee on the National League All-Star team which meets the American League club in Cincinnati next Tuesday.

Ted Williams Will Not Play Ball This Year

Returns From Korea, Will Enter Hospital

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9 (AP)—Marine Capt. Ted Williams returned to the United States today from air combat service in Korea and firmly ruled out any possibility that he would return to baseball this season.

Upon landing at Moffett Naval Air Station, the famed Boston Red Sox hitter said he might get back into the game next season, provided the Red Sox "want to fool around with old men." Williams will be 35 next month.

Bound immediately to Oak Knoll Naval Hospital, Oakland, Calif., for treatment of an ear ailment which cut short his Korea duty, Williams said he did not know how long he would be in the hospital. He noted he was not due for discharge from the service until October in any event.

At another point in an hour-long chat about baseball with reporters Williams declined to say flatly that he hoped to return to Boston next season.

He pointed out that he was a partner in a lucrative fishing tackle jobbing business in Miami, Fla.

Hogan And Stranahan Trail By Two Strokes In Britain

Rees, Brown Set Pace In Open With 142s

By STERLING SLAPPEY

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 9 (AP)—Ten great golfers were bunched within four strokes tonight at the head of the pack as a scramble developed for the British Open golf championship.

Dai Rees and Eric Brown, two Britons, led with 142's, two strokes ahead of Ben Hogan, pride of the United States, and Frank Stranahan, Toledo amateur.

Hogan Posts 144

Hogan added a 71 to his 73 of yesterday for 144, while Stranahan slipped from 70 to 74 for the same total. Peter Thompson of Australia was tied with the two Americans, while between these three and the leaders was the powerful Argentina star, Robert de Vincenzo with 143.

The final 36 holes over Carnoustie's course will be played tomorrow with the field cut from 91 to 49. A score of 154 was needed to qualify for the finals.

The tournament billed as Ben Hogan's own became anyone's prize—but the little Texan might well have been out in front if his putts had not been missing by inches.

Bobby Locke Shoots 145

Bobby Locke, the South African who is defending champion, is in contention with 72-73—145, tied with Max Faulkner of England, 74-71—145, and T. H. T. Fairbair, also of England, also 74-71—145. Antonio Cerda of Argentina had 75-71—146.

Rees shot a 70, best score of the day, to put with his 72 of yesterday. Brown, an unemployed professional golfer who comes from Scotland, did 71, the same as his score yesterday. There is no official par for this tough course, but unofficially 72 is considered standard.

Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles and Niles, Ill. was buried back in the pack with 75-76—151, but he qualified for the last 36 holes.

Fails To Qualify

The fourth American in the tournament, D. W. Fairfield of Chicago, shot a 79 to go with his 82 yesterday and the 161 failed to qualify him for the finals.

Putting again was Hogan's greatest trouble and repeatedly he had long rolls miss the cup by half the width of the ball, or stop short by less than three inches. Otherwise, he played magnificent golf.

Hogan trailed the leader, Stranahan, by three strokes yesteday and he lagged behind Locke by one.

Mel Parnell, Red Sox Southpaw, Blanks Yankees, 4-0

Boston Hurler Posts Twelfth Win Of Season

Dick Gernert's Home Run With Two Mates Aboard Decides Tilt

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP) — Casey Stengel, under fire for failing to put Mel Parnell on his All-Star pitching staff, stewed in the dugout today as the stylish southpaw pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 4-0 shutout victory over his New York Yankees.

It was the second straight shutout victory over the world champions for Parnell, who blanked them by the same score in Boston on July 1. Parnell permitted eight hits and issued three bases on balls, but two double plays helped him out of as many jams and he went on to register his 12th triumph against only four defeats.

The defeat, coupled with Chicago's 4-2 victory in Detroit, sliced the Yankees' first place margin over the White Sox to five games.

The Red Sox rapped starter and loser Whitey Ford for 11 hits but all they needed was one—a home run by Dick Gernert. It came in the third inning following a two-out walk to Billy Goodman and a single by Hoot Evers to give Boston a 3-0 lead. Gernert also collected a double and single in four tries at bat.

Brooklyn Loses To Phillies, 6-5

PHILADELPHIA, July 9 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers knocked Robin Roberts off the mound for the first time in 28 games but Smokey Burgess saved the big righthander from defeat tonight with a two-run eighth-inning double that gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 6-5 win over the Dodgers.

Roberts had pitched 28 straight complete games since Aug. 24, 1952-20 of them this season. He was replaced by Bob Miller in the top of the eighth with the Dodgers ahead 5-4, two runs in, three hits on the boards for the frame and only one out with a man on third.

Miller gave Carl Furillo a walk and then got Roy Campanella and Wayne Belardi to foul out to end the rally. Jim Konstanty pitched the ninth as Miller gave way to Burgess in his game-winning pinch-hitting role.

Hogan And Stranahan Trail By Two Strokes In Britain

Rees, Brown Set Pace In Open With 142s

By STERLING SLAPPEY

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 9 (AP)—Ten great golfers were bunched within four strokes tonight at the head of the pack as a scramble developed for the British Open golf championship.

Dai Rees and Eric Brown, two Britons, led with 142's, two strokes ahead of Ben Hogan, pride of the United States, and Frank Stranahan, Toledo amateur.

Hogan Posts 144

Hogan added a 71 to his 73 of yesterday for 144, while Stranahan slipped from 70 to 74 for the same total. Peter Thompson of Australia was tied with the two Americans, while between these three and the leaders was the powerful Argentina star, Robert de Vincenzo with 143.

The final 36 holes over Carnoustie's course will be played tomorrow with the field cut from 91 to 49. A score of 154 was needed to qualify for the finals.

The tournament billed as Ben Hogan's own became anyone's prize—but the little Texan might well have been out in front if his putts had not been missing by inches.

Bobby Locke Shoots 145

Bobby Locke, the South African who is defending champion, is in contention with 72-73—145, tied with Max Faulkner of England, 74-71—145, and T. H. T. Fairbair, also of England, also 74-71—145. Antonio Cerda of Argentina had 75-71—146.

Rees shot a 70, best score of the day, to put with his 72 of yesterday. Brown, an unemployed professional golfer who comes from Scotland, did 71, the same as his score yesterday. There is no official par for this tough course, but unofficially 72 is considered standard.

Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles and Niles, Ill. was buried back in the pack with 75-76—151, but he qualified for the last 36 holes.

Fails To Qualify

The fourth American in the tournament, D. W. Fairfield of Chicago, shot a 79 to go with his 82 yesterday and the 161 failed to qualify him for the finals.

Putting again was Hogan's greatest trouble and repeatedly he had long rolls miss the cup by half the width of the ball, or stop short by less than three inches. Otherwise, he played magnificent golf.

Hogan trailed the leader, Stranahan, by three strokes yesteday and he lagged behind Locke by one.

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

The First Overt Act

The handwriting, I think, is already on the wall. The uprising began, historians will write, when a man first ran amock in a television studio, stabbing a poor innocent cameraman and belting an actor with a bottle.

John Crosby

I imagine everyone has wanted to belt an actor from time to time, but stabbing cameramen is very much against the law in this state. You shouldn't stab cameramen even when — as this man claimed — you are driven berserk by television. The corridors of the Columbia Broadcasting System, where this first overt incident occurred, teem with likely candidates for stabbing. In fact, some of the people in the upper echelons over there have been stabbed so often they don't even bleed any more.

But, as I say, you shouldn't stab a cameraman. They're hard-working, homeloving, decent folk. Next man to run amok should stab a vice president. If no blood runs, he's probably hit an executive vice president and he can stab away all day without doing any damage. (Just don't go stabbing him in the heart. You'll ruin the knife.)

There have been innumerable instances of people sticking their fists or their feet through the picture tube when conditions got insupportable. (My favorite case is that of the Dodger fan a couple of years back who smashed the picture tube of his set when Bobby Thomson of the Giants hit that celebrated home run.) But this, to my knowledge, is the first time anyone has tried to get at the source of the trouble.

He picked "City Hospital," I gather, more or less at random. Still, it was a happy accident. "City Hospital," in case you never saw it, is advanced soap opera full of the most distraught acting you are ever likely to see. If a show had to be knocked off the air for a night, I can think of few programs that would be less missed. There are them as says that assault against anyone connected with "City Hospital" is justifiable, but I don't know that I string along with this theory. Understandable, yes. Justifiable, no.

I don't think we should encourage assault as a solution. There are other easier solutions. One is to turn the darn thing off. Another, eminently sane, solution was arrived at by a farmer named Langlotz who advertises recently in "The Daily Progress" of Charlottesville, Va.: "Will trade 17 inch CBS 1952 TV set for good young Jersey milk cow."

Happy milking, Langlotz.

"The Independent Mr. Jefferson," the first of a series of educational television shows prepared by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters in association with NBC, was a smooth, honest, unpretentious history lesson which demonstrated that the educators can operate very well in the realm of show business.

It also demonstrated that show business, when it has a mind to, can be as educational as its educators because this particular show was not much different from a lot of other commercial shows which have plowed similar ground. Morton Wishengrad, who may be the outstanding writer of commemorative programs of this nature, turned out a remarkably literate script. Of course, he had a great collaborator in Thomas Jefferson, whose writings he freely borrowed. ("Rebellion to tyrants is obedience to God." "Only in the grave is there absolute unity.")

The period covered was the 17 days that Jefferson took to write the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia. And the facts, I gather, were models of historical research. This presented an awkward dilemma since the Declaration was neither written nor signed nor adopted on July 4. Mr. Wishengrad, I guess, didn't want to kick a national holiday in the teeth and didn't want to promulgate historical inaccuracy so the date was rather hurriedly glossed over.

This was the first of a series to be called "The Jeffersonian Heritage" and, if the rest of them are this good, it'll be well worth watching. William Prince plays Jefferson — very ably, too.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Cable TV News

The people of Cumberland are true Americans and will not be outclassed by their big city cousins. They have found out how much T V means to them and that cable T. V. is the answer for good, full coverage reception.

We want Cumberland to have the very best T V that it is possible to obtain, and that is the reason why we are putting into use every improvement possible. We now have the most up-to-date system in the country, and it is gratifying to find out, our efforts are being appreciated, and that we are able to bring something worthwhile to more homes every day.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

SRC Hears Local Citizens' Plea For Changes In Two Road Plans

Views Aired At City Hall Session Here

Route 220, Industrial Belt Route Ideas Will Be Considered

BY BERNARD E. SITTER

Cumberland yesterday received assurance that the State Roads Commission will give careful consideration to proposed changes in two of its major local highway projects.

The promise came from Russell H. McCain of Frederick, SRC chairman, at a meeting with the Mayor and Council, the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, members of the General Assembly from Allegany County, and property owners.

Decisions Soon

McCain said the commission would reach decisions soon as to whether or not it could follow the local recommendations. All affect projects which are part of the commission's 12-year road building program.

Under consideration at the meeting were plans to:

1. Improve Frederick Street from North Mechanic Street to the city line to make it a one-way northbound lane in an improved U. S. 220, with Bedford Street as the southbound lane.

2. Construct an Industrial Belt Route linking State Route 51 (Oldtown Road) more directly with the business and industrial districts, and to open up unused areas for industrial growth.

The much-discussed Frederick Street project was the first subject opened for discussion by Mayor Roy W. Eves, who conducted the meeting.

Financing Is Issue

Recent controversy over the project has centered on the method of financing it. A tentative agreement between the city and the SRC provides that the work be done as a federal urban-aid project. That means the city, the property owners or both would pay half the estimated $500,000 cost, and the federal government the other half. Frederick Street property owners want the SRC to pay the half not borne by the federal government.

Atorney George R. Hughes Jr., who said he represented some 250 property owners who belong to the Frederick Street Improvement Association, said the residents didn't feel they could bear the expense.

Hughes pointed out that the necessity for a wide, main traffic artery would make the project much more expensive than if it were to be merely a residential street. He also said the one-way street would be of more use to the state highway system than to people who live along the proposed route.

Some of the lots involved, Hughes said, are so shallow that the assessments for paving might cost the property owners more than the lots are worth.

"No Parking" Signs

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan pointed out that the Bedford Street project, other leg of the Route 220 plan, would mean "no parking" signs for some 1,500 feet of the street's length.

McCain said the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads demanded that parking be prohibited on such a narrow street before accepting the street as an urban-aid development.

William F. Childs, chief engineer of the commission, said the SRC did not have final authority to pass on the project.

McCain said it is not the policy of the SRC to bear the expense of any construction on streets which are not already part of the state highway system. In answer to a question from Hughes, he said the commission did help Oakland improve a street which is a part of the highway system. Oakland, he pointed out, is too small to be eligible for federal aid.

Delegate Charles M. See asked City Engineer Charles F. Nuzum if the need for a 15-inch stone base on Frederick Street would not mean higher paving assessments for property owners than if an ordinary street were being built.

Nuzum said no, since half the cost would be borne by the government.

No Full Review

McCain said the commission has not had opportunity for a full review of the Frederick Street project, but that it would consider the financing proposal carefully at its next meeting.

The SRC also was asked to move up its plans for beginning construction of the Industrial Belt Route, which is not scheduled to be started for at least four years.

F. Perry Smith, representing the South Cumberland Business Men's Association, said the need for the belt route is immediate, and that the city's traffic problem and its industrial growth are being hampered by lack of such a route.

Cowboy Is Winner

Little Gary George, 10, resplendent in cowboy togs, receives a trophy from City Rec Director Robert E. Pence, after the West Side youngster won the annual intra-city Talent Night contest last night at Constitution Park. Gary presented a song and tap dance, "Wild Horses" to win over 15 other contestants. First and second runners-up were Margie Frey, 13, of Mt. Royal, and Rose Marie Darr, also 13, of Carver.

Plan Public Hearing On Zoning Changes

The Mayor and Council will hold a public hearing in about three weeks on four proposed amendments to the city's zoning ordinance.

All received the approval of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission at a meeting with members of the Mayor and Council yesterday.

Anthony F. Saell, commission member, recalled that two of the proposals aroused great controversy when the commission held a hearing June 17.

The proposals would:

1. Classify Lots 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16 of Johnson Heights at the intersection of Louisiana Avenue and Hill Top Drive as a business district.

2. Make Williams Street a business district between the city limits and Hill Top Drive.

3. Make all of Maryland Avenue which is not now an industrial district a business district.

4. Change the east side of Fayette Street between Washington and Greene streets to a Residential A district.

Commission Chairman James Alfred Avirett said controversy over the first proposal arose because some residents of the section did not want a business concern, such as a garage, located at the Johnson Heights address.

Avirett Discounts Plan

Avirett said the city should discount this, because a neighborhood shopping and business center is needed in that area. Benjamin W. O'Rourke, a member of the commission, said the city needs the tax revenue from a business firm, and pointed out that the lot is not suitable for residential construction.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long, who lives in the section, said many of his neighbors have told him they oppose the change. He pointed out that more than 60 signed a petition opposing the rezoning.

City Engineer Charles F. Nuzum said that the lots, which consist of a large shale bank, are not now "a thing of beauty," and the city would be better off to let a business firm locate there.

Eves Proposes Hearing

Mayor Eves said he thought the matter could be settled only after the Council had heard from citizens at a public hearing.

Saeli also pointed out that five people opposed the Williams Street rezoning at the commission's hearing, and that two favored it. Three people opposed the Maryland Avenue amendment, but there seemed to be no great objection to the Fayette Street plan.

Mayor Eves said he will ask the Council Monday to set a date for a hearing.

Amcelle Honors Four Employes

Two women and two men employes were presented gold watches by R. Finley Thompson, plant manager, on the 25th anniversary of their employment at Amcelle yesterday.

Honored were Louise P. Pownall, 218 Arch Street, who is an examiner and packer in the Twisting Examination Section of the Textile Department. She is the departmental chairman for the Twisting Examination Section of Local 1874, TWUA. Mrs. Pownall has been a widow for some years. She has two daughters and four grandchildren.

Bertha E. Wagus, Eckhart, who is an attendant in Block No. 1 Textile washrooms. She has been a widow for more than 37 years. Mrs. Wagus has one daughter and two grandchildren.

Albert J. Dickinson, 735 Maryland Avenue, who works steady "cat-eye" in the Spinning Department as a chargehand and examiner. Dickinson is married and the father of a girl and three boys. His favorite hobby is hunting.

Thomas A. Dougherty, 709 Lincoln Street, who is a specialist in the Spinning Engineering Section. Dougherty's specialty is maintenance and repair work on spinning pumps. He is married and the father of five daughters and three sons. As a member of the Knights of Columbus, he holds the third degree.

The respective superintendents of the employes' departments and the plant engineer awarded engraved 25-year certificates of service and the distinctive gold five-star "Celanese" service emblem.

School Board Meets Monday

The Allegany County Board of Education will meet Monday instead of Tuesday next week because of a schedule conflict.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster and Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools, plan to leave Tuesday afternoon so they will be able to attend a session of the first Maryland Institute of Public Affairs at Towson State Teachers College Wednesday morning.

The institute which begins Monday and runs until Friday, July 24, is sponsored by the State Teachers Association. About 100 teachers are expected to attend including two representatives of the Allegany County Teachers Association. They are Miss Gertrude A. Williams, who teaches American history and democracy at Beall High School in Frostburg, and Robert C. Morris, who teaches the same subjects at Fort Hill High School.

"Every Teacher A Well-Informed and Participating Citizen" is the general theme for the institute.

Crosstown Bridge Again In Discussion

Planning Body Switches Stand, Proposes Bypass

(Picture on Page 8)

The proposed crosstown bridge, which has been popping up in various forms for 20 years, was a major topic of discussion yesterday as city officials and State Roads Commission representatives talked over local aspects of the SRC's 12-year building program.

James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, touched off an involved discussion when he announced that the planning commission, which has long favored a crosstown expressway, now wants an alternate plan instead.

Avirett, recalling that the planning commission was plugging for a crosstown viaduct back when most people opposed it, said he now feels the commission and other proponents may have been "out of step" all these years.

Would Bypass City

It would be much better, he said, if a new and entirely new route were to be constructed so through traffic could bypass the city. The State Roads Commission officials disagreed.

And Mayor Roy W. Eves said he thought a public hearing should be held so the Mayor and Council can sound out the opinions of the public before deciding which plan it will favor.

Avirett protested that the crosstown plan, already included in the 12-year program, would "blight and impair" the downtown section and parts of West Side, and that it would cut across the Dingle.

The planning commission's idea, he said, is to join Valley Road to Bedford Road at the Pennsylvania line, improve Valley Road and tie it into Henderson Avenue. The avenue would become a four-lane throughfare from Valley Street westward, and the existing overhead bridge on the avenue would be widened and extended across Wills Creek and the Western Maryland Railway to Haystack Mountain, where the route would join Braddock Road.

Does Not Hit Dingle

Norman M. Pritchett, locations engineer for the roads commission, pointed out that the crosstown plan already under study would not cut through the Dingle, and that it would not hurt the property values of any expensive homes.

Pritchett said the route would start on Baltimore Avenue (U. S. 40) at Lindnerville, go to Williams Street near the Queen City Station, then under the railroad tracks to a bridge over the Potomac. It would follow the levee to be built along the Potomac in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project, then swing overhead to the Ridgedale reservoir section, and join U. S. 220 on the southern slope of Dingle Hill, beyond the Dingle. Traffic going to Route 40 west would stay on the bridge to Braddock Road.

Avirett said the planning commission's route would provide as good a bypass for traffic on Routes 220 and 40 at about half the estimated $7,000,000 cost of the expressway, without cutting into the heart of town.

Survey Is Cited

William F. Childs, chief engineer for the SRC, said the city doesn't have enough through traffic to justifly a route that would be solely a bypass.

He said a traffic survey conducted here in 1950 showed that only about 6½ per cent of the total counted traffic was "bypassable" traffic.

What the city needs, Childs asserted, is a route that could function as a bypass and as a congestion-relieving expressway for local traffic. The crosstown expressway, he pointed out, would provide easy access to the downtown area.

Letter Disclosed

Pritchett said the commission had been studying the proposal in detail since Avirett submitted it by letter two months ago. The letter was disclosed publicly for the first time at yesterday's meeting.

Pritchett said that his department had been unable to figure grades of less than 19 per cent, although he said SRC engineers could have had inaccurate information. He said he would like to talk the plan over with Paye, who drew it.

McCain said the State Roads Commission would give thorough consideration to whichever plan the city decides it prefers after a public meeting as proposed by Mayor Eves.

He suggested that members of the commission meet again with members of the Mayor and Council and the planning commission after the city has decided on its position.

Fresh Air Kids From New York

These 10 little visitors from New York city, are guests of ten Pinto and Rawlings area families. They arrived here last evening under the joint sponsorship of the New York Fresh Air Fund and members of the Pinto Mennonite Church. This is the first time these youngsters have ever had a chance to visit anywhere outside densely populated New York City. They will spend at least two weeks as guests in ten local homes. Left to right, front row are Michael Neglia, Catherine Kelly, Kathleen Wheeler, Maureen Grady and Ann Kosta. Back row are, Frank Lucente, Anthony Zuppardi, Evangeline Roca, Patricia Cribbin and Joyce Florida.

Happy Vacation Time For Ten N. Y. Youngsters Begins Here

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT

Ten little New Yorkers, who never saw a cow or a pig, or a chicken—who never felt the feel of fresh green grass between the toes of their little barefeet...who never had a train ride before...and who never lived away from home overnight ... arrived at the Queen City station last evening right from the biggest city in the world to the warm greetings of ten local families.

It wasn't any kind of publicity stunt, and we almost didn't hear about it at all. But it was the kind of thing we wouldn't want to miss ... and wish everyone could have been there.

This is how it happened.

Church Sponsors Move

Members of the Pinto Mennonite Church, mostly farm people in that fast growing area, sparked by Mrs. Harry Barton and a couple of others, decided they would like to share their blessings with some city children who could use and would enjoy a summer vacation away from home.

After talking about the idea some months during the winter, and after much correspondence with New York's Fresh Air Fund, it was decided that 10 families would serve as hosts to as many little New Yorkers for two weeks.

The Pinto people discovered the idea is not entirely a new one. In fact, this is the 71st year the plan has been sponsored by the New York Fresh Air Fund. It is designed to have people like this local group, in rural, semi-rural or small town areas, just open their homes and hearts to one or more of the city-borne and city-bound children.

Gives Children Vacation

The idea of course is to give the children of New York's densely populated areas a vacation out of the heat and the dirt and the crowds, away somewhere in fresh, clean open areas.

The idea is to give the children the fun and experience of a vacation away from their oftimes sordid surroundings.

The idea is to broaden the outlook of these youngsters and bring into their lives a new spark of happiness.

The idea too, is to educate them in the ways of life of people who do not live in New York.

At the Baltimore and Ohio station, however, while waiting for the train to come in, it was interesting to note an air of expectancy on the part of the mothers and fathers and children who are playing host to the little New Yorkers.

Doubtless, as the train neared Cumberland, the 10 little visitors became more excited too. They had already followed the rules of the social workers in New York very carefully. They had submitted to physocal examinations and close investigation of their homelife and their backgrounds. They hoped and perhaps prayed in their own individual ways that nothing would upset this chance at a wonderful vacation away from New York.

Mothers Are Concerned

The mothers here seemed most concerned. The fathers just stood around and grinned broadly, determined to make the best of whatever stepped off the train.

The mothers seemed in agreement that it was a wonderful project they had embarked upon. They were prepared for the worst . . . and the best. But one of them summed it up something like this, "I imagine the poor children are as scared and excited as we are. I just hope they won't be disappointed in us."

And then the train came in.

There was a rush to a car where passengers were getting off. A railroad passenger agent in charge of the brood checked to make sure the local people were on hand. Then he filed out with 10 smiling little people. Well, nine of them were smiling, and one, the tiniest of the lot, was a little scared and very near to tears.

Like Pictures Taken

Meeting their hosts was a little bit confusing, but the idea of having their picture taken broke the ice and brought forth shouts of glee and more bright smiles.

Mrs. Barton and her committee quickly got each child attached to the family responsible and there were greetings and the fun of getting acquainted all around.

Looking over the scene of excitement, bewilderment and confusion . . . which lasted only a couple of minutes . . . one got the impression that the mothers and the dads and the kids from this area liked what they saw.

And one also got the impression that 10 little New Yorkers weren't disappointed in what they saw either.

One little girl who discovered she would have two "sisters" near her own age, at the house where she is staying, just smiled and smiled and smiled. Finally she just said "Gee whiz."

Will Spend Two Weeks

The little guests, with their meagre baggage, were soon hustled off to waiting family cars and taken to the homes where they will spend two weeks. If some of them are lucky, they might be invited to stay extra time. It all depends on how everything works out.

And if first impressions mean anything, it looked like dad and mother and their kids might just decide on entertaining their particular little guest longer than two weeks.

In fact, if some of the picnics and swimming parties, and hikes and motor trips and other events planned for the visitors aren't pretty well scheduled, it will take more than two weeks to do it all.

Visitors Are Listed

Joyce Florida with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Yoder, Pinto.

Mary Ann Kosta, with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson, Pinto.

Evangeline Roca, with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Blouch, Pinto.

Kathleen Wheeler, with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Moreland, Pinto.

Forgiveness Time Being Observed At Public Library

For the fifth successive year the Cumberland Free Public Library is observing July as Firgiveness Month.

All patrons who return overdue books during July will be relieved of paying fines on them, Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian stressed. Last year several hundred long overdue books were returned to the library in Forgiveness Month.

Miss Walsh said there are a number of factors which prevent persons from returning books when they are due. The most frequently cited reason is illness.

Weather

Yesterday was one of the most pleasant July days experienced here in several years, with moderate temperatures and cooling breezes highlighting a bright, sunny day. The official high for the 24-hour period at Constitution Park was a moderate 78 degrees while the low was 59. At 8:30 last night the weather bureau reported the thermometer reading at 70 degrees. Humidity was 49 per cent. Fair and cooler weather is forecast for today and tomorrow.

Youth Is Hurt In Cycle Crash

A West Side youth was hospitalized here last night after his motorcycle crashed against the side of a car on U. S. Route 40 near Cash Valley Road.

Jack Donald Evans, 17, of 217 Greene Street, was in "good" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital with a possible fracture of the right ankle and brush burns.

State Police Trooper Joseph V. Stakem said Evans' motorcycle collided with a car driven by Mrs. Sarah Jane Forsburg, New Bedford, Mass., at about 6:15 p. m.

Trooper Stakem said both vehicles were following a C & W bus when it stopped just beyond Cash Valley Road to discharge passengers. The car pulled out to pass with the motorcycle following.

The car then made a left turn into a private drive, Stakem said, and the motorcycle smashed into the side of the car. Mrs. Forsburg took young Evans to the local hospital. Neither vehicle was badly damaged. No charges were filed pending further investigation.

SRC Hears Local Citizens' Plea For Changes In Two Road Plans

Views Aired At City Hall Session Here

Route 220, Industrial Belt Route Ideas Will Be Considered

BY BERNARD E. SITTER

Cumberland yesterday received assurance that the State Roads Commission will give careful consideration to proposed changes in two of its major local highway projects.

The promise came from Russell H. McCain of Frederick, SRC chairman, at a meeting with the Mayor and Council, the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, members of the General Assembly from Allegany County, and property owners.

Decisions Soon

McCain said the commission would reach decisions soon as to whether or not it could follow the local recommendations. All affect projects which are part of the commission's 12-year road building program.

Under consideration at the meeting were plans to:

1. Improve Frederick Street from North Mechanic Street to the city line to make it a one-way northbound lane in an improved U. S. 220, with Bedford Street as the southbound lane.

2. Construct an Industrial Belt Route linking State Route 51 (Oldtown Road) more directly with the business and industrial districts, and to open up unused areas for industrial growth.

The much-discussed Frederick Street project was the first subject opened for discussion by Mayor Roy W. Eves, who conducted the meeting.

Financing Is Issue

Recent controversy over the project has centered on the method of financing it. A tentative agreement between the city and the SRC provides that the work be done as a federal urban-aid project. That means the city, the property owners or both would pay half the estimated $500,000 cost, and the federal government the other half. Frederick Street property owners want the SRC to pay the half not borne by the federal government.

Atorney George R. Hughes Jr., who said he represented some 250 property owners who belong to the Frederick Street Improvement Association, said the residents didn't feel they could bear the expense.

Hughes pointed out that the necessity for a wide, main traffic artery would make the project much more expensive than if it were to be merely a residential street. He also said the one-way street would be of more use to the state highway system than to people who live along the proposed route.

Some of the lots involved, Hughes said, are so shallow that the assessments for paving might cost the property owners more than the lots are worth.

"No Parking" Signs

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan pointed out that the Bedford Street project, other leg of the Route 220 plan, would mean "no parking" signs for some 1,500 feet of the street's length.

McCain said the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads demanded that parking be prohibited on such a narrow street before accepting the street as an urban-aid development.

William F. Childs, chief engineer of the commission, said the SRC did not have final authority to pass on the project.

McCain said it is not the policy of the SRC to bear the expense of any construction on streets which are not already part of the state highway system. In answer to a question from Hughes, he said the commission did help Oakland improve a street which is a part of the highway system. Oakland, he pointed out, is too small to be eligible for federal aid.

Delegate Charles M. See asked City Engineer Charles F. Nuzum if the need for a 15-inch stone base on Frederick Street would not mean higher paving assessments for property owners than if an ordinary street were being built.

Nuzum said no, since half the cost would be borne by the government.

No Full Review

McCain said the commission has not had opportunity for a full review of the Frederick Street project, but that it would consider the financing proposal carefully at its next meeting.

The SRC also was asked to move up its plans for beginning construction of the Industrial Belt Route, which is not scheduled to be started for at least four years.

F. Perry Smith, representing the South Cumberland Business Men's Association, said the need for the belt route is immediate, and that the city's traffic problem and its industrial growth are being hampered by lack of such a route.

Crosstown Bridge Again In Discussion

(Picture on Page 8)

The proposed crosstown bridge, which has been popping up in various forms for 20 years, was a major topic of discussion yesterday as city officials and State Roads Commission representatives talked over local aspects of the SRC's 12-year building program.

James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, touched off an involved discussion when he announced that the planning commission, which has long favored a crosstown expressway, now wants an alternate plan instead.

Avirett, recalling that the planning commission was plugging for a crosstown viaduct back when most people opposed it, said he now feels the commission and other proponents may have been "out of step" all these years.

Would Bypass City

It would be much better, he said, if a new and entirely new route were to be constructed so through traffic could bypass the city. The State Roads Commission officials disagreed.

And Mayor Roy W. Eves said he thought a public hearing should be held so the Mayor and Council can sound out the opinions of the public before deciding which plan it will favor.

Avirett protested that the crosstown plan, already included in the 12-year program, would "blight and impair" the downtown section and parts of West Side, and that it would cut across the Dingle.

The planning commission's idea, he said, is to join Valley Road to Bedford Road at the Pennsylvania line, improve Valley Road and tie it into Henderson Avenue. The avenue would become a four-lane throughfare from Valley Street westward, and the existing overhead bridge on the avenue would be widened and extended across Wills Creek and the Western Maryland Railway to Haystack Mountain, where the route would join Braddock Road.

Does Not Hit Dingle

Norman M. Pritchett, locations engineer for the roads commission, pointed out that the crosstown plan already under study would not cut through the Dingle, and that it would not hurt the property values of any expensive homes.

Pritchett said the route would start on Baltimore Avenue (U. S. 40) at Lindnerville, go to Williams Street near the Queen City Station, then under the railroad tracks to a bridge over the Potomac. It would follow the levee to be built along the Potomac in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project, then swing overhead to the Ridgedale reservoir section, and join U. S. 220 on the southern slope of Dingle Hill, beyond the Dingle. Traffic going to Route 40 west would stay on the bridge to Braddock Road.

Avirett said the planning commission's route would provide as good a bypass for traffic on Routes 220 and 40 at about half the estimated $7,000,000 cost of the expressway, without cutting into the heart of town.

Survey Is Cited

William F. Childs, chief engineer for the SRC, said the city doesn't have enough through traffic to justify a route that would be solely a bypass.

He said a traffic survey conducted here in 1950 showed that only about 6½ per cent of the total counted traffic was "bypassable" traffic.

What the city needs, Childs asserted, is a route that could function as a bypass and as a congestion-relieving expressway for local traffic. The crosstown expressway, he pointed out, would provide easy access to the downtown area.

Letter Disclosed

Pritchett said the commission had been studying the proposal in detail since Avirett submitted it by letter two months ago. The letter was disclosed publicly for the first time at yesterday's meeting.

Pritchett said that his department had been unable to figure grades of less than 19 per cent, although he said SRC engineers could have had inaccurate information. He said he would like to talk the plan over with Paye, who drew it.

McCain said the State Roads Commission would give thorough consideration to whichever plan the city decides it prefers after a public meeting as proposed by Mayor Eves.

He suggested that members of the commission meet again with members of the Mayor and Council and the planning commission after the city has decided on its position.

Plan Public Hearing On Zoning Changes

The Mayor and Council will hold a public hearing in about three weeks on four proposed amendments to the city's zoning ordinance.

All received the approval of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission at a meeting with members of the Mayor and Council yesterday.

Anthony F. Saeli, commission member, recalled that two of the proposals aroused great controversy when the commission held a hearing June 17.

The proposals would:

1. Classify Lots 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16 of Johnson Heights at the intersection of Louisiana Avenue and Hill Top Drive as a business district.

2. Make Williams Street a business district between the city limits and Hill Top Drive.

3. Make all of Maryland Avenue which is not now an industrial district a business district.

4. Change the east side of Fayette Street between Washington and Greene streets to a Residential A district.

Commission Chairman James Alfred Avirett said controversy over the first proposal arose because some residents of the section did not want a business concern, such as a garage, located at the Johnson Heights address.

Avirett Discounts Plan

Avirett said the city should discount this, because a neighborhood shopping and business center is needed in that area. Benjamin W. O'Rourke, a member of the commission, said the city needs the tax revenue from a business firm, and pointed out that the lot is not suitable for residential construction.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long, who lives in the section, said many of his neighbors have told him they oppose the change. He pointed out that more than 60 signed a petition opposing the rezoning.

City Engineer Charles F. Nuzum said that the lots, which consist of a large shale bank, are not now "a thing of beauty," and the city would be better off to let a business firm locate there.

Eves Proposes Hearing

Mayor Eves said he thought the matter could be settled only after the Council had heard from citizens at a public hearing.

Saeli also pointed out that five people opposed the Williams Street rezoning at the commission's hearing, and that two favored it. Three people opposed the Maryland Avenue amendment, but there seemed to be no great objection to the Fayette Street plan.

Mayor Eves said he will ask the Council Monday to set a date for a hearing.

Amcelle Honors Four Employes

Two women and two men employes were presented gold watches by R. Finley Thompson, plant manager, on the 25th anniversary of their employment at Amcelle yesterday.

Honored were Louise P. Pownall, 218 Arch Street, who is an examiner and packer in the Twisting Examination Section of the Textile Department. She is the departmental chairman for the Twisting Examination Section of Local 1874, TWUA. Mrs. Pownall has been a widow for some years. She has two daughters and four grandchildren.

Bertha E. Wagus, Eckhart, who is an attendant in Block No. 1 Textile washrooms. She has been a widow for more than 37 years. Mrs. Wagus has one daughter and two grandchildren.

Albert J. Dickinson, 735 Maryland Avenue, who works steady "cat-eye" in the Spinning Department as a chargehand and examiner. Dickinson is married and the father of a girl and three boys. His favorite hobby is hunting.

Thomas A. Dougherty, 709 Lincoln Street, who is a specialist in the Spinning Engineering Section. Dougherty's specialty is maintenance and repair work on spinning pumps. He is married and the father of five daughters and three sons. As a member of the Knights of Columbus, he holds the third degree.

The respective superintendents of the employes' departments and the plant engineer awarded engraved 25-year certificates of service and the distinctive gold five-star "Celanese" service emblem.

School Board Meets Monday

The Allegany County Board of Education will meet Monday instead of Tuesday next week because of a schedule conflict.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster and Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools, plan to leave Tuesday afternoon so they will be able to attend a session of the first Maryland Institute of Public Affairs at Towson State Teachers College Wednesday morning.

The institute which begins Monday and runs until Friday, July 24, is sponsored by the State Teachers Association. About 100 teachers are expected to attend including two representatives of the Allegany County Teachers Association. They are Miss Gertrude A. Happy Vacation Time For Ten N. Y. Youngsters Begins Here

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT

Ten little New Yorkers, who never saw a cow or a pig, or a chicken—who never felt the feel of fresh green grass between the toes of their little barefeet...who never had a train ride before...and who never lived away from home overnight ... arrived at the Queen City station last evening right from the biggest city in the world to the warm greetings of ten local families.

It wasn't any kind of publicity stunt, and we almost didn't hear about it at all. But it was the kind of thing we wouldn't want to miss ... and wish everyone could have been there.

This is how it happened.

Church Sponsors Move

Members of the Pinto Mennonite Church, mostly farm people in that fast growing area, sparked by Mrs. Harry Barton and a couple of others, decided they would like to share their blessings with some city children who could use and would enjoy a summer vacation away from home.

After talking about the idea some months during the winter, and after much correspondence with New York's Fresh Air Fund, it was decided that 10 families would serve as hosts to as many little New Yorkers for two weeks.

The Pinto people discovered the idea is not entirely a new one. In fact, this is the 71st year the plan has been sponsored by the New York Fresh Air Fund. It is designed to have people like this local group, in rural, semi-rural or small town areas, just open their homes and hearts to one or more of the city-borne and city-bound children.

Gives Children Vacation

The idea of course is to give the children of New York's densely populated areas a vacation out of the heat and the dirt and the crowds, away somewhere in fresh, clean open areas.

The idea is to give the children the fun and experience of a vacation away from their oftimes sordid surroundings.

The idea is to broaden the outlook of these youngsters and bring into their lives a new spark of happiness.

The idea too, is to educate them in the ways of life of people who do not live in New York.

At the Baltimore and Ohio station, however, while waiting for the train to come in, it was interesting to note an air of expectancy on the part of the mothers and fathers and children who are playing host to the little New Yorkers.

Doubtless, as the train neared Cumberland, the 10 little visitors became more excited too. They had already followed the rules of the social workers in New York very carefully. They had submitted to physocal examinations and close investigation of their homelife and their backgrounds. They hoped and perhaps prayed in their own individual ways that nothing would upset this chance at a wonderful vacation away from New York.

Mothers Are Concerned

The mothers here seemed most concerned. The fathers just stood around and grinned broadly, determined to make the best of whatever stepped off the train.

The mothers seemed in agreement that it was a wonderful project they had embarked upon. They were prepared for the worst . . . and the best. But one of them summed it up something like this, "I imagine the poor children are as scared and excited as we are. I just hope they won't be disappointed in us."

And then the train came in.

There was a rush to a car where passengers were getting off. A railroad passenger agent in charge of the brood checked to make sure the local people were on hand. Then he filed out with 10 smiling little people. Well, nine of them were smiling, and one, the tiniest of the lot, was a little scared and very near to tears.

Like Pictures Taken

Meeting their hosts was a little bit confusing, but the idea of having their picture taken broke the ice and brought forth shouts of glee and more bright smiles.

Mrs. Barton and her committee quickly got each child attached to the family responsible and there were greetings and the fun of getting acquainted all around.

Looking over the scene of excitement, bewilderment and confusion . . . which lasted only a couple of minutes . . . one got the impression that the mothers and the dads and the kids from this area liked what they saw.

And one also got the impression that 10 little New Yorkers weren't disappointed in what they saw either.

One little girl who discovered she would have two "sisters" near her own age, at the house where she is staying, just smiled and smiled and smiled. Finally she just said "Gee whiz."

Will Spend Two Weeks

The little guests, with their meagre baggage, were soon hustled off to waiting family cars and taken to the homes where they will spend two weeks. If some of them are lucky, they might be invited to stay extra time. It all depends on how everything works out.

And if first impressions mean anything, it looked like dad and mother and their kids might just decide on entertaining their particular little guest longer than two weeks.

In fact, if some of the picnics and swimming parties, and hikes and motor trips and other events planned for the visitors aren't pretty well scheduled, it will take more than two weeks to do it all.

Visitors Are Listed

Youth Is Hurt In Cycle Crash

A West Side youth was hospitalized here last night after his motorcycle crashed against the side of a car on U. S. Route 40 near Cash Valley Road.

Jack Donald Evans, 17, of 217 Greene Street, was in "good" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital with a possible fracture of the right ankle and brush burns.

State Police Trooper Joseph V. Stakem said Evans' motorcycle collided with a car driven by Mrs. Sarah Jane Forsburg, New Bedford, Mass., at about 6:15 p. m.

Trooper Stakem said both vehicles were following a C & W bus when it stopped just beyond Cash Valley Road to discharge passengers. The car pulled out to pass with the motorcycle following.

The car then made a left turn into a private drive, Stakem said, and the motorcycle smashed into the side of the car. Mrs. Forsburg took young Evans to the local hospital. Neither vehicle was badly damaged. No charges were filed pending further investigation.
